REPORT OF THE INEQUALITY PANEL

Background Information
The Scrutiny Committee in 2014/15 commissioned the Inequality Panel to undertake a time-limited review that would draw together a number of related topics that City Councillors wanted to explore.
The Committee agreed on 10 November 2014 that the main aims of the review would be to:

1. Understand the scale, reasons and impact of inequality in Oxford.
2. Identify specific areas where the City Council can make the most difference in combatting inequality.
3. Make deliverable, evidence-based recommendations that are co-produced with local citizens or stakeholders where possible.

Why is it on the agenda?

For the Scrutiny Committee to review and comment on the report of the Inequality Panel before it goes to CEB on 9 July 2015.

Who has been invited to comment?

Councillor Coulter, the Chair of the Inequality Panel, and Andrew Brown, Scrutiny Officer will present the report and answer questions.

WORK PROGRAMME AND FORWARD PLAN

Background Information

The Scrutiny Committee operates within a work programme which has been set for the 2015/16 council year. This programme will be reviewed at every meeting so that it can be adjusted to reflect the wishes of the Committee and take account of any changes to the latest Forward Plan (which outlines decisions to be taken by the City Executive Board or Council).

Why is it on the agenda?

The Scrutiny Committee is asked to set the priorities for its work programme for the 2015/16 council year.

In particular the Committee is asked to consider:

- Which suggested future scrutiny items / reviews should be a priority.
- Whether any salient issues or topics are missing from the work programme.

The Committee may wish to appoint lead members for priority reviews and ask for these to be scoped before the next meeting of the Scrutiny Committee.

The Committee is asked to select which Forward Plan items they wish to pre-scrutinise based on the following criteria:

- Is the issue controversial / of significant public interest?
- Is it an area of high expenditure?
• Is it an essential service / corporate priority?
• Can Scrutiny influence and add value?

A maximum of three items for pre-scrutiny will normally apply.

Who has been invited to comment?
Andrew Brown, Scrutiny Officer will present the work programme, answer questions and support the Committee in its decision making.

9 APPOINTMENT OF CHAIR FOR THE HOUSING PANEL

The Housing Panel met on 4 June 2015 and was unable to elect a Chair. On advice from the Monitoring Officer, the decision to appoint a Chair has been referred to the Scrutiny Committee.

The following councillors have been nominated and may wish to briefly explain why they would like to chair the Housing Panel:
• Cllr Sam Hollick
• Cllr Linda Smith

10 REPORT BACK ON RECOMMENDATIONS

Background Information

The Committee makes a number of recommendations to officers and decision makers, who are obliged to respond in writing.

Why is it on the agenda?

This item allows Committee to see the results of recommendations since the last meeting and the cumulative results of all scrutiny recommendations.

Since the last meeting the following items have resulted in recommendations to the City Executive Board:

• Report of the Local Economy Scrutiny Committee
• Covered Market Leasing Strategy
• Housing Asset Management Strategy (Housing Panel)
• Review of the HMO Licencing Scheme (Housing Panel)

The city centre PSPO report has been deferred to a future CEB meeting.

Who has been invited to comment?
Andrew Brown, Scrutiny Officer will present the report.

19 January 2015
3 February 2015

All meetings being at 6.15 pm.
DECLARING INTERESTS

General duty

You must declare any disclosable pecuniary interests when the meeting reaches the item on the agenda headed “Declarations of Interest” or as soon as it becomes apparent to you.

What is a disclosable pecuniary interest?

Disclosable pecuniary interests relate to your* employment; sponsorship (i.e., payment for expenses incurred by you in carrying out your duties as a councillor or towards your election expenses); contracts; land in the Council’s area; licences for land in the Council’s area; corporate tenancies; and securities. These declarations must be recorded in each councillor’s Register of Interests which is publicly available on the Council’s website.

Declaring an interest

Where any matter disclosed in your Register of Interests is being considered at a meeting, you must declare that you have an interest. You should also disclose the nature as well as the existence of the interest.

If you have a disclosable pecuniary interest, after having declared it at the meeting you must not participate in discussion or voting on the item and must withdraw from the meeting whilst the matter is discussed.

Members’ Code of Conduct and public perception

Even if you do not have a disclosable pecuniary interest in a matter, the Members’ Code of Conduct says that a member “must serve only the public interest and must never improperly confer an advantage or disadvantage on any person including yourself” and that “you must not place yourself in situations where your honesty and integrity may be questioned”. What this means is that the matter of interests must be viewed within the context of the Code as a whole and regard should continue to be paid to the perception of the public.

*Disclosable pecuniary interests that must be declared are not only those of the member her or himself but also those of the member’s spouse, civil partner or person they are living with as husband or wife or as if they were civil partners.

Report of: Head of Community Services

Summary

Purpose of report: To provide a performance update of the city’s leisure management contract with Fusion Lifestyle, April 2014 to March 2015.

Key decision: Yes

Report author: Head of Community Services

Policy Framework:

- Strong, Active Communities
- Efficient, Effective Council

Appendix Seven (a) - Carbon measurements 2013 to 2015 – Including facilities closed in December 2014.
Appendix Seven (b) - Carbon measurements 2013 to 2015 – with Leys Pools and Leisure Centre open, December 2014.
Appendix Eight - Leys Pools and Leisure Centre Sports Hall Lighting
Background

1.1 In March 2009 the council entered into a contract with Fusion Lifestyle (Fusion), a social enterprise with charitable status, to manage the Council’s Leisure Facilities. The initial contract was for ten years, with a five year extension clause.

1.2 The contract has greatly improved the user experience, alongside achieving cumulative revenue savings of around £1,360,000 per year.

1.3 Over this period, facilities have been greatly improved with around £14.4 million of capital investment, which has in the main been funded by the contract savings. (Appendix One - Leisure Centre Capital Investment)

1.4 In February 2014 the City Executive Board agreed to enact the extension clause and extend the contract to for the development, management and operation of the City’s leisure centres for a five year period to April 2024.

1.5 The cost of the core leisure management contract to the council is fixed according to an agreed payment schedule for the period of the contract. The fee has reduced following investment in improved quality facilities, and is based on charging a market rate for those who can afford it, whilst offering concessions to those on low incomes.

1.6 The Council has a contractual relationship under which the council’s leisure facilities are managed by Fusion. The Leisure Management Agreement sets out the range of contractual requirements with which Fusion must comply. Fusion’s delivery of their Annual Service Plan is a contractual commitment.

1.7 In 2014/15 The Leisure Management Contract incorporated the service delivery of the Council’s seven leisure facilities;

- Barton Leisure Centre
- Leys Pools and Leisure Centre
- Blackbird Leys Swimming Pool (Closed December 2014)
- Ferry Leisure Centre
- Hinksey Outdoor Pool
- Oxford Ice Rink
- Temple Cowley Pools (Closed December 2014).

1.8 The final action of the Leisure Facilities Strategy 2009 was completed in December 2014; Temple Cowley Pools and Blackbird Leys Pool were closed and replaced by the new Leys Pools and Leisure Centre.

1.9 This report sets out performance of the leisure facilities managed on behalf of the Council by Fusion April 2014 to March 2015, and where comparison data is available performance against previous year’s delivery.

1.10 The committee have asked for a significant volume of information within this report and as such a lot of officer time has been spent on collating the data. It is proposed that a dashboard report is used to update on the contract going forward.

Value for money

2.1 The annual number of visits, management fee and contract utilities costs for March 2009 onwards has been used to demonstrate the overall subsidy per visit. This is an industry based calculation and allows us to consistently performance benchmark delivery of leisure management.

2.2 The pre transfer subsidy for leisure centres was £2.33 per visit. The subsidy per visit in 2014/15 reduced to £0.54.¹

2.3 The 2014/15 subsidy per visit by facility is demonstrated in Appendix Two -Leisure Centre Subsidy per visit by Facility 2014/15.

2.4 Competitor benchmarking against neighbouring leisure providers demonstrated that fees and charges in city leisure facilities continue to be at least comparable.

2.5 Since commencement of the contract there has been no increase to the price of the Bonus concessionary membership scheme. This offer gives those in receipt of one of 15 eligible benefits, and their dependents, reduced rates on activities at all our leisure facilities.

2.6 The five year extension to April 2024 guarantees a saving to the Council, resulting in the operation of the leisure centres reducing to approximately zero cost by 2017/18.

2.7 Savings from the contract with Fusion are already reflected in the council’s budget and the risk for achieving these is Fusion’s.

2.8 The management agreement contains provisions to share profits that are made above those agreed when the contract was agreed. No overall surplus above contracted performance was achieved in the 2014/15 period, so profit share arrangement does not apply.

Participation

3.2 The overall number of visits to leisure facilities in 2014/15, more than 1.3 million, increased 53 per cent since contract commencement; 450,000 more visits per annum when compared with the period prior to the transfer to Fusion. (Appendix Three - Leisure Centre visits 2008 to 2015; Appendix Four Leisure Centre visits 2014 to 2015).
3.5 In 2014/15 the number of visits to leisure facilities by target groups increased 134 per cent from the 2009/10 baseline year. The biggest percentage uplift is in target groups. 276,000 more visits per annum to leisure facilities when compared with the first year of the contract.

(Appendix Five - Leisure Centre Target group visits 2010 to 2015)

3.6 The number of visits by Women and Girls has increased 6 per cent year on year; an increase of more than 24,500 visits. Leys Pools and Leisure Centre had a noted increase of more than 36,000 visits for women and girls.

3.7 Swimming by older people has increased year on year by 55 per cent; just under 12,500 more visits.

3.8 Under 17’s free swimming increased year on year 36 per cent; more than 13,400 visits.

3.9 More than 104,000 Learn 2 swim programme and schools swimming lessons were completed in 2014/15.
Sports and Community Development

4.1 Fusion’s Oxford Sports and Community Development Manager (SCD) works closely with the Council’s existing team and with other relevant partners to identify and deliver effective sports development processes and delivery.

4.2 The SCD Manager works alongside the Oxford Divisional Business Manager and each of the General Managers to develop facility sport programmes, to work with local partners and to create a structure for successful delivery of sport and physical activity across facilities.

4.3 Fusion work with a wide range of National Governing Bodies recognised by Sport England, such as:

- Amateur Swimming Association
- English Squash and Racketball
- Badminton England
- National Ice Skating Association
- Royal Lifesaving Society
- British Gymnastics

4.4 Examples of local stakeholders include:

- City of Oxford Swimming Club
- Community Organisations
- Education and schools
- Older & Youth People representatives
- Oxford Sports Partnership
- Oxford Swans Disability Swimming
- Oxfordshire County Council
- Public Health practitioners
- User Group representatives

4.5 Working in partnership with the Council, Fusions Commonwealth Games event at Leys Pools and Leisure Centre engaged more than 350 city primary school pupils.

- Orchard Meadow
- Windale Primary
- St Mary and St John.

The event consisted of 25 minute taster sessions of Commonwealth Games sports, including netball, badminton, athletics, table tennis and boxing fitness. The event was divided up into morning sessions for years 3 and 4 students and afternoon sessions for years 5 and 6.
4.6 Working in partnership with Oxford Community Badminton Network consisting of representatives from Oxfordshire Sports Partnership, Oxford City Council and Oxfordshire Badminton, 95 young people engaged with a Badminton Bisi\textsuperscript{2} Festival.

4.7 Fun Fitness Sessions were delivered to approximately 500 children across city primary school events including:

- Commonwealth Baton Relay Event
- Headington World Sports Day

4.8 50 young people from local primary schools visited the Leys Pools and Leisure Centre for a water safety talk provided by Fusion followed by a tour of the development site.

4.9 Fusion attended a wide range of community outreach events across the city including:

<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>

At each event they offered a row challenge and took the Oxford Mascots Marvin the penguin or Ollie the Octopus. (Appendix – Sports and Community Development Outreach pictures).

4.10 Other projects delivered by Fusion include:

- Successfully transferring the learn to swim programme from two closed centre across to the Leys Pools and Leisure Centre
- A new swim school on-line management system - Learn 2 –was introduced to Oxford pools and swimming instructors. A parent portal will follow soon giving real time updates on pupil progression.
- Successful mapping for development of the Learn 2 swim programme have swimming stages 1 to 7 being available at one time.
- Creation of a new group working with the City of Oxford Swimming Club to reduce drop out from swimming from the club and create an exit route from learn to swim programme.

\textsuperscript{2}Bisi Badminton Festivals are an introduction to badminton. Festival activities are intended to provide success for all and opportunity for differentiation.
- Exercise on Referral scheme; generating 126 users.
- Enhancing partnerships with Badminton England – Leys Pools and Leisure Centre and Ferry Leisure Centre are play badminton sites
- Creating new 50+ weekly programmes.
- Winter swim at Hinksey Outdoor Pool; 88 swimmers taking part.

Carbon Management

5.1 A reduction in CO$_2$ has been achieved against a backdrop of a large increase in participation in 2015/16 compared to the previous year. A ca18 per cent reduction in CO$_2$ per visitor has been observed which indicates good progress with data as follows:

2.38 CO$_2$ per visit /kgCO$_2$ in 2014/15 compared to 2.92 in 2013/14

5.2 Further detail per site is shown in the two tables in Appendix Seven (a) - Carbon measurements 2013 to 2015 – Including facilities closed in December 2014 and Appendix Seven (b) - Carbon measurements 2013 to 2015 – with Leys Pools and Leisure Centre open, December 2014.

5.3 The council Energy team assisted by the Leisure team has continued to work with Fusion to implement energy efficiency/carbon reduction projects in leisure centres throughout the year.

5.4 In March 2015 a trial of two boiler optimisation units (M2Gs) at Barton Leisure Centre commenced with the aim of reducing unnecessary gas consumption due to boiler standing losses (dry-cycling). The proposed savings achievable are 12 per cent based on typical savings achieved with M2G units which equates to estimated savings of around £3,168 per year or 19.5 tonnes of CO$_2$ per year. The units are being monitored using the smart meters at the centre (which give more detailed consumption data) over the summer 2015 to assess performance in more detail.

5.5 Energy efficiency/carbon reduction projects to reduce electricity consumption, CO$_2$ emissions and energy costs have been implemented at Leys Pools and Leisure Centre with low energy lighting and controls being installed in the Sports Hall and also the Gym suite areas. The Sports Hall lighting project, (Appendix Eight - Leys Pools and Leisure Centre Sports Hall Lighting) is estimated to reduce:

3CO$_2$ per footfall is a metric endorsed by BSI Energy Standards – although not always a total causal link between footfall and consumption it’s still a useful metric/benchmarking activity.
• electricity consumption at the site by 41,800kWh
• annual electricity spend by an estimated £5,024
• carbon emissions by around 22.6 tCO₂ per year

The Gym lighting project, where LED lights and controls have been installed at the Leys Pools and Leisure Centre, is estimated to reduce:

• electricity consumption at the site by 26,000kWh
• annual electricity spend by an estimated £3,118
• carbon emissions by around 14 tCO₂ per year

Quality Assurance

6.1 A Performance Failure occurs in the event that Fusion fails to meet the requirements of the Performance Standards. In the case of failures, Fusion are given a defined rectification period in which to correct the failure without incurring any deduction.

6.2 Performance Failure that is not rectified within the relevant Rectification Period is deducted from the core management fee payment, this equated to a deduction payment of £10,250 in 2014/15.

6.3 Fusion has maintained International Standards 14001, 14002⁴ and 9001⁵ following external assessments.

6.4 Quest is designed primarily as a tool for continuous improvement for the management of leisure facilities and leisure development. It defines industry standards and good practice and encourages ongoing development within a customer focused management framework.⁶

6.5 Five leisure facilities continue to be accredited with the UK quality award scheme for sport and leisure, QUEST:

⁵ The ISO 9001 is a standard related to quality management systems and designed to help organizations ensure that they meet the needs of customers and other stakeholders.

Staffing

9.1 The Oxford Living Wage continues to be paid to employees and those engaged by Fusion in city leisure facilities.

9.2 In 2014/15 Fusions Oxford young apprentice gained full-time employment in a city leisure facility. Fusion are committed in 2015/16 to recruiting four apprentices across city facilities.

\(^9\) Customer Satisfaction is measured through Fusions ‘Please Tell Us What You Think’ system.
9.3 Just under 3,000 hours of learning and development has been completed by staff; 37 hours per permanent staff member.

Next steps

3.1 Fusions 2015/16 Annual Service Plan was endorsed by the City Executive Board in April 2015. Key objectives include:

- Accessible and affordable leisure opportunities through pricing structures at appropriate and inclusive levels.
- Improving health and well-being by positively promoting and delivering the benefits of healthy living and active lifestyles.
- Supporting the council’s Youth Ambition Programme
- Tackling climate change and promote sustainable environmental resource management providing quality through continuous improvement.
- Driving value for money by ensuring that the leisure offering is of a high standard and innovative.

3.2 There will be an on-going review and monitoring process for the leisure contact with Fusion Lifestyle. This will incorporate management scrutiny, monthly client performance reports, monthly meetings between key representatives of the Council and Fusion, quarterly Leisure Partnership Board meetings and a formal review in advance of the 2016/17 planning process.

Appendix Eight
Leys Pools and Leisure Centre Sports Hall Lighting

1. Project brief:

The purpose of this project is to reduce electricity consumption at the site, by specifying higher efficiency lighting with occupancy controls. This will result in lower electricity costs associated with a reduced lighting demand by the building.

The proposal specifies replacing the existing gas discharge high-bay lighting with efficient T5 fluorescent lighting and incorporating occupancy sensors to turn off lighting when the hall is vacant. These measures exceed Building Regulations and will improve the energy efficiency of the building.

A lighting simulation has been completed using Relux software with photometric data supplied by the manufacturer, which has produced the following calculation data and visual representation:
These calculations show that at 0.5 metres above floor level, the vast majority of the hall will exceed 300 lux with a uniformity rating (measure of lighting consistency) of 0.62. Sport England (Artificial Sports Lighting – Updated guidance for 2012) and British Standard (EN 12193:2007 Light and Lighting – Sports Lighting) quote 300 lux and a uniformity rating of 0.7 for most indoor sports at Class III: Community ‘level of play’. Visually there should also be a significant improvement in light levels compared to the existing setup.

2. Anticipated savings:

The survey, including estimated kWh/CO₂ savings, was undertaken by the Council’s Energy & Climate Change team, whilst project management including sourcing and installing the equipment will be undertaken by Fusion Lifestyle (the Council’s leisure provider) using their approved contractors.

The electricity savings estimates calculated by the Council’s Energy & Climate Change team are summarised in the following tables using the assumptions detailed below:

- Control gear in the existing luminaires consumes 15% of the rated lamp wattage
- Lighting in the sports hall is currently operational for 75% of the centre’s opening hours
- Occupancy controls will reduce the lighting operation time by 30%

The inclusion of occupancy controls will considerably reduce the payback period through delivering significant electricity savings for a small additional investment. The lighting manufacturer has advised on the most appropriate controls based on the existing wiring setup; this has now been confirmed and agreed with the installer and additional costs provided.

4. Salix compliance

This project qualifies for use of Salix<sup>11</sup> funding and is ready to proceed towards installation and completion.

Total technical cost proposed: £14,417.68

Total project cost (plus 10% Salix fund management): £15,859.44

5. Salix funding mechanism

On agreement to proceed with this project it is proposed that Fusion Lifestyle take on the overall project management including sourcing and installation of the equipment.

This is to include placing of the order and instructing the supplier/contractor to invoice Oxford City Council (quoting the relevant Salix Project codes on any invoicing).

Upon full commissioning of the installation, the savings will begin to be accrued.

A year after the agreed commissioning date, the first loan payment back into the fund would be due, paid over the following four years (based on the savings estimates - 3 x annual payments of approximately £5024 per year in the first three years and one final payment of £787.44). As Salix is a revolving loan fund, loan repayments go back into the Salix fund which can then be used for other Salix funded energy reduction projects across Oxford City Council buildings.

Overall the project will:

- Reduce electricity consumption at the site
- Reduce annual electricity spend by an estimated £5,024
- Reduce carbon emissions by around 22.6 tCO₂ per year
- Provide a more balanced way of funding the installation in smaller annual payments making full use of the available Salix fund

Report: Grant Monitoring Information for 2014/15

Summary and Recommendations

Purpose of report: To inform members of monitoring information returned by community & voluntary organisations awarded a grant by the City Council in 2014/15.

Key decision? No

Executive lead member: Councillor Rowley, Executive Board Member for Leisure, Parks and Sport

Policy Framework: Oxford City Council Corporate Plan primarily Strong & Active Communities

Recommendation(s):
The City Executive Board is ASKED to note the report.

Introduction

1. The Communities team ran four grant programmes during 2014/15. These programmes are in accordance with policy and prospectus agreed by Members.

The four grant programmes were:-
Community & Voluntary Organisations (CVO’s) Grants Programme
Youth Ambition Grants Programme
Social Inclusion Fund
Positive Futures Holiday Activities (monitoring feedback for this programme is reported separately and will be going to CEB later in the year)

2. The underspend is from the small grants programme and social inclusion fund. This is a result of careful evaluation and assessment of applications to establish what is needed for a project to be delivered.

3. During 2014/15, grants were awarded to 108 community and voluntary organisations and artists. The funding supported the delivery of a variety of projects from small community events to welfare benefits advice, community safety projects, training for volunteers and focused work with young people and the arts.

4. The majority of the groups funded through these programmes have received grant funding in previous years. However through the annual open bidding, small grants, social inclusion fund and youth ambition grants programmes 12 new organisations that the Council has not funded before were awarded a grant. Through our community engagement work more minority groups are being made more aware of the grant programmes and to promote the grant programmes wider social media mechanisms such as Facebook and Twitter are now being used.

5. £21,000 from the budget was made available for the commissioning of inclusive arts directly from the Arts & Culture team’s core budget. (Details of how this funding was spent can be found in Appendix 1).
Process for gathering monitoring information

6. One of the conditions for funding is that organisations agree to provide feedback. This is generally by completing a monitoring form, site visit by officer(s) or a combination of both.

7. Monitoring ensures that the funding is used for the purpose it was given and gather evidence of the impact of the grant funding. It also provides the opportunity to find out if there are any external factors affecting the voluntary sector and how the organisation is weathering those effects.

8. At the 3rd July 2014 meeting of the City Executive Board it was agreed that for those organisations that fail to return monitoring information they will incur a penalty. The penalty is that the organisation will not be eligible for funding for one year and funding awarded to them will be reclaimed. All organisations funded in 2014/15 were written to notifying them of the change.

9. From April 2015 it was reiterated in their award letters informing them of the dates when their completed monitoring forms are due back and reminding them about the penalty. For the future, terms and conditions for grant funding will be updated to ensure funded organisations are aware that funding will be clawed back if monitoring is not returned.

10. The process for dealing with non-returns is as follows:

   • Three weeks past the deadline a reminder is sent out with a copy of the monitoring form and the organisation is informed that if monitoring is not returned this will impact on any future funding requests the Council may receive from them.
   • Five weeks past the deadline a second reminder is sent with a copy of the monitoring form followed up by email or telephone call reminding them about the penalty the organisation can incur if monitoring is not returned.
   • If there is still no response a letter will be sent to the organisation to inform them that by not returning their monitoring information they are not eligible for funding for one financial year and an invoice is raised reclaiming the funding awarded to them.

11. The majority of organisations respond to the first reminder. All organisations have returned their monitoring information for 2014/15.

Addressing Council Priorities

12. The community grants programme provides funding to a range of community and voluntary organisations who help deliver Corporate Plan objectives.

13. Groups funded through the open bidding, small grants, social inclusion and youth ambition programmes deliver activities and events that bring communities together building community cohesion supporting the Corporate Priority of Strong, Active Communities.

14 Voluntary organisations funded through the grants commissioning programme will be delivering services that have been identified by the Council as making a substantial contribution to the achievement of our corporate goals and supporting people in need from the most disadvantaged groups in the city.

Challenging Funding Environment for the Voluntary Sector

15. Since the Government’s Comprehensive Spending Review in 2007 generally funding for the voluntary sector has slowly declined.

16. Through monitoring we are seeing stretched voluntary sector organisations spending more of their reserves on direct charity activity costs such as staff and bills.

17. Funding cuts are making themselves felt and with fewer funding sources available there is an increasing demand to grants providers.

18. Oxford City Council is receiving applications from organisations that in previous years would not have applied for funding such as those delivering care services and a far increased demand from organisations working with children and young people.

19. This was evidenced recently in March when the 2015/16 Youth Ambition grants programme opened for applications. The programme has a budget of £60,000 and the total amount requested was £101,621 compared to £45,430 in the same round last year. Consequently a review is currently on going to look at what the future implications might be for the Council.

20. We anticipate this trend to continue as further Government cuts are made.

Advice – General Trends

27. Oxford Citizens Advice Bureau (CAB) reported that the income profile of their client’s remains weighted towards those with least financial resource. A sample of 1,800 clients who gave information about their income levels in 2014/15 showed that 61% had incomes under £1,000 per month. This is made up of a mixture of things that include:-

- People in low paid full time work,
- People in low paid part time work and claiming benefits
- Or people just claiming benefits

28. Clients looking for help with debt problems continue to be one of the major issues people will visit an advice centre for. The total of client debt dealt with over the year amounts to £8,432,276. Priority debt (rent, mortgage, council tax etc) is still the biggest problem

29. Budgeting skills is built into the work the advice centres do with their clients. Ensuring that each client is helped to understand how their own budget works on a monthly basis and given the skills they need to help keep their finances under control.

Beneficiaries of the Grants Programme

30. The total number of people counted as benefitting from projects and activities funded through these grant programmes was 180,193.
31. It should be noted that one person might well have benefited from more than one project.

Climate Change / Environmental Impact

32. The report has no climate change or environmental implications.

Equalities Impact

33. Grant funding awarded to community and voluntary organisations has a significant and positive impact on equalities and promotes community cohesion. In particular, some grants actively support the achievement of equality by otherwise marginalised groups, such as funding supplied to Oxford Friend, to Oxford Sexual Abuse & Rape Crisis Centre and for a domestic violence case worker.

34. When applying for grant funding each organisation has to supply a copy of their equal opportunities statement to confirm they comply with this legislation.

Financial Impact

35. The recommendations have no financial implications.

Legal Implications

36. There are no legal implications.

Grants to Community & Voluntary Organisations

Baby Boogie is a unique, high quality interactive dance-focused events for children under 5 years and their families. The Baby Boogie activities are taught / facilitated by a team of professional dance artists and DJ, complimented by a team of young people from the Pegasus Members Committee who will deliver the wrap-around craft activities. Baby Boogie is an ideal opportunity to bring communities participating together. Participant feedback from all previous events at Pegasus Theatre evidences that at least 85% of participants are first-time engagers in dance activity. The event has proved extremely effective in developing a new audience for dance.

Digital Voices is a multidisciplinary project exploring the evolution of social media and the impact social media has had on language. Three new artist commissioned performance works will develop on the project’s concept. The filmed performance works will be supported by free to take pamphlets containing contextual information on the project, the works with additional artist texts. There were also participatory and live elements such as a live performance and talk in Oxford and an online artist project involving the use of social media activity.

To produce a full-length show, Politics of Love, at Arts at the Old Fire Station in March 2015 and as part of Dancing’ Oxford’s Dance Festival 2015. The production is the result of a successful period of R&D, and recent collaborations between Kuumba Nia Arts (Amantha Edmead) and Unlock the Chains Collective (Euton Daley) has prompted the making of it into a full-length piece. The book, a collection of performance poetry from which the stage version will emerge has been completed. The project successfully received Arts Council England funding following the offer of OCC Culture Fund awarded to it.

Justice in Motion launched JUST MOTION a series of professional dance classes and workshops designed to engage the local community in the company’s vision of spreading social justice and awareness through dance and physical theatre. Offering affordable and accessible dance classes at a professional level, a variety of workshops that coincide with the company’s overall goals, and free events that connect and inspire local community members to become active change-makers and the bring transformation to this broken world we live in.

Illuminating Oxford is a project bringing six primary schools and a community dance organisation together to create a dance performance for the Christmas Light Festival. The project was based on the theme of the festival, ‘See your city in a new light’, and was designed to add cultural value to the strengthen the festival’s community links.

APPENDIX 2 - Grant Monitoring Information for 2014-15

Case Study from the Domestic Abuse Outreach Worker
This is a live, relatively new on-going case. Names have been changed.

Background to the referral
A call was made by a head teacher from a local school to helpline who had received disclosures of physical abuse from a father, from a 12 year old child.

The head teacher was seeking some advice and support. Helpline advised the Head Teacher to complete a safeguarding referral to social care immediately.

Helpline called the mother of the child; she also made disclosures of both physical and emotional abuse from her husband, against herself and the children.

Helpline contacted social care and confirmed that case was picked up as urgent. Referral also made for the mother to receive some outreach support.

The domestic abuse outreach worker met with the mother and as this was their introductory meeting, we had a chat about her situation and completed some paperwork and talked about the support, both practical and emotional that the domestic abuse outreach worker could offer.

The mother was very clear that she was scared and undecided about what she wanted to do in real terms. She was very confused and upset with the involvement of social care. She said she welcomed support and wanted her children to be safe but felt judged, blamed and misunderstood in the initial assessment report from social services. The domestic abuse outreach worker took this opportunity to discuss with the mother at some length, the role of social services and how they are there to support her and to support her to make protective decisions for herself and her children.

The domestic abuse outreach worker made it clear to the mother that her role was to support her and to assist in her and her children’s safety not to judge or rush her into anything she was not ready to do.

This is a relatively new case; and will involve a lot of partnership working with other agencies to support this family. The mother is clear she wants her children to be safe and recognises that she is in need of support to enable her to do this. However there is a lot of confusion and the mother is very much overwhelmed.

The Child Protection case conference is pending.

Whilst the mother will need a lot of practical help such as referring/ signposting/ advising / providing numbers etc., a large part of the domestic abuse outreach workers support with the mother will be emotional, taking the time to listen, unpick situations occurring in her life and talk them through, to support, advice and help with confidence building.
ADVICE CENTRE CASE STUDIES

Debt is an increasing issue that people are seeking help with. Clients looking for help with debt problems continue to increase for all of the Advice Centres. The total of client debt dealt with, by all of the Advice Centres, over the year amounts to £8,432,276. They are all reporting that priority debt (rent, mortgage, council tax etc) is now the biggest problem.

There are a couple of ways the advice centres can help, first by helping them look realistically at their household budgets and how much they are spending. Liaising with their creditors and setting up informal repayment plans.

Another option is to apply for a Debt Relief Order (DRO).

Available from 2009, a DRO is a form of insolvency which is designed to help people who have relatively low debt (less than £15,000), little surplus income and few valuable assets - and who have no realistic chance of paying off their debts within a reasonable time.

There are strict rules for applying and anyone with assets worth over £300 or a motor vehicle worth more than £1,000 would not be eligible to apply.

There are disadvantages to a DRO it will appear on your credit rating for 6 years, it may affect some people’s ability to get credit in the future and they may not be able to open a bank account.

A DRO will last for a period of 12 months and during which time, any creditor named on the order cannot take any action to recover their money unless they have the courts permission. After which, the individual will be freed of the debts included in the order (unless their circumstances have significantly improved).

Certain debts such as student loans and fines cannot be written off.

DROs don’t involve the courts, and are run by The Insolvency Service in partnership with debt advisers known as ‘approved intermediaries’ - the people who actually help individuals apply to the Service for a DRO.

Debt Case Study from Oxford Community Work Agency (OCWA) at Barton

A couple went to OCWA in October 2013. They had been referred to them by Her Majesty’s Courts and Tribunal Service.

They are both in their 50s and both had been required to stop working due to health problems. He was left with debilitating symptoms following a brain haemorrhage and she had cerebella ataxia. They are owner occupiers with no mortgage, they have a council tax liability and were struggling to manage their household bills.

When they met us she was in receipt of contributions based Employment Support Allowance (ESA) at the assessment rate of £72.40 and he was in receipt of Disability Living Allowance (DLA) middle rate care component and lower rate mobility at £76.90, total income £149.30 a week.

OCWA were able to advise her to claim Carers Allowance in respect of his care needs and to pursue a claim to means tested ESA.
OCWA also advised on a mandatory revision against a refusal for income related ESA that was refused due to a question of capital. The decision was overturned in their favour as the savings had been used for living expenses prior to them being referred to OCWA.

OCWA advised her to claim Personal Independence Payments (PIP) in October 2013. A decision was made that she was not entitled to this benefit in July 2014. A mandatory revision request was made and in October 2014 the original decision was revised to award her standard rate mobility component but no daily living component.

OCWA appealed against this decision. A tribunal heard this appeal in January 2015 and increased the PIP award to standard rate daily living component and standard rate mobility component from October 2013.

His DLA had been reduced on renewal decision in early 2014 to lower rate care component and this was appealed. The appeal was prepared by OCWA and following a hearing of the appeal in June 2014, middle rate care component and lower rate mobility component was awarded back to April 2014.

Following the award of PIP and DLA a thorough review of the total benefits was undertaken and the income was increased to

- Disability Living Allowance at - £76.90
- Personal Independence Payment at - £76.90
- Employment and Support Allowance at £322.95 - total weekly income £476.75

They are entitled to full Local Council Tax Reduction.

This couple’s income was increased by £327.45. This has enabled them to retain their independence, to remain in their home and to manage their care with the additional support of the correctly assessed benefits

This work required two appeals, 2 mandatory revision requests and a specialist knowledge of the benefits system to navigate them through.

Debt Case Study from Oxford Citizens Advice Bureau Money Advice Worker who is based in St Aldates Chambers.

A woman was referred to the money advice worker by Oxford City Council’s Rent Team who feared that they would soon have to bring eviction proceedings.

This woman lives on her own in a 3 bedroom council owned accommodation. Her only source of income derived from income based Employment Support Allowance she claimed at the standard rate of £72.40 per week. Due to the two bedroom under-occupancy of the property after her children left home she was subject to a bedroom tax reduction of 25% taken each week from her Housing Benefit. This woman had a significant rent shortfall.

At the time of our interview this woman was not receiving any Discretionary Housing Payments to make up the under-occupancy shortfall.
Due to the unsustainable situation she was in, this woman had rent arrears of £1,764.

In addition to her rent arrears, this woman had a number of priority debts including Council Tax, Child Tax Credit overpayments, gas, electricity and water arrears and significant non-priority debt, including loans she had taken out to help her pay the rent shortfall she could not afford.

As she had already obtained a Debt Relief Order (DRO) in 2010, this woman was not eligible for a DRO.

For an initial outcome the money advice worker assisted this woman in maximising her income by helping her reduce the deductions from her gas and electricity pre-payment meters from £10 per week to £4.00 per week and the worker applied to the Welfare Reform Team to receive Discretionary Housing Payments (DHP). The Welfare Reform Team agreed to assist her with DHP and this covered the bedroom tax shortfall for an initial period. This woman was also advised of ways of mitigating the impact of the bedroom tax, such as by doing approved work and getting lodgers.

The money advice worker also confirmed that this woman’s debts were all dated from after the date of the DRO.

To help free up income, the money advice worker assisted this woman in applying to the British Gas Energy Trust and Thames Water’s Customer Assistance Fund and both charities agreed to help this woman by writing off her water, gas and electricity debt.

A payment arrangement was also made with:
- Her rents officer toward repaying the rent arrears,
- HMRC towards repaying the tax credit overpayments and
- Oxford City Council’s revenues department in respect of reduced repayments towards the council tax debt.

A token offer payment arrangement was put in place with her non-priority debt owed to Barclaycard.

This woman’s circumstances then changed following a failed ATOS medical assessment. (ATOS Healthcare conducts assessments on behalf of the Department for Work and Pensions (DWP) for Personal Independence Payment (PIP) claims.)

The money advice worker explained to this woman the process of applying for mandatory reconsideration within a month and of the process of appeal and advised her to apply for Jobseekers’ Allowance if she decides not to appeal or in the interim of her mandatory reconsideration being considered.

The money advice worker contacted Oxford City Council and advised them of this woman’s change of circumstances and of being on nil income to avoid suspension of benefits.

Following the advice from the money advice worker, this woman also took action herself towards stabilizing her finances by enrolling on a university course and found part time work.
This woman is now studying full time, working 16 - 22 hours per week, has found two lodgers to help her with her rent and costs and is no longer dependent on state benefits.

The following are some samples of the type of problems that people have contacted the Oxford Citizens Advice Bureau about in 2014/15.

1. Responsive welfare?
An elderly lady who is 61 years old and is from Pakistan. She suffered a heart attack and has been diagnosed with heart failure. She lives in her son’s home and he is married.

This woman had attended a medical assessment in respect of her award of Employment Support Allowance (ESA). The assessment found her fit for work related activity despite the fact that after her heart attack her heart condition deteriorated.

She attended an appointment at Oxford CAB with her son to ask for advice and help. She had already requested a Mandatory Reconsideration.

In brief, the mandatory reconsideration is a process by which the decision you are unhappy with is looked at again, usually by a different decision maker. Once you receive the mandatory reconsideration notice, telling you whether the decision has been changed and, if so how, you can then appeal if you are still unhappy.

Oxford CAB helped her gather evidence to support this, but the DWP did not change their decision, so Oxford CAB helped her start the appeal process.

Oxford CAB attended the appeal with this woman and her son. They won the appeal and this woman and her son are expected to return soon for help to make an application for Personal Independence Payment (PIP).

2. The cost of official error
A man lives on his own in Oxford and says he gets easily confused by letters he gets, and over organising his money. He came to the CAB because he was falling behind with his bills.

There were a number of issues identified, but one thing was particularly puzzling because this man had fallen behind with one of his utility bills the utility company had asked the DWP to deduct an amount each week from this man's benefits to pay them.

The problem was that the utility company which was supposed to be getting its money directly from this man’s benefits, was still chasing him, saying he still hadn’t paid his bills. This had gone on for quite some time, and in the middle of last year they had threatened court action.

At first it was assumed that the deduction shown on his benefits correspondence must be for a previous property or another bill. Oxford CAB asked the DWP to check and they said yes, the deduction was for this man utility bill. But when they checked it turned out that the money being taken from this man's benefits was going to the wrong company. The DWP said they had to investigate this.

By this time, it was almost two years since the deductions had started and nearly £1,000 had been taken from this man benefits and paid to the wrong utility company.

After Oxford CAB complained, the DWP paid this man some compensation and apologised.

This is an unusual example but advisers at Oxford CAB are increasingly faced with the problem of getting answers to quite simple questions about a client's situation because clients are unsure who to contact or are just unable to deal with these types of problems.

3. Samples of Employment problems Oxford CAB are helping clients with

A man was working in a local café. He worked without pay for the first week and was told by the café owner this was because he was being trained. When he did get paid the rate was £5.00 an hour which is below the national minimum wage. This man wasn’t given a written confirmation of employment, a contract or payslips.

A woman has been employed locally by a national company as a cleaner and has been trying now for over four months to get them to pay her money she is owed for her wages. Her manager threatened that she would lose her job if she came to see Oxford CAB. In the end this woman resigned – but Oxford CAB is still trying to get her money for her.

A man visited Oxford CAB because his employer tried to underpay him by over £1,000, and claimed to have lost his contract and then, after finally paying up, cut back the hours on his zero hours contract so that he was forced to leave.

Housing and Debt Case Study from Blackbird Leys Neighbourhood Support Service (Agnes Smith Advice Centre).

A couple visited Agnes Smith advice centre because their Housing Benefit had been reduced by the under-occupancy penalty, known as the ‘bedroom tax.’ They had lived in a three bedroomed house for many years and now that their children had left home and the Housing Benefit regulations had changed, they were under-occupying by two bedrooms, meaning that they had an extra £19 per week rent to pay, where previously they had been entitled to full housing benefit because they were on means tested income benefits. Their housing benefit had been reduced even further by an overpayment, which the clients did not understand, because they had no income for the period in question.

The clients wanted to move to a one-bedroomed property so that they would not have to pay the bedroom tax, but their landlord would not let them exchange or transfer due to their rent arrears. They had accumulated high rent arrears over the years due to ill-health, sporadic work and difficulty with managing their benefit claims.

The clients were also having difficulties with bailiffs enforcing several years of unpaid Council Tax, and had been paying non-priority doorstep lenders at the expense of their rent and Council Tax.
Agnes Smith advice centre advised the clients on priority and non-priority payments and helped draw up a budget to ensure that priority creditors were paid first, to avoid the risk of losing their home or having goods removed by bailiffs. It was clear that even with the use of budgeting there was a shortfall for priority payments, leading to ongoing hardship.

Agnes Smith advice centre contacted Housing Benefit and explained that the clients had had no income for the period of the alleged overpayment, and they cancelled the overpayment, reducing the deductions from the weekly benefit. We looked into options for dealing with the clients' debts.

The clients were both eligible for Debt Relief Orders, due to their low income and lack of assets, and we negotiated with their landlord not to enforce the possession order on the property and to allow them to downsize and have a fresh start with no rent arrears and no bedroom tax on the smaller property. The Debt Relief Orders also provided for the write-off of the Council Tax and all non-priority debts. Debt Relief Orders cost clients £90 due to Insolvency Service fees and so the advice centre raised the funds from a local charity.

The clients are now settling into their new one-bedroomed home and are debt-free, and the hardship that they were suffering has been alleviated now that they are free from debt repayments and the bedroom tax.

Title of Report: Adoption of the Statement of Community Involvement in Planning (2015)

Summary and Recommendations

Purpose of report: To ask members to formally adopt a revised and improved version of the Statement of Community Involvement in Planning following public consultation.

Key decision Yes – affects all wards

Executive lead member: Councillor Alex Hollingsworth, Executive Board Member for Planning, Transport and Regulatory Services

Policy Framework: Statements of Community Involvement are part of the legislative framework within which local plan documents are prepared. In addition, the aims and commitments in the Statement of Community Involvement in Planning are consistent with the Council’s recently-updated Public Engagement Policy Statement.

Recommendation(s):

It is recommended that the CEB:

- agree to adopt the Statement of Community Involvement in Planning as the Council’s formal statement about how it will engage and involve people in planning decisions; and
- Authorise the Head of Planning and Regulatory, in consultation with the Executive Lead Member, to make any necessarily editorial corrections to the Statement of Community Involvement in Planning prior to final publication.

- Appendix B Risk Register
- Appendix C Public Participation Statement
- Appendix D Action plan for Community Involvement in Planning
- Appendix E Examples of supplementary guidance or help sheets
- Appendix F Example of procedural guidance about where we will put site notices
Appendix G Review of best practice on the consultation that comparable authorities require from developers

Summary

1. The Statement of Community Involvement in Planning (SCIP) details how we will engage local people and organisations in the planning process in Oxford, both in planning policy and development management. A statement of community involvement was first adopted by the Council in 2006 and this version replaces that document, to encourage greater and earlier public engagement, and to bring it up to date with current consultation methods and regulations.

What is the Statement of Community Involvement in Planning

2. As a Local Planning Authority, it is a statutory requirement to have an adopted Statement of Community Involvement covering planning processes. The City Council has additionally published a more general ‘Public Engagement Policy Statement’ (formerly the ‘Consultation Strategy’) which covers all Council functions, hence for clarity the document related to planning processes will be referred to as the Statement of Community Involvement in Planning (SCIP). The aims and commitments in the SCIP are consistent with the Council’s recently-updated Public Engagement Policy Statement but add extra detail specific to planning processes.

3. The SCIP must comply with Government policy and legislation about statutory requirements for consultation in planning. In recent years these have been subject to a number of revisions, so the SCIP seeks to avoid re-stating elements of national policy or legislation that will date the document in forthcoming years. It focuses on the Oxford context and where we are exceeding the minimum requirements in favour of best practice (Appendix G sets out comparison of selected authorities’ requirements of developers). Similarly the SCIP also steers away from rigidly prescribing consultation techniques, in favour of establishing broad consultation principles that will continue to apply even if there are shifts in the regulatory framework or operational procedures. This also allows for flexibility to tailor consultations to make them appropriate and useful in different circumstances. In these ways, it is intended that the SCIP be adaptable enough to accommodate whatever local plan or development management changes occur in coming years. Additional detail about consultation will be provided through supporting guidance and help sheets.

4. The SCIP sets out not only what the Council is committed to in terms of engaging and involving people in planning decisions; it also establishes how we expect applicants to carry out engagement related to planning applications, particularly ‘major’ applications. In both respects, the SCIP sets out a clear process for all parties, in terms of how local communities can be involved in planning decisions for applications and for policy formulation for Oxford.

5. In terms of City Council commitments, the SCIP promotes engagement earlier in the process, particularly in preparing planning policies. It recognises that there is not a single solution for all situations, so rather than rigidly prescribing processes for all policy documents, it introduces a new commitment of producing and publishing (via the City Executive Board) a tailored consultation programme for each local plan document, to reflect the different topics and geographical areas that policy documents can cover. Each programme will be framed by the principles in the SCIP and will draw upon the different methodologies in the Appendices of the SCIP, as well as best practice. The City Council is also keen to have more of an on-going dialogue with communities, rather than just at specific “consultation” points. The SCIP also highlights the importance of how the City Council communicates the outcomes of consultation on policies and applications.

6. In terms of requirements upon developers, under current legislation the Council cannot require applicants or developers to undertake consultation. However the SCIP sets out clearly that the City Council strongly encourages it for major applications. It is the intention that, over time, comprehensive and meaningful engagement in planning decisions will become the norm expected from those seeking to delivery major schemes in the City. Officers will also continue to monitor emerging best practice from other planning authorities (as summarised in Appendix G), including how some of the emerging proposals stand up if tested at appeals or in legal cases because whilst some authorities may appear to have stronger requirements upon applicants, such a position is not necessarily enforceable under current legislation and regulations regarding pre-application consultation.

7. The SCIP introduces a range of measures to this effect:
   - It encourages and reinforces a two-stage pre-application approach, so that developers engage with the community at the outset, make appropriate amendments to the proposal, and then go back to the community to explain how their comments and concerns have been taken into account. This is all prior to an application being submitted to the Council, whilst it is still being formulated, and ideally whilst there is more scope for meaningful engagement with the community rather than just asking views about final options. The City Council will encourage developers to submit their engagement strategy as part of any Planning Performance Agreement, so that the methods can be agreed with the City Council;
   - New help sheets have been prepared alongside the SCIP to provide supplementary guidance about the standards of engagement that we expect and want to see. There is also guidance to encourage and facilitate the community who wish to engage in planning decisions. The help sheets are ‘living’ documents, available on the City Council website, which can be updated easily to keep up to date with emerging best practice in the field. Examples of the help sheets include: guidance about best practice visualisation tools; guidance about how to comment on applications and what is a material consideration; and guidance about the neighbourhood planning process. These will be kept under review, and new topics can be added as required.
   - Whilst the SCIP sets out the principles, it is also important to be clear and transparent about how the City Council is actually going to implement the SCIP in practice. Therefore we have also published operational guidance covering processes such as how and where site notices will be put up.

8. The SCIP also addresses consultation within neighbourhood planning processes. Whilst the preparation of neighbourhood planning documents is led by the relevant neighbourhood forum, the City Council does have a role at certain stages. We have also produced guidance to support the neighbourhood planning groups in achieving meaningful engagement, and to guide local residents about how and when they might look to be involved in the formulation of the plan.
Results of consultation and response to key issues raised

8. The SCIP takes account of comments from the public and other stakeholders about their experiences of engaging with planning processes. Appendix C explains the consultation undertaken, and how the findings have been addressed.

9. In some cases we have made changes to the SCIP in response to comments made, and in other cases there were wider issues that cannot immediately be addressed in the SCIP. Nonetheless where useful points have been made that will help us to improve public engagement in planning decisions, they have been noted and an ‘Action Plan’ drawn up to set out clearly how we intend to respond to them (Appendix D). For example, the Action Plan for Community Involvement in Planning captures more detailed points about IT system improvements, which cannot be resolved instantly but that we are working through.

10. Where we are not proposing to make the changes suggested then we have explained why not, to show that the comments have been fully considered. For example organisations commented that they would like the Oxford Design Review Panel discussion sessions, particularly at pre-application stage, to be made open to the public so that local people can be involved in discussions with the Panel. We explained how the role of the Panel is different, but does not replace, the views of local residents.

11. There is also a number of other changes that either are in the process of being implemented, or will be made, which complement and support the approaches in the SCIP. These include:
   - Setting out ‘standard operating procedures’ for officers to follow in key tasks, such as how and where to put up site notices for planning applications, to ensure consistency. These are summarised in the process/operation note (Appendix F);
   - Trialling a City Development electronic-newsletter in 2015;
   - Regularly reviewing and improving the layout and usability of the website, to help people find planning documents more easily, including user testing groups with customers;
   - Changes to the public area at St Aldate’s Chambers where the public can view planning documents;
   - Reviewing how comments are addressed in planning committee report recommendations from officers; and
   - Increasing the use of social media to provide information about planning matters.

12. Some of the specific changes made to address consultation responses include: changing the name of the document to differentiate it from the broader Council engagement strategy and clarifying the relationship between the documents; providing more context about the different types of communities; making more explicit how we expect the two-stage pre-application process to work; clarifying language to emphasise the role of meaningful engagement to address concerns that people would not really be involved in decisions; and adding section about what happens in between formal consultations on policy documents, and how we will continue to keep people updated.

13. As well as formal consultation comments to inform the SCIP, the Council has also reflected on previous consultation experiences, from the perspective of the customer and of the Council. Recent policy document consultations and major applications were reviewed, including the lessons identified in the Roger Dudman Way review. The review of issues also included looking at complaints. The SCIP seeks to build on what has been done well, and to continue implementing improvements.

Next steps

14. Following adoption by the CEB, the SCIP will be applied as City Council policy for all planning processes. There is no independent examination for SCI documents. We will also continue to work through the Action Plan to address and improve other processes which will help to support effective and meaningful engagement. The ‘living’ help sheets will also be kept under regular review and will be updated as appropriate.

Legal Issues

15. The Council has a legal duty to have an adopted statement of community involvement. The Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004 (as amended) requires the City Council to produce an statement of community involvement to set out how the Council intends to achieve community involvement in the preparation of plans and decision making for planning applications.

Financial Issues

16. The package of measures in the revised SCIP aim to put in place changes to service delivery to enable greater resource efficiency, and to deliver greater outcomes and leaner delivery.

17. The cost of implementing the SCIP commitments as proposed can be met within the City Development budget. Any additional consultation approaches over and above those proposed in the SCIP may result in additional financial and resource implications.

Environmental Impact

18. No specific impacts identified

Level of Risk

19. The SCIP does not propose new planning policy or identify new development sites, but considers how best to involve different sectors of the community in plan preparation and in determining planning applications.

20. The update to the SCIP is a key priority for the City Council. Failure to adopt an updated document could present legal risks in the examination of policy documents, and in processing applications. The risk register is attached as Appendix B.

Equalities Impact

21. The SCIP seeks to ensure opportunities for participation in the local planning processes, including fair access for equalities groups. The way that the City Council consults on planning applications and the preparation of local plans could have an impact on equalities groups who may have challenges in accessing information, such as those that do not have English as their first language or those who are unable to access the internet. City Development will therefore continue its practice of preparing an Equalities Assessment when preparing local plan documents, and ensure that equalities issues are addressed when considering relevant planning applications.

1. Introduction

1.1 It is an aim of the City Council to improve dialogue and consultation throughout Council processes.

1.2 This is explained in the Corporate Plan 2015-2019, and then over-arching principles and actions are set out in the Community Engagement Policy Statement 2014-2017. The City Council has also produced the Corporate Equality Scheme 2012-2015, which identifies that having fair access to engage in the planning process is a priority for the City Council. These strategies apply to all the City Council’s services and are not specific to the planning process.

1.3 There is then an additional legal requirement under the Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004 (as amended) for the City Council to produce a Statement of Community Involvement (SCI), which sets out how it intends to achieve community involvement in the preparation of plans and in decision-making on planning applications.

1.4 The City Council adopted its first SCI in 2006. Since then there have been a number of changes to the planning system which have produced new requirements and processes for producing local plans and for dealing with planning applications.

1.5 In addition, the City Council is keen to promote earlier public engagement in planning decisions. The City Council continues to keep these processes under review, including commissioning an independent review of planning processes, including consultation processes, through the Roger Dudman Way Review (2013). The recommendations and lessons learnt about community engagement from these reviews have also helped to shape this Statement of Community Involvement (in Planning) (SCIP).

1.6 The SCIP sets out consultation requirements and guiding principles, with more detailed information provided through supplementary guidance and help sheets that can be updated more easily and frequently via the website. This is so that the SCIP is flexible if there are further changes to the planning regulations or government policies in the next few years, and so that we can adapt processes to reflect best practice.

1.7 The SCIP goes above the minimum statutory requirements for consultation and promotes best practice in the delivery of our planning services.

What is the Statement of Community Involvement in Planning?

1.8 Oxford City Council is the local planning authority for Oxford. The SCIP sets out the City Council’s approach to involving the community and stakeholders in the production of planning policy documents and planning control decisions in the city.

The Statement of Community Involvement sets out how the City Council will involve the community when preparing planning policy documents and deciding on planning applications.

The Statement of Community Involvement:

- Lets you know how you can get involved in planning decisions;
- Sets out how we will engage the wider community in planning decisions; and
- Sets out the level of community engagement that we expect from developers in the planning process.

In summary, it is about how we inform, involve and consult local people in our planning decisions.

1.9 In preparing the SCIP, consultation has been undertaken to help develop an approach that reflects the needs and aspirations of the community, stakeholders and the City Council.

Oxford’s communities

1.10 The ‘community’ includes all the individuals, groups and organisations that live, work, or operate within Oxford. Communities can take many forms, they can be:

- Communities of Place - people living, working or undertaking other activities in geographically distinct areas of the city (such as neighbourhoods or wards).
- Communities of Identity - people who share common aspects of their identity (such as ethnicity, religious beliefs, age or gender).
- Communities of Interest - people with shared interests (such as allotment holders, cyclists or businesses) or people who use the same services or facilities (such as parks, roads, or community buildings).

1.11 The SCIP also refers to ‘stakeholders’. By this we mean individuals or organisations with a direct influence on the subject under discussion, such as landowners or the highways authority. Some of our consultation with stakeholders is also governed by legislation such as the Duty to Cooperate. The SCIP seeks to avoid repeating legislation or statutory requirements, because that is fixed by the government. Instead it focusses on what we are specifically doing locally in Oxford over and above the requirements.
2. Our principles for community involvement in planning decisions

Why is it important to involve the community in the planning process?

2.1 We want to inform and involve the community in planning decision-making processes. Achieving effective community involvement in the planning process can have several benefits, including:

- More focus on the priorities identified by the community;
- Influencing the provision of local services to meet local needs;
- Ability to draw upon a local knowledge base;
- Increased community commitment to the future of an area; and
- Increased support for planning services, as communities will have a better understanding of how planning policies are developed and how decisions are made.

2.2 The City Council’s approach to community engagement contributes directly to its ambition to build a world class city for all. Many of Oxford’s residents are highly articulate and very skilled at getting their points of view heard and those contributions are always welcome. The City Council also wants to open up more opportunities for people whose voices might not be so easily heard to be involved if they wish to.

Our principles for community involvement in planning decisions

2.3 The commitments in this SCIP are framed by wider City Council strategies about community engagement, as well as being informed by consultation and other feedback.

2.4 The following general principles for community engagement were agreed in the City Council’s Community Engagement Policy Statement 2014-2017:

   i. Flexibility
   ii. Proportionality
   iii. Transparency and clarity
   iv. Timeliness
   v. Feedback
   vi. Inclusiveness and accessibility

2.5 In addition we have identified four key principles for effective engagement in planning processes:

1. Timely and sustained – events and activities should start before any planning decisions are made and engagement should last throughout the planning process and beyond;
2. Inclusive for all local people – those living and working in an area have a right to be involved, all parties are welcome, and process must take account of peoples’ varied needs;
3. Two way, open and responsive – communication should be discursive not prescriptive, so that information can be debated and ideas exchanged; and
4. A matter of public record – the processes must be documented and published.

   (Roger Dudman Way Review 2013, paragraph 91)

2.6 The SCIP has also been informed by consultation and reviewing customer feedback. Two of the key themes that came out is that people want to be involved at an early enough stage when decisions and proposals can still be truly influenced, and also to be kept informed of progress and for us to set out more clearly how consultation has influenced decisions so that people can see how it has followed through the process.

2.7 Therefore a general theme of the SCIP is that consultation should start as early as possible to give everyone the opportunity to participate and influence the development of policies and options for an area. This includes encouraging consultation on major applications at an early stage. This will give communities and stakeholders the chance to put forward their own ideas rather than simply comment once proposals are fixed. The City Council and applicants will then be better placed to understand the issues and needs that are important to the community.

2.8 It also encourages on-going community involvement, with feedback and information on progress and outcomes. Involving communities at an early stage, and continuing that involvement throughout the planning process, will help to resolve issues and achieve consensus where possible, which will in turn avoid the need for lengthy independent examinations. Nonetheless planning decisions are often contentious, and require differing views (including those of the community) to be balanced and judgements made. So the SCIP also promotes transparency of processes and decisions, and clearer communication, so that even if people do not like the outcome of a decision they can at least understand how it has been reached.

2.9 The scale and type of community involvement in planning also needs to be proportionate and appropriate, and reasonable in terms of cost.

Based on these principles, this SCIP seeks to ensure the planning service provides:

The opportunity to contribute ideas – people will have the opportunity to put their ideas forward and the City Council will consider and respond to these suggestions as appropriate;

The opportunity to shape proposals and options – the City Council will provide opportunities for people to actively engage in the planning process at early stages when there is more scope to shape them. The City Council will also encourage applicants/the promoters of development proposals to do the same;

The opportunity to make comments on formal proposals – for more advanced development proposals and planning policy documents, the City Council will meet the Regulatory requirements for community involvement, and where appropriate go beyond the requirements;

The opportunity to receive feedback and be informed about progress and outcomes – the City Council will consider all comments received through consultations on policies, and make appropriate changes accordingly and explain our response. The City Council will then provide updates on the progress of planning policy documents to all those who have submitted comments on the document. This may be by direct contact or by publishing material on the City Council’s website (e.g. consultation reports and updates).

The City Council will also explain how comments on planning applications have been taken into consideration in officer’s reports. These reports are published on the City Council’s website; and

To provide relevant information - when asking for comments, the City Council will be clear about which issues can and cannot be taken into consideration, which issues are already fixed (eg by legislation);
To achieve value for money – ensuring consultation is worthwhile and value for money by balancing cost and time constraints and City Council resources, and ensuring that consultation is appropriate and proportionate to the issues being considered and the communities affected.

We will deliver these principles through:

- Being open and transparent in our decision-making;
- Using plain English as far as possible;
- Ensuring that planning policy documents are clear and concise;
- Using images, maps and illustrations, to make planning policy documents more accessible to a wider range of people;
- Front-loading engagement at the early stages of producing new policies and generating options;
- Encouraging developers to undertake early consultation when preparing planning applications, including before they are submitted as formal applications;
- Promoting electronic methods of communication to increase efficiency (whilst also providing for those who find it difficult to access material online); and
- Promote best practice, and explore new and evolving methods of communication and consultation.

2.10 The rest of this document and appendices explain how these principles will be applied to the preparation of policy documents and consideration of planning applications.
3. Engagement processes for planning policy documents

Which documents will we be consulting on?

3.1 The main planning policy documents that the City Council produces are:

Statement of Community Involvement – this document is itself the subject of public consultation to help develop an approach that reflects the needs and aspirations of the community, stakeholders and the City Council. The consultation requirements set out in this document will need to be met in producing any new local development plan documents or supplementary planning documents.

Local Development Scheme – this sets out the City Council’s programme for creating new development plan documents and supplementary planning documents over a three year period, including a description and timetable for each document. The Local Development Scheme is published on the City Council’s website.

Local Plan – this may consist of several development plan documents, including:

- Core Strategy (or Local Plan) – this outlines the vision for the city and how it will be achieved. Also includes development management policies, or these may be in a separate local plan document;
- Site Allocations – this allocates land for specific uses; and
- Area Action Plans – these provide more detailed information to guide development in a specific area where significant development is planned.

Supplementary Planning Documents – these documents supplement and elaborate upon policies and proposals set out in development plan documents. Although they are not subject to independent examination, they will undergo public consultation, and must be consistent with national planning policies. These documents may focus on specific issues (such as affordable housing) or they may provide site specific development guidance. They cannot change policies contained within the Local Plan or Neighbourhood Plans, but can give detail on how those policies are implemented.

Sustainability Appraisals – these will be produced by the City Council alongside local development plan documents and, where appropriate, supplementary planning documents. Sustainability Appraisals examine the impact of policies and proposals on economic, social and environmental factors, and fulfil an important legal requirement known as ‘Strategic Environmental Assessment’). Sustainability Appraisals are iterative, prepared alongside policy documents, and will be available for consultation alongside the development plan documents or supplementary planning documents that they relate to at formal stages of consultation.

Annual Monitoring Report – the performance of planning policies will be reviewed in an Annual Monitoring Report. The Annual Monitoring Report will also review the implementation of the Local Development Scheme and Statement of Community Involvement in Planning. There will not be consultation on this report as it is a factual document, but we may contact specific groups to obtain some of the data required.

3.2 Figure 1 over the page explains how the different planning policy documents link together to form the Local Plan for Oxford and their relationship with the wider planning process.
Figure 1: Oxford's Local Plan and its relationship to the wider planning process
How will we involve people in the preparation of planning policy documents?

3.3 There are a range of different methods of involvement that we may use in preparing planning policy documents (as set out in Appendices Tables 1 and 2). The methods we use will depend on the subject and the stage in the plan-making process.

3.4 Different levels of involvement that may be appropriate in different circumstances:

- Participation – interactions between the City Council and the community and/or stakeholders to identify issues and exchange views (for example, when considering the issues a policy document might need to address);

- Consultation - asking for the views of the community and stakeholders (for example, asking for views on a draft document); and

- Information-sharing - providing information to the community and stakeholders (for example, providing updates on the progress of planning policy documents).

3.5 Sometimes it will be more appropriate to gather a wider-range of less detailed comments using methods such as questionnaires and surveys. This is often a good way to collect views from a large number of people, although it does not generally provide much opportunity for an in-depth discussion of the issues.

3.6 At other times we will need to talk to people in more detail, such as through workshops or meetings with specific groups, to gain a deeper understanding of their views. When undertaking consultation on planning policy documents, we will aim to use a variety of methods to reflect the topic matters and to try to reach the different community groups that may be affected.

3.7 We will continue to look to best practice examples in this evolving field.

Consultation on Development Plan Documents

3.8 The key stages that the City Council will follow in preparing the Local Plan (which may consist of several development plan documents) are largely set out in legislation and national policy, but the SCIP sets out in more detail what we will do in Oxford and how we are going beyond the basic requirements. The process is different for Neighbourhood Plans and Supplementary Planning Documents, which are explained later in this SCIP.

3.9 The key stages for Development Plan Documents are:

1. Establish an appropriate consultation programme for each document - When starting work on any new development plan document, the authorising City Council body will agree a bespoke consultation programme for that document. This will set out which communication and consultation methods are most appropriate for that document and how they will be used at each stage, so that both councillors and the public are clear about what consultation can be expected from the start. This tailored consultation programme will be published and will then be followed throughout the process of preparing the document.

   Whilst this stage is not required by the Regulations, the City Council is adopting this approach to ensure that consultations can be tailored appropriately and proportionately to the issues and the community groups that may be affected. Table 1 in the Appendices provides more information on the methods of communication and consultation that may be used.
Statement of Community Involvement in Planning

2. Early community and stakeholder involvement

- Before policy writing begins, informal consultation will be undertaken and a process of informal dialogue will commence. This may be as wide-ranging as simply asking questions about what the document and policies should include.

The main purpose of this stage is information-gathering. This stage enables people to put forward their ideas and to participate in the initial stages of developing proposals and options whilst the discussion is still fairly broad. Once we are sure that we have understood and considered all the views expressed we will start to refine this and narrow it down, to formulate options and proposals, including input, as appropriate, by City Council bodies.

3. Consultation on the emerging options or draft policies (as applicable)

- As part of the process of refining the options and policies, the City Council may publish an options document and/or a draft policies document, including a related Sustainability Appraisal, for public comment. Any formal consultation will normally last for six weeks. There is also likely to be informal dialogue through this period, as appropriate.

4. Pre-submission consultation

- When the City Council has refined the policies to what it thinks is the final version, it will publish the document for a final stage of consultation before submitting it to the Government. Normally at this stage the key evidence documents that sit behind the plan/policies will also be made available including the Sustainability Appraisal. Consultation will normally last for six weeks.

Following this consultation, the City Council will normally only make minor changes to the document, such as to clarify text. The City Council will collate the comments received and pass them to the Government Inspector to consider along with all of the other supporting documents and comments from earlier stages of consultation.

5. Independent examination

- This will be held by an independent Inspector (appointed by the Government). The examination process is determined by the Inspector so it is not for the City Council to propose a process for this stage in the SCIP, or to replicate what is already set out in government guidance or regulations elsewhere. The examination period commences once the document has been submitted to the Government and ends when the Inspector issues their report or conclusions. Within this period there are usually hearing sessions, where people who have commented at the pre-submission stage may be invited by the Inspector to speak in a round-table discussion.

6. Adoption

- The final stage is for the City Council to adopt the document. The decision will usually be made by Full Council, and published on the Council website. It is at this point that the document formally becomes part of the Local Plan, and can be fully applied to relevant planning decisions.

3 At the time of writing this is known as the ‘Regulation 18’ stage in reference to Regulation 18 of The Town and Country Planning (Local Planning) (England) Regulations 2012.
4 At the time of writing this is known as the ‘Regulation 19 stage’ in reference to Regulation 19 of The Town and Country Planning (Local Planning) (England) Regulations 2012.
5 At the time of writing, this is known as the ‘Regulation 24 stage’, in reference to Regulation 24 of The Town and Country Planning (Local Planning) (England) Regulations 2012.
Consultation on Supplementary Planning Documents (SPDs)

3.10 The key stages in preparing SPDs are slightly different to those for development plan documents because they normally provide supplementary guidance rather than policies, as set out below:

1. Establish an appropriate consultation programme - When starting work on any new supplementary planning document, the authorising City Council committee will agree a bespoke consultation programme for that document. This will set out the details of which communication and consultation methods are most appropriate for that document and how they will be used at each stage, so that both councillors and the public are clear about what consultation can be expected from the start. This consultation programme will then be followed throughout the process of preparing the document.

Whilst this is not required through the Regulations, the City Council is adopting this approach to ensure that consultations can be tailored appropriately and proportionately to the issues and the community groups that may be affected. Table 2 in the Appendices provides more information of the methods of communication and consultation that may be used.

2. Early community and stakeholder involvement –The main purpose of this stage of involvement is information gathering. This may be as wide-ranging as simply asking questions about what the document should include or the approach it should take, or it may be more focused on specific issues and options. Consultation may be focused on those with specific expertise in the subject area, like developers or highway engineers, or on people living and working in a specific geographical area.

A Sustainability Appraisal will be produced where appropriate but is not always required for SPDs, depending on the topic.

3. Consultation on the emerging draft – As with development plan documents, we will usually publish a draft document for formal consultation for six weeks. We will consider all the comments received and will refine and finalise the document before progressing to adoption. Unlike development plan documents, there is no examination process for SPDs.

4. Adoption – The document, together with an analysis of comments received (as applicable), will be reported through City Council committees if appropriate. It will normally be adopted by the City Executive Board and published on the City Council website. It is at this point that the SPD will hold full weight as a ‘material consideration’ in relevant planning decisions.

Keeping you updated throughout the planning policy preparation process

3.11 Throughout the process of preparing development plan documents and supplementary planning documents, from the earliest stages through to adoption, we will keep the community and stakeholders informed of progress in the following ways:

- The latest version of any formally published consultation documents will be available on the City Council website and at relevant deposit points\(^6\) throughout the city;

\(^6\) An up-to-date list of deposit points (where paper copies of consultation documents will be made available) and their opening times is provided on the City Council website.
• The City Council will acknowledge representations received by electronic means (email or online forms) at each consultation stage;
• Reports to City Council committees (including City Executive Board and Full Council) are available on the City Council website and these meetings are held in public;
• At examination stage (for local development plan documents), we will tell those who asked to be notified when the document has been submitted to the Secretary of State. We will also publish a consultation summary report on the City Council website and the representations from the pre-submission stage will be made available for public inspection;
• The final, adopted versions of documents will be published on the City Council website and at relevant deposit points throughout the city; and
• Throughout the preparation of the plan, an email address and contact phone number will be available for the community and stakeholders to find out the current position on the progress of documents, in addition to the information that will be supplied on the City Council website.
4. Consultation process for Neighbourhood Development Plans

4.1 As well as formal consultation comments to inform the SCIP, the Council has also reflected on previous consultation experiences, from the perspective of the customer and of the Council. Recent policy document

4.2 The preparation of neighbourhood planning documents is led by local communities in accordance with the Regulations and the principles of localism. As such, the majority of the community engagement in the preparation of Neighbourhood Plans will be undertaken by the neighbourhood planning group.

4.3 There are then certain stages where the City Council is required to carry out formal consultation in accordance with the Regulations as follows:

a) Application to designate a Neighbourhood Area
If a community wishes to produce a Neighbourhood Plan then the first stage is for the area to be designated. The City Council will publish the name of the neighbourhood area, a map, and the name of the relevant body who applied for the designation on the City Council website. People will be able to comment on the extent of the area to be designated. In addition, the neighbourhood planning group will be encouraged to let the local community know through local notices, their own websites, and other means as appropriate.

Following this consultation, the City Council will publish its decision to either designate or refuse the application (with reasons, if refusing) on the City Council website.

b) Application to designate a Neighbourhood Planning Group
The City Council will publish a copy of the application and details about how to comment, on the City Council website. The City Council will also encourage the neighbourhood planning group to publicise the application in the local area.

If the City Council agrees to designate the group, it will publish the name of the group, a copy of the constitution, and contact details on the City Council website. If the City Council decides to refuse the designation then it will publish reasons for the refusal on the City Council website.

c) Options testing and preparing the Neighbourhood Plan
(Consultation carried out by the neighbourhood planning group)
During the preparation of their plan, the neighbourhood planning group will need to carry out consultation on the issues and options being considered, and involve the local community. They will be encouraged by the City Council to engage as early as possible, and to take into account emerging best practice in this relatively new, and still evolving, area of planning policy. They may also need to prepare a Sustainability Appraisal and consult on that as well.

d) Pre-submission consultation

7 At the time of writing, this is The Neighbourhood Planning (General) Regulations 2012.
8 Neighbourhood planning groups are community groups that are designated to take forward neighbourhood planning in areas without parish councils. Where a Parish Council exists for local area, then they are the only group allowed to progress a neighbourhood plan in their area. It is the role of the City Council to agree who should be the neighbourhood planning group for the neighbourhood areas without a parish council.
9 We have produced a help sheet that provides an overview of the roles of the neighbourhood planning group and the City Council at each stage of the Neighbourhood Plan Process.
Statement of Community Involvement in Planning

(Clarification carried out by the community planning group)
At this final stage of consultation, before the plan is submitted to the City Council, the community planning group will be encouraged to take into account emerging best practice.

e) Publicity/submission consultation
Once the community planning group has submitted their Neighbourhood Plan to the City Council, the City Council will publish the plan and supporting documents in accordance with the regulatory requirements on the City Council website. Copies of these documents will also be available at the main council offices (St Aldate’s Chambers). The City Council will contact all those who we are advised have commented previously on the Neighbourhood Plan to invite final comments.

f) Decision on a Neighbourhood Plan
The City Council will send a copy of the Neighbourhood Plan, the supporting documents and comments received at the submission stage to an appointed examiner for independent examination. Hearing sessions, if required (at the discretion of the Examiner), will be open to the public to attend but only those invited by the Examiner may participate in discussions.

The City Council will then publish the Examiner’s report and decision statement on the City Council website, and make it available to view at the City Council’s main offices (St Aldate’s Chambers), before proceeding to arrange (subject to a favourable Examiner’s report) the referendum.

g) Referendum
At least 28 days before the referendum takes place, the City Council will publish the following documents on its website (hard copies will also be made available at the main City Council offices, St Aldate’s Chambers): the draft Neighbourhood Plan; the Examiner’s report; a summary of the representations submitted to the Examiner; a statement that the City Council is satisfied that the plan meets the basic conditions; general information on town and country planning to ensure voters have sufficient knowledge to make an informed decision; and an information statement that provides detailed information on the referendum arrangements. The City Council will also encourage the community planning group to let local people know about the referendum and encourage a high participation rate so that it is representative.

The Regulations cover all aspects of organising and conducting a referendum, so it is not for the City Council to propose processes in the SCIP, or to replicate what is already set out in government guidance or regulations elsewhere. If the majority of those who vote in a referendum are in favour of the draft Neighbourhood Plan, then the Neighbourhood Plan becomes part of the statutory development plan for the area. As such, it will then steer relevant planning decisions for that area of the city.

10 At the time of writing this is a minimum of six weeks, as set out in The Neighbourhood Planning (General) Regulations 2012.
11 At the time of writing this is the Neighbourhood Planning (Referendum) Regulations 2012 (as amended by the Neighbourhood Planning (Referendum) (Amendment) Regulations 2013 and 2014) and the Neighbourhood Planning (Prescribed Dates) Regulations 2012.
5. Engagement processes for planning applications

5.1 The degree of involvement in planning applications will vary according to the nature of the individual application, and at different stages. The processes are different to those for policies, because usually there is a role both for the applicant as well as the City Council, especially on larger applications.

Consultations before planning applications are submitted to the City Council

5.2 All applicants (or their agents) are strongly encouraged to discuss development proposals with the City Council before applying for planning permission. Applicants are also encouraged, especially for major applications, to engage with the community and relevant stakeholders, to a degree proportionate to the nature of the proposal, at the earliest appropriate opportunity.

For minor applications (such as house extensions), all applicants are encouraged to discuss their plans with their neighbours before submitting a planning application. This could involve speaking with them or putting a note through the door.

If the scheme falls within the definition of a ‘major’ application\(^{12}\) then applicants are strongly encouraged to contact those who live, work and/or undertake other activities in the surrounding area who may be affected by the proposals, to inform them of their plans and to identify/discuss any potential issues and opportunities\(^{13}\) so that the submitted proposal acknowledges and addresses community concerns, even if it cannot fully resolve them. Consultation at this stage should be appropriate and proportionate, and will normally include helping the community and non-planning experts to visualise what the development will look like and to understand the impacts on the area.

Whilst there is no legal obligation for applicants to undertake consultation at the pre-application stage, failure to consult properly is likely to lead to objections being made by interested parties (such as neighbouring residents) later on in the process which could be material to the determination of a planning application. Pre-application consultation may be made a formal requirement via a Planning Performance Agreement\(^{14}\) where relevant.

A statement setting out how consultation has been carried out and any changes made to the proposals as a result, is encouraged to be submitted with the planning application, and should be easy for the community to find so that they can easily see the feedback. Developers are also encouraged to feedback directly to the community via a second round of pre-application engagement, before submitting the application to the Council, to explain any changes to the proposal and how concerns have been addressed.

We also encourage applicants to let the local ward councillors know about their proposals. The City Council’s Code of Practice for councillors on planning applications advises that councillors attending public meetings should take great care to maintain their impartial role, listen to all the points of view expressed by the speakers and public, and not state a conclusive decision on any pre-application proposals or submitted planning applications.

\(^{12}\) At the time of writing, major applications are defined by Article 2 of the Town and Country Planning (Development Management Procedure (England) Order 2015.

\(^{13}\) We have produced help sheets on the Council website which set out examples of good practice in pre-application engagement.

\(^{14}\) A planning performance agreement sets timescales for actions by the City Council and applicants at the pre-application and application stage. (See the Planning Practice Guidance for further information.)
Nonetheless we would encourage applicants on major schemes to make local councillors aware of their proposals so that they can help to bring it to the attention of their constituents at the earliest stages.

Similarly, applicants are encouraged to contact local representative groups who may be able to help raise awareness and explain the proposals to the community, and may also be able to provide representative views from a community perspective and provide local insight.

5.3 There are significant benefits to involving communities and stakeholders early on in the process of preparing of a proposal before it is finalised and submitted to the City Council for planning permission, including:

- Issues and opportunities can be identified, and where possible addressed, early on in the process, making more efficient use of resources (both for the applicant and the City Council);
- Community and stakeholder views can be taken into consideration early on, helping to achieve higher quality design that utilises local knowledge and better reflects communities’ needs and aspirations;
- Addressing issues early on is likely to result in higher quality proposals that are likely to move through the application process more quickly and smoothly;
- Responding to community and stakeholder views early on reduces the likelihood of objections at the application stage; and
- Early engagement increases openness and transparency.

5.4 With regard to major applications, it is noted that Section 122 of the Localism Act 2011 currently requires applicants to carry out pre-application consultations where a proposed development meets criteria set out by the Government in a development order. In future there may be additional development orders published in relation to this requirement, which will influence the requirements for applicants to consult on major applications. Irrespective of the regulations, the City Council is keen to encourage pre-application engagement.

Involvement once applications are submitted and are under consideration by the City Council

5.5 The Government sets out minimum standards for consulting on planning applications that the City Council must comply with (see Appendices Table 3). These standards apply to all applications. If the City Council goes beyond the standards required by the Government then there needs to be a balance between cost, speed of decision making, and providing a reasonable opportunity for public comment.

5.6 People are encouraged to ‘self service’ where possible, using updates on the City Council website and through alert services such as PlanningFinder to find out about planning applications.

5.7 The City Council will make information available about planning applications using the following methods (underlined indicates online/electronic information):

Advertisements and site notices – site notices will be placed in the vicinity of the application site to notify the occupiers of the properties most likely to be affected by the development proposals, including those bordering an application site. The number and location of notices will be proportionate to the proposal. Comments are normally required within five weeks of the notice being displayed. Developers are also required to display site notices for certain types of development. In addition, the City Council is required to publish information about some types of planning application\textsuperscript{15} in a local newspaper\textsuperscript{16}.

Public Access – the details of all submitted planning applications are available on the City Council website to view online through the Public Access system.

PlanningFinder – online tool similar to Public Access which enables the public to view all planning applications. People can also register to receive email updates about individual applications or notifications of new planning applications received within specific postcode areas to help you find out about development in an area.

Weekly list – a list is published weekly of all the valid planning applications we have received. This list also highlights key information such as developments in or affecting conservation areas and developments that could affect a listed building or its setting. The list is available on the City Council website.

Statutory consultees – we are legally required to consult certain organisations as set out in government guidance\textsuperscript{17}. The organisations consulted will vary depending on the nature of the proposal and location.

Availability of plans – plans and documents submitted as part of a planning application are available to view online at the main City Council offices (St Aldate’s Chambers) during office hours. Paper copies of documents for major planning applications are available in reception, or for other types of planning application are available to view by making an appointment with the relevant case officer in advance. All planning applications are also available to view on the City Council website via Public Access. The website contains further details of the applications including when they are likely to be determined.

How planning applications are determined

5.8 Applications are assessed against planning policies by planning officers. An officer will write a report outlining the main issues and considering them against the relevant planning policies before reaching a recommendation to approve or refuse permission for the proposal. Before recommending a decision, the planning officer will make a full site inspection and take account of any comments received from neighbours, interested bodies, and statutory consultees. The results of any consultation will be reported and taken into account in decisions made by, and on behalf of, the City Council.

5.9 In general, planning applications will be determined in accordance with adopted policies, unless material considerations outweigh these policies\textsuperscript{18}. A material consideration is a matter that should be taken into account in deciding a planning application, or in an appeal against a planning decision. We have produced a help sheet that provides more information on material considerations which is available on our website to help you comment on applications.

\textsuperscript{16} Qualifying planning applications are currently advertised in the Oxford Times newspaper.

\textsuperscript{17} A summary of statutory consultees for planning applications is provided in the Planning Practice Guidance.

\textsuperscript{18} Section 70(2) of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 and section 38(6) of the Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004.
5.10 Legislation requires that applications are refused only when there are good planning reasons for refusal. In some cases it is appropriate to impose planning conditions in order to render a proposal acceptable. In other cases, officers may ask for small changes to be made to the proposal, and for amended plans to be submitted, in order to resolve issues. Any amended plans will be available on the City Council website and if the changes impact significantly then they will be subject to additional consultation, which may include updated site notices around the site. Alternatively if there are more significant issues to resolve, the application may be determined in its original form and the applicant invited to re-apply with revised proposals as a new application.

5.11 The majority of planning applications are decided by planning officers under delegated powers. These are mainly householder applications and small-scale or minor development proposals. Planning applications are decided in this way to help ensure that the majority are dealt with promptly.

5.12 Other applications are decided by a Planning Committee if:
- The application falls outside officer delegated powers (for example major applications);
- City councillors request that the application is dealt with at committee; or
- The application is submitted on behalf of the City Council or by an officer or city councillor.

5.13 Reports for applications being determined at committee are available for public inspection at the City Council’s main offices (St Aldate’s Chambers) and on the City Council website usually one week before the committee meeting.

5.14 Planning Committee meetings are open to members of the public to hear the discussion. The following groups will usually have the opportunity to speak at the committee before a decision is reached:
- Parish Councils;
- Objectors/representatives of objectors; and
- Applicants/their agents and supporters.

5.15 Normally a maximum of five minutes is available to speak either against or in support of each application, and this must be shared between all those wishing to speak at the meeting.

5.16 Committee members will then vote on whether to accept the officer’s recommendation in the report, and the outcome will be announced verbally at the meeting. Some applications may be deferred to a later meeting if further information or negotiation is needed.

5.17 All decision notices are published on the City Council website (via Public Access). A copy of the decision notice is also sent to the applicant (or their agent).

Appeals against planning application decisions

5.18 If an applicant has a planning application refused, or disagrees with the conditions attached to the granting of permission, or if the City Council fails to decide the application within the agreed timescales, the applicant has a right to appeal. In most cases appeals will be determined by an independent Inspector, although in some cases the Secretary of State may choose to determine the appeal themselves. This right of appeal does not extend to a third party (i.e. there is no right of appeal to anyone who is not the applicant).
5.19 The procedures for notifying people of appeals and for submitting comments during the appeal process is set out by the Planning Inspectorate, so it is beyond the remit of this SCIP. However for completeness an overview of the process is provided here.

5.20 When an appeal is made, the City Council will contact all those who commented on the original planning application and to adjoining properties, notifying them that an appeal has been made and, depending upon the type of appeal, informing them of how they can submit further comments should they want to do so. There is no need to repeat comments submitted at the application stage as these comments will be forwarded to the independent Inspector by the City Council. Local councillors are also notified.

5.21 The majority of appeals are dealt with by written representations and, where this is the case, the appeal is decided on the basis of the statements submitted by the appellant, the City Council and any third parties. Where a public hearing is to be held to consider an appeal, a site notice is also erected and in some cases information is published in the press. Appeal hearings and inquiries are open to the public and members of the public may also be given an opportunity to speak, at the discretion of the Inspector.

6. How will consultations be resourced?

6.1 Undertaking and publicising consultations on planning policy documents and planning applications requires considerable resources.

6.2 The following principles have been applied throughout the SCIP to achieve effective consultation whilst at the same time making best use of City Council resources:

- Electronic methods of communication are promoted as an efficient way to share information with a large number of people and quickly. However, care has been taken to ensure that we do not exclude people who find it difficult to access material online.
- Council-led consultation events will normally be led by City Council planners, but may involve other City Council officers and external resources if needed.
- We will work with other City Council departments, to share costs and resources, and to combine consultations to make best use of the community’s time and efforts, and avoid consultation fatigue.
- When producing the consultation programme for new policy documents, we will combine consultation activities where appropriate, and timetabling allows, to get the best value from resources and to avoid consultation fatigue.
- Where major planning applications require significant publicity and engagement, this may also require resources from the applicant, especially at the pre-application stage prior to submitting to the Council.
- The City Council will provide support to neighbourhood planning groups and is required to undertake consultation at specific stages, however the majority of consultation will be organised and funded by the relevant neighbourhood group.

assist the local community in understanding the proposal (see website for additional information about examples to help visualisation). This may also be applicable during period of the application being considered, depending on the technique used.

- For applicants of major applications where a Planning Performance Agreement is in place, we will seek to incorporate pre-application community engagement as a formal requirement.

- We will encourage applicants of major applications to engage with the Oxford Design Review Panel, both at pre-application stage and at the point when a more detailed proposal is set out.

- Depending on the nature of the application, consult with appropriate statutory consultees.

- Every planning application will have a nominated planning officer as a main point of contact for interested parties.

- A planning officer will visit site prior to recommending a decision.

- There is no opportunity to submit comments on appeals following a fast track procedure (such as the householder appeal procedure).

- Copies of all comments received at the application stage will be forwarded to the Planning Inspectorate.

- Members of the public may also be given the opportunity to speak at a hearing or inquiry.

Statutory consultation bodies will be allowed a longer period of time to comment on applications where this is prescribed by legislation.

Introduction

The Statement of Community Involvement in Planning (SCIP) sets out how the City Council will involve the local community and stakeholders in preparing planning policy documents and determining planning applications.

In revising the SCIP, it was important to involve the community and other stakeholders, in order to develop an approach that reflects the needs and aspirations of the community, stakeholders, as well as regulatory requirements.

This Public Involvement Statement explains:

i. The consultation and engagement that was undertaken to inform the revised SCIP;
ii. Who responded to the formal consultation; and
iii. How the comments have been taken into account in preparing the SCIP.

Consultation and engagement to inform the review of the SCIP

There were several ways that the City Council used people’s comments, about our consultation processes, to inform the review of the SCIP. We published a draft version of the SCIP for formal consultation, and we also reviewed people’s comments and complaints from the last year where they related to engagement in the planning process.

Engagement to inform the initial drafting of the SCIP (informal early engagement)

Prior to commencing the review of the SCIP we reviewed various sources of feedback about our current approach to consultation, such as what works well, what could be improved, as well as asking people how they prefer to contact or be contacted by the City Council.

In order to do this we:

- Sent out questionnaires with the Pre-submission consultation for the Northern Gateway AAP (July 2014) asking how individuals and groups how they want to find out about, and be involved in, planning in Oxford;
- Reviewed comments, compliments and complaints received by City Development;
- Reviewed feedback forms from previous consultation events;
- Spoke to colleagues across the planning department, as well as the corporate consultation officer.
- Reviewed responses to the City Development Customer Awareness Survey (2013) and the Planning Policy Customer First Project (2013).

The information gained helped to identify the main areas of change in the document, and to inform the first draft of the revised SCIP.

Consultation on the draft SCIP (formal consultation)
We then published for consultation the draft SCIP to get further feedback from the community and stakeholders about our proposed approach, and to if they had any other ideas for improving planning consultations.

The consultation ran for six weeks from 6th January to 17th February 2015. People could submit comments via an online questionnaire, printed copies of a questionnaire, or by email or letter. Hard copies of the consultation documents were available to view on the website, at the City Council’s main offices (St Aldate’s Chambers), and at public libraries across the City during opening hours.

We also contacted the following people that the consultation was taking place and let them know how they could get involved:

- All those registered on the City Council’s consultation database as having an interest in planning in Oxford (approximately 2,000 people);
- All the organisations and individuals listed on the City Council’s planning policy consultation database (approximately 300 people, including national and local interest groups, residents’ associations, local and national government organisations, parish councils, planning agents and developers);
- Participants of the Development Management User Group (representatives of approximately 25 organisations who regularly use Oxford’s planning services, such as planning agents); and
- Oxford City Council councillors.

Who responded to the formal consultation?

A total of 23 responses were received at the formal consultation stage. This relatively low response rate was not unexpected due to the procedural nature of the subject matter. People tend to be more interested when there is a specific location or development proposal to discuss.

However despite the low response rate, the comments received were from a range of service users (Figure 1) and provided a large amount of detailed information and suggestions for service improvements.

The ‘other’ responses received included: The University of Oxford; Wolvercote Neighbourhood Forum; an architect; The Mobile Operators Association; Natural England; and the Highways Agency.

The local interest groups that responded included: Oxford Preservation Trust; Oxford Civic Society; and Headington Action.

How the comments have been taken into account in preparing the SCIP

The table below summarises the comments received at the formal stage of consultation and explains how we have taken them into consideration.

The comments were generally quite detailed and specific, based on the users experiences of planning in Oxford, so there were not necessarily common themes across them, however some of the main themes from the comments were:
- Early engagement is widely supported;
- Over-reliance on online consultation methods. We need to ensure that we do not exclude those without internet access;
- IT issues are regularly encountered with the current consultation systems;
- Officer reports should be clearer in how comments have been considered (feelings that comments were ignored or not heard);
- Be upfront about how consultation responses will be used and be clear that consultation is not a vote;
- Work more closely with community and representative groups, in making people aware of consultations and getting people involved;

In some cases we have made changes directly to the SCIP wording, for example:
- We have made our commitment to early community engagement even stronger in both the planning policy and planning application processes. This includes providing additional advice for developers on how they can engage with communities at the pre-application stage;
- There is a commitment in the SCIP’s core principles to provide feedback on consultations and to be clear about how we have considered comments. We will be exploring new ways of communicating this to community through the SCIP Action Plan;
- We have provided more information on who Oxford’s communities are;
- We have emphasised even more strongly our commitment to ensuring that those without access to the internet will not be excluded from our consultations.

In other cases there may be wider issues that we cannot address immediately in the SCIP but nonetheless they are constructive points that will help us to continuously improve public engagement in planning decisions. Those points have been noted and an ‘Action Plan’ has been drawn up to set out clearly how we intend to respond to them appropriately through other means. This includes some of the on-going IT issues, and also where we need to do further work to explore communication tools such as social media.

There were also some issues raised that did not result in changes to the SCIP (for example when the issue raised had already been covered by the SCIP, or when the suggestion was beyond the scope of what we could reasonably deliver). Where this is the case, we have explained why.

In considering people’s comments, it is important to note that public comments are not the only factor that needs to be taken into account in planning decisions. We have to balance a number of factors, including government policy and legislation, best practice, and political priorities or decisions about what is in the best interest of those living or working in the city, including people who may have been silent during a consultation.

We do however recognise that it can be frustrating for people, if you have taken the time to read materials and prepare well-thought responses, if the policy or decision document does not then say what you want it to. This is one of the points that came through clearly from this particular consultation.

As such, we hope that this document helps to explain how we have taken into account all comments, even if the final document does not fully reflect the points you made, and we hope that you will engage in future planning decisions in Oxford.

<tr>
<td>Principles for community involvement in planning decisions</td>
<td>Do more to engage those without access to the internet</td>
<td>The City Council’s commitment to continue to provide for those who find it difficult to access material online has been emphasised in the SCIP. We will continue to provide alternative methods of communication/consultation for those without internet access, whilst balancing that there are also many benefits to online consultation methods (such as the ability to reach large numbers of people quickly and easily) and the SCIP also seeks to make the most of these opportunities.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Over reliance on online consultation methods</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Use plain, clear language</td>
<td>The SCIP already makes a commitment to use plain English, however a commitment to make planning policy documents clear and concise has also been added to the SCIP.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>More clarity, less lengthy documents</td>
<td>A commitment to do this has been added to the SCIP’s overarching principals for community engagement.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Be clearer about how consultation responses are considered and used</td>
<td>No action required. We already provide the majority of consultation documents as PDFs, which are quicker to download. Colour documents are used to ensure that images and diagrams are clear, and to help break up long pieces of text. Documents are checked for clarity so that they can also be printed in black and white if desired.</td>
</tr>
<tr>

</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>More innovative consultation ideas needed</td>
<td>A commitment to maintain awareness of current best practice and new and evolving methods of communication and consultation has been added to the SCIP. The SCIP aims to not be overly prescriptive so that the City Council or developers are not constrained, and to enable opportunities for innovation and to facilitate use of new ideas or best practice.</td>
</tr>

</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Current planning issues require the involvement of people and organisations outside the City but who live, work or operate within the City. This needs to be acknowledged and understood.</td>
<td>This has been taken into consideration when defining Oxford’s communities, and in deciding who to contact about the consultation.</td>
</tr>
<td></td>
<td>Oxford’s community is not homogenous. The SCIP is silent on how different groups can collaborate. Collaborative involvement of different groups will enable policies to better reflect community priorities and local needs; increased community commitment; stronger, more cohesive future communities and policies enhanced by local knowledge. Building relationships with representative groups is particularly important but how will this be done?</td>
<td>The Action Plan alongside the SCIP includes an item to review how we work with representative groups, particularly in the context that such groups may help to reach wider audiences and to raise awareness of consultations and planning processes.</td>
</tr>

The intention in the Community Engagement Policy to put collaboration at the heart of the planning process is not reflected in the SCIP. The SCIP is orientated towards consultation – getting people to agree to proposals already drafted. Collaboration is about bringing the community’s knowledge into the process to create better proposals and better places.

The SCIP emphasises the importance of early community engagement in planning processes, with the aim of enabling a more collaborative approach to planning. Earlier engagement gives the greater scope to shape policies and development proposals. The City Council also strongly encourages developers to engage with communities early on in developing proposals.

Other LPAs have been bolder in seizing the spirit of localism e.g. Lambeth has stated a vision of citizens, businesses and council working together on an equal footing, allowing citizens more direct influence over services. The SCIP’s approach does not appear consistent with localism and NPPF.

It is an aim of the City Council to improve dialogue and consultation throughout Council processes, including planning. This is reflected in the SCIP but also in wider corporate strategies such as the Corporate Plan 2015-19, the Community Engagement Policy Statement 2014-17, and the Corporate Equality Scheme 2012-15. The Council is however keen to carry on learning from best practice in other authorities, and as new and innovative ideas emerge, as noted in the Action Plan. In particular through the review of the SCIP, a review was carried out to compare best practice in comparable authorities in terms of how they encourage developers to carry out effective pre-application engagement.

<td>Page 11 of the Draft SCIP refers to the use of a 'variety of techniques'. An explanation of these techniques is needed. If this is to refer to techniques described in Section 6 on p14 or the Appendices, this should be made clearer in the final SCIP.</td>
<td>This section of the SCIP has been updated to clarify that a variety of consultation methods will be used as listed in Appendices Table 1.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>It is not sufficient for preferred options to be circulated informally to 'stakeholders' and it is not clear under what circumstances this would be considered appropriate. Such a vague statement should not be in the SCIP. All options should be made available for public comment.</td>
<td>This text has been amended in the SCIP.</td>

<td></td>
<td>The Draft SCIP (page14) refers to the use of charettes. Most people will not understand what these are. The statement itself says that plain English should be used so an alternative word is needed here. Where technical terms are unavoidable they need to be explained.</td>
<td>This section of the SCIP has been updated so that the word charette is no longer used.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Consultation methods are ever only as good and effective as the care taken in listening to and applying the messages learned.</td>
<td>Ways to monitor and review the quality of consultations, as well as how we feed back the learning from consultations, will be explored over the next 12 months, see the Action Plan for further details.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Provide feedback from consultation exercises.</td>
<td>The SCIP reiterates commitment to provide feedback and keep the community informed about progress and outcomes. There is also an additional action in the Action Plan, to explore how we can make it clearer to people how comments have been taken into account, and to encourage clearer feedback from applicants on major applications.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Stop limiting response to a certain amount of characters</td>
<td>Different consultation systems permit different types of responses, and where we have the option to limit characters then we try to balance this with the type of question. However there is always the option to submit letters by email or in the post, if someone feels that the consultation questionnaire form (or online version) is too restrictive in length of response.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Planning policy – early engagement</td>
<td>Early public involvement provides opportunities for communities to initiate ideas. Early consultation will give people more time to consider the issues.</td>
<td>The SCIP promotes early engagement in the preparing of planning policy documents (as well as planning applications).</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Consultations should take place before plans are agreed, rather than after.</td>
<td>The SCIP promotes early engagement in the preparing of planning policy documents, in addition to consultations on draft versions of plans.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Draft SCIP states that early consultation should be proportionate but it is not clear how it will be determined who should be involved at the early stages of policy formulation. An attempt has been made to show an example of how early public involvement would be undertaken and this is welcome but perhaps could be expanded to give assurance that all interests will be considered (pages 11 and 12).</td>
<td>The SCIP has been amended to highlight the new commitment to produce a bespoke consultation programme for each local plan document. The programme will be agreed by the authorising City Council body when embarking on new planning policy documents. Those consultation programmes will specify the key groups that we will aim to involve at each stage of document preparation, and how.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Publishing a consultation document before informal consultation/dialogue may be seen as pre-empting free discussion. It would be better if this were changed to: 'This will be wide-ranging and involve asking questions about what the document and policies should include.'</td>
<td>Text changed in the SCIP.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Planning policy – handling consultation responses</td>
<td>The council is quite good at getting feedback on policy documents. It is less good at handling such feedback, and demonstrating that feedback has been taken into account. A lot of goodwill is lost by inadequate feedback to feedback.</td>
<td>The SCIP makes a commitment to provide feedback and keep the community informed about progress and outcomes. Exploring new ways to provide feedback on planning policy consultations is also included the Action Plan, to be explored further over the next 12 months.</td>

| Preferred options should derive from consultation and not be the preferred Council options, unless no comments are received from the public. When options are published the actual number of responses in favour of a particular policy should be given rather than the percentage of the responses received so that the number supporting an option is clear.
Pre-submission collating of comments should accurately reflect the comments made. Unfortunately, on occasions in the past local residents have considered that there has been a rather selective process giving emphasis to the Council's views. | SCIP has been amended to set out a commitment to be clearer about how consultation responses will be used, and to explain the issues that can and cannot be taken into consideration. This matter is also identified for further exploration via the Action Plan. |
| Planning Policy – general comments | For the Annual Monitoring Report to review community involvement there needs to be some consultation with representatives of the community. For the results of monitoring to be credible, it should not be conducted internally by the Council but also involve some independent scrutiny. | The AMR is a factual document, and the section about the SCIP primarily assesses whether the procedural requirements of the SCIP have been complied with. Data relating to the quality of consultations has recently been added to the AMR (2013/14) and this information is taken from consultation feedback forms completed by members of the community. In addition the Action Plan contains a commitment to explore other ways of monitoring and reviewing the success of consultations. |
| An indication of the anticipated timescales involved in policy document preparation, as a whole, would be helpful. | Timescales for planning policy document production are provided in the Local Development Scheme, which is published on the City Council website. It is difficult to give indicative timings for the various document types because they vary so much depending on the topic. |

<th>Neighbourhood Plan processes</th>
<th>The SCIP could say something about why the Neighbourhood Plan process has had a slow start in Oxford, what obstacles exist and what ways are recommended to overcome the obstacles?</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Whilst the consultation elements of the neighbourhood planning process are discussed in the SCIP, it is not for the SCIP to comment on the progress to date of any of the emerging neighbourhood plans. The Annual Monitoring Report provides a general progress update instead, or there is information about each plan on the website.</td>

| The diagram on page 10 is mostly a representation of a cascading process. If Neighbourhood Plans are to be successful in exercising powers under the Localism Act they must contribute to any Local Plan documents; their implementation, any revisions, and in the formulation of new plans. There needs to be an arrow upwards from the Neighbourhood Plans to the box containing the Local Plan documents. | The diagram has been updated. |

| The SCIP doesn’t discuss the roles of Councillors (i) should they be encouraged to play an active part in area committees and neighbourhood forums so as to help the local community to articulate its views; (ii) should Councillors advise the most appropriate methods for public involvement for their wards and for the authority as a whole; (iii) should there be awareness training for elected members on the most frequently used consultation techniques, and particularly how to interpret the results? It would be interesting to know the extent to which Councillors have been involved in the preparation of the draft SCIP. | The SCIP encourages developers to inform ward councillors of developments in their wards at the pre-application stage, so that ward councillors can notify relevant local groups and actively encourage engagement in planning processes. Councillors will also be involved in agreeing the consultation programme for each policy document, because the SCIP includes a commitment for the authorising City Council body to agree a bespoke consultation programme for each new planning policy document. There is a Members code of practice, and Members are also offered regular training opportunities which often cover consultation-related issues (as referenced in the Action Plan). Members have been involved throughout the preparation of the SCIP, including CEB, scrutiny committee, and workshops. |

| The reference to Sustainability Appraisals on page 9 should contain an explicit reference to air quality. | Sustainability Appraisals consider a wide range of issues so it would not be appropriate in this particular instance to start listing specific aspects of sustainability. |

It is difficult to set a specific distance or geographic area, because the engagement needs to be appropriate to the proposal and the areas that its likely to impact. An alternative, for interested parties, is to sign up to planningfinder, to receive automatic notifications of developments in your selected postcodes.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Involve community through planning performance agreements.</td>

<td>Alongside the SCIP, a help sheet has been produced to encourage developers to use visual aids, and sets out examples of different visual aids and best practice that they should consider using when undertaking consultations. Whilst we can’t require them to be used, the SCIP encourages them.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Developers should be required to minute meetings and respond to issues raised.</td>
<td>As there is no legal requirement for developers to undertake consultation in most cases we would be unable to enforce this. However, the SCIP encourages developers to submit a statement explaining how they have undertaken consultation and how they have responded to any issues raised in the final version of the design. | Re-instate letters to notify neighbouring properties | Great consideration has been given to whether the City Council should re-introduce sending neighbour notification letters inviting comments on new planning applications. Such an option may be welcomed by many residents however it is not without its costs and some risks. The cost of re-introducing such letters is estimated in the region of £45,000 per year, and even when the Council formerly operated this procedure it still attracted complaints because some neighbours expected the extent of notification to have been wider and because they thought they could only comment if they received a letter.

The City Council is therefore looking to a range of mechanisms to consult neighbours and residents in close proximity to a proposed development. The planning service already makes extensive use of site notices, the web, and internet alerts such as PlanningFinder and the Council’s weekly list of applications. The new Council ‘App’ will extend the options further and enable a more personal service to be accessed by local residents, landlords, and others. The SCIP also confirms that the opportunity remains to view paper plans at the main St Aldates Reception and to use public computers to access the web here and at public libraries. |
| Inform local residents associations so they can inform local residents, planning notifications often missed. | There is an action in the Action Plan to explore how we can work with residents groups and other organisations, as a means of raising awareness about planning consultations, and encouraging people in that group, or their contacts, to get involved in planning decisions. |
| More communication methods, not just online. | The City Council’s commitment to continue to provide for those who find it difficult to access material online has been emphasised in the SCIP. This approach will also be encouraged of developers. |
| Better consultation relating to revised plans and other changes during the application process. | Consultation on plans that are revised by the applicant mid-way through a planning application being determined will be done in a way that is proportionate to the changes proposed. In some cases re-advertisement (with pink site notices, instead of yellow ones) may be required if the changes impact significantly. |

<td>The SCIP includes a summary of the planning application assessment process, but if further information would be helpful then it could be a topic for future help sheets. The Government website Planning Portal also explains the planning system overall, in a section aimed at the general public http://www.planningportal.gov.uk/planning/planningsystem/</td>

<td>Be clearer about what constitutes a 'major application'</td>
<td>The definition is determined by national policy, so a footnote has been added to explain that “At the time of writing, major applications are defined by Article 2 of the Town and Country Planning (Development Management Procedure (England) Order 2015”. The Article can be viewed online here and includes criteria such as 10 or more dwellinghouses, a site area of greater than 0.5ha for new dwellings (or 1ha for other uses), or new floorspace of greater than 1000sqm. This is however subject to change, so to avoid the SCIP becoming out of date then the definition has not been repeated in the SCIP itself.</td>

<td>Also highlight what is not a material consideration.</td>
<td>We have produced a help sheet on the website providing more detailed information on what is and is not a material consideration, to help people when commenting on planning applications. A link to this is now provided within the SCIP.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<td>Obtaining information about when applications are to be considered by committee is inefficient and unreliable. The City Council advise applicants but not those who submit comments. Even those answering the phone at the planning office may be unable to provide accurate information and advice. This situation is obviously unsatisfactory and distressing.</td>
<td>The dates of all committee meetings are published on the City Council website in the ‘Calendar of meetings’, and planning committee meetings tend to be scheduled 6-12 months in advance. Normal practice is then for the agenda to be published on the website at least 5 days in advance of the meeting. Sometimes if the case officer is still awaiting information up until the date the report needs to be published, then an application may need to be moved to a later planning committee date, but once the agenda is published then the applications to be considered at that committee date do not normally change. Officers answering telephone queries are therefore similarly advised to refer to the agenda on the website.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Major applications can generate large numbers of documents. These need to be more clearly named online.</td>
<td>Noted, and training is being undertaken to ensure planning application documents which are uploaded by the City Council are clearly labelled. For planning applications that are submitted by the applicant via the Government’s online (‘oneapp’) system, then the applicant generates the labelling but we are working to see how this can also be improved to make it easier for the public to find the documents that they are looking for, especially on major applications with many documents.</td>

<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The process works well enough (it uses postal communication!). We would like to have more clarification on how appeal decisions are taken into account when assessing later applications for a particular site. E.g. there has been an example in Quarry where a recommendation for approval for a planning application appears to contradict the principles established in a previous appeal decision refusing development for the same site.</td>
<td>A case officer will always consider the planning history of a site as part of the decision-making process, such as previous City Council decisions and any Planning Inspectorate or legal decisions, which may have established key principles. The decision may not necessarily follow the same path though if, for example, the proposal has changed significantly, or if the policy (national or local level) has changed significantly since the previous decision.</td>

<td>Online consultation systems</td>
<td>A number of comments were received relating to problems experienced when trying to use our online systems for consultations and viewing documents (PublicAccess, PlanningFinder, Inovem).</td>
<td>Alongside the SCIP an Action Plan sets out a number of ways that we are working to ensure that the IT systems which support engagement in planning are fit for purpose and user-friendly. <tr>
<td>Helps sheets to support the SCIP</td>
<td>Help sheets and supplementary guidance are useful but there needs to be a more joined up approach which helps to guide users through the enormous amounts of information available. The OCC Heritage Portal is a good example of this.</td>
<td>Supporting online access to planning information is included in the Action Plan to improve navigation of the City Council web pages which are now reviewed at least 6 monthly, and more frequently where appropriate. This includes links to the Character Assessment Toolkit pages as well as other specialist pages. The City Council has also engaged user testing to improve the web pages.</td>

<td>Provide links to the Oxford Character Assessment Toolkit which was developed as a community engagement tool for the City Council, developers &amp; architects to use when considering development and to inform decisions about managing the environment.</td>
<td>The SCIP and supporting help sheets have been updated to take into account the consultation responses received, as explained in this Public Involvement Statement.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>These all seem good but we would like to see some documents updated in line with consultation responses.</td>
<td>Tables 1 and 2 of the SCIP affirm our commitment to provide paper copies of policy consultation documents at appropriate deposit points in the city (such as libraries and St Aldate’s Chambers). The SCIP also states the ways that we will make paper copies of planning applications available for inspection.</td>

<tr>
<td>Suggested help sheet topics</td>
<td>The SCIP includes a summary of the planning application assessment process, but if further information would be helpful then it could be a topic for future help sheets. Also the Action Plan includes an action to trial a newsletter, which could help to explain the planning processes too. The Government website Planning Portal also explains the planning system overall, in a section aimed at the general public http://www.planningportal.gov.uk/planning/planningsystem/</td>

<td>It is no longer possible to make paper copies of every application available in reception due to practical space limitations. In addition, a significant number of applications are now submitted online. Therefore people are encouraged to view applications online via Public Access, either at home or using the computers in St Aldate’s Chambers, however paper copies are still available to view upon request.</td>

<td>There is only a small area at the rear of St Aldate’s Chambers where groups can view planning applications. Larger groups have to split up, with some using the smaller computers at the front. This means frequent visits across the office, causing disturbance and distraction. The small monitors at the front of St Aldate’s Chambers do not enable proper appreciation of complex drawings. One of the three computers at the rear of St Aldate’s Chambers was not working for several weeks, despite repeated reporting to staff. There are issues of equipment reliability and systems maintenance/fault rectification. The computer systems are unresponsive and slow. We have complained repeatedly of these failings but we have seen little sign of commitment to improvement.</td>

<td>This feedback has been noted and actions have already been taken, including adding an extra computer and larger screens in the public area. <td>Seek advice on this from outside sources such as Brookes business school, to try and receive some new, fresh innovative ideas. How about involving students from the universities? Good practice and worthwhile projects for them and hopefully good ideas/feedback for the City Council. Use the strength around you.</td>
<td>The Action Plan alongside the SCIP includes an action to explore working with existing networks and forums –which could include the universities where they have innovative experience of consultations. They could also potentially feed into the action in the Action Plan about setting up a reference group.</td>

<td>A permanent display all current/upcoming developments in the Town Hall</td>
<td>Noted. This is being explored as something that could potentially be accommodated in the self service area at St Aldates’s Chambers. It is also something that we hope publishing a regular newsletter will help to address.</td>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>Newspaper ads expensive and misused. Contact more residents directly, local organisations, local publications, local TV/radio - youth groups and schools to engage children in planning developments in their patch.</td>
<td>The Regulations require that some types of planning application are advertised in local newspapers. In Oxford this is The Oxford Times newspaper. In addition we aim to use a range of different methods to reach as many people as possible, and the Action Plan includes an action to explore more use of social media to engage people.</td>

<tr>
<td>Involve neighbouring Parish Councils and residents from the District Council parishes sharing a boundary with the City.</td>
<td>Local authorities and parish councils adjoining an application site, or area covered by a policy document, will normally be consulted. We would also encourage those bodies to let their local residents know.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Involve people in conjunction with Councillors: at the moment the public's perception is that the Councillors are merely go-betweens.</td>
<td>Ward councillors are notified of any application in their area, or policy document consultation. The SCIP also encourages applicants to engage with the relevant ward councillors so that they can help to raise awareness of the proposal locally in case people want to make comments. There is also regular training available for members if they want to engage more with the planning processes.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
Heavy reliance on online methods, even if someone wanted to visit a deposit point they have to find opening times etc. online! Local groups would be happy to provide additional deposit points outside library/office hours.

The proposed and existing methods of communication rely substantially on the internet which excludes all those without access to, or ability to use, the internet. Arrangements should be made so that these people are not excluded.

The City Council is required to meet Regulatory requirements in terms of where and how documents are displayed, so if a document is not available as advertised then there is a risk that we could be subject to legal challenge. However this suggestion and offer of assistance could have benefits to availability and will be explored to better understand the legal implications of making documents available via alternatives to the regular deposit points.

Identify who needs to be involved at what stage.

The SCIP introduces a new requirement for a bespoke consultation statement to be produced whenever the City Council embarks on a new planning policy document. This will set out who needs to be involved at each stage as appropriate to the issues under consideration.

Think about how the Oxford Student Community Partnership Group can be used.

The Action Plan alongside the SCIP includes an action to explore working with existing networks and forums - such as the Oxford Student Community Partnership – to facilitate engagement with the planning process.

Engage with key stakeholders/representative groups in advance of consultations to provide them with advance warning and to seek views on the most effective methods.

The SCIP encourages that consultation should start as early as possible to give people the opportunity to participate and contribute ideas. Particularly for policy documents, it also encourages more on-going dialogue and to shift away from only consulting key stakeholders/representative groups, so this will be one way that people have more advance notice of the direction that planning processes are heading.

We will also be trialling a planning newsletter, to help to keep people updated in between formal consultation periods. The Action Plan also includes an action to explore setting up a user group for major consultation methods, to help shape future consultation events.
| Resources for consultation | The new emphasis on community involvement will require substantial investment in building and deploying skills. A bigger effort made in the early planning stages will result in savings later on. Planners must avoid commitments to public engagement that can/will not be funded. The RTPI recommends that SCIPS should be costed and an estimated budget calculated for at least 3 years ahead. The current draft SCIP will need a lot more detail before costing can be accurate. Ways of undertaking collaborative work with the public could include: cost sharing with other departments; liaison with other departments undertaking consultation/public involvement to reduce duplication/overlaps (why was the Community Engagement Policy consultation and the SCIP consultation undertaken separately?) and Council departments and other agencies working together to build and maintain an accurate database of representative groups as part of a single stakeholder database. |
| City Council should carry out a rolling programme of education on planning process within local communities. This could involve annual half day workshops for interested residents in each part of the City. One was held in Highfield a few years ago and it was very well received. It would enable more effective participation. | The Action Plan alongside the SCIP notes the importance of building capacity and knowledge in communities, to engage effectively in planning processes, and this is an objective for several of the proposed actions. We will explore working with community groups, and also with colleagues in the City Council’s regeneration areas, to review the best ways to achieve this. Its likely to be via a combination of methods depending on the target audience and their preferred way of engaging. |
| The SCIP has taken account of the predicted budget available for the Planning service over the next few years. |  |
| Other comments relating to the SCIP | There should be stronger links between the SCIP and the Heritage Strategy to ensure a joined up process. The Heritage Plan and its commitment to an SPD should be included within the SCIP, as well as a commitment keep updated the Heritage Portal so that there can be no doubt that heritage is an integral part of planning and policy in Oxford and not a specialist area. We would like to see cross-reference made to the heritage plan framework and its role within the planning process. | The Action Plan includes an action to keep the web pages under regular review, so part of that will include ensuring better links across the pages for different planning topics, including linking in with the Heritage Strategy and Framework. |
| Biodiversity, hydrology, flooding, Oxford’s green setting, over-development by huge institutions - these are all issues where the planning policies are failing Oxford’s residents. This draft document does not address these issues. | These issues are discussed in other policy documents. The SCIP covers consultation procedures and this comment seems to be referring to technical planning merits of decisions rather than the consultation processes. |
| Highlight how the community can engage with other agencies such as Oxfordshire LEP. | The SCIP is produced by the City Council and sets out requirements related to City Council planning processes. It is not appropriate for the SCIP to make commitments on behalf of other organisations for their engagement with the public unless it relates to a planning application they have submitted. |
| Hard copies of documents should be available free of charge on request so that non-computer literate people, often the elderly and less well-off, are not excluded. | Paper copies of policy consultation documents are made available at relevant deposit points throughout the city. Paper copies of planning applications are available to view at the City Council’s main offices (St Aldate’s Chambers). |
| Embrace social media. | Ways to utilise social media in planning consultations will be explored over the next 12 months, as set out in the Action Plan. |
Appendix D

Action Plan for Community Involvement in Planning

This Action Plan for Community Involvement in Planning sets out actions to support improvements in the quality, process and impact of engagement in planning processes. It is not intended to be an exhaustive list and will be kept under review.

The Action Plan is a supporting document for the Statement of Community Involvement (in Planning) (SCI(P)(2015)), to set out the more detailed or specific actions that the Council is committed to in its aspirations for continuous improvement of community engagement in the planning process. In this way, the Action Plan clarifies how the Council is intending to deliver the SCI to address ideas and suggestions that were raised in the consultation responses.

The Action Plan illustrates, using practical examples, that the Council is committed to effective community engagement both now and in the longer term. The Action Plan also reflects that some changes are not achievable instantly but will take some time to resolve and/or decisions which impact more widely than the planning processes of the City Council, such as IT systems.

The actions are framed by four key principles for effective engagement in planning processes:

1. Timely and sustained – events and activities should start before any planning decisions are made and engagement should last throughout the planning process and beyond;
2. Inclusive for all local people – those living and working in an area have a right to be involved, all parties are welcome, and process must take account of peoples’ varied needs;
3. Two way, open and responsive – communication should be discursive not prescriptive, so that information can be debated and ideas exchanged; and
4. A matter of public record – the processes must be documented and published.

The Action Plan will be reviewed periodically, and at least annually, to update on progress.

Regular communication via a newsletter could have several benefits by encouraging more continuous information sharing with internal and external customers rather than just at specific consultation points.

It will help with clearer information sharing about emerging policies and progress on decisions, so that people can engage more effectively at the appropriate times.

Regular feedback can help to develop relationships local groups eg we can use the newsletter to demonstrate how public and stakeholder views have been taken into account in previous engagement exercises.

People will be clearer about what consultation will be taking place and when as we can use the newsletter as a further channel to publicise and give advance notice.

STAGE 1
- Designating a neighbourhood area
  - Submits background information required by the regulations to the City Council and requests designation.
  - Checks application.
  - Notifies statutory consultees.

STAGE 2
- Designating a neighbourhood forum
  - Submits background information required by the regulations to the City Council and requests designation.
  - Checks application.
  - Publicises application for 6 weeks and invites comments.

STAGE 3
- Evidence gathering and early public consultation
  - Gathers evidence.
  - Decides on the best way to consult local residents and businesses.
  - Considers the need for SEA/HRA.

STAGE 4
- Pre-submission consultation on detailed proposals for a neighbourhood development plan
  - Submits to City Council: Map or statement identifying the plan area.
  - Consultation statement. Proposed plan. Statement explaining compliance with statutory requirements.
  - Sends plan documents, HRA (if required) and copies of all the comments received at Stage 5 to the independent examiner.

STAGE 5
- Submission and publicising proposed neighbourhood development plan
  - No action required.
  - No action required.
  - No action required.
  - No action required.

STAGE 6
- Check submitted neighbourhood development plan is legally compliant
  - No action required.
  - No action required.
  - No action required.
  - No action required.
  - Checks plan meets basic conditions.
  - Considers the examiner’s views and decides whether to make any changes.
  - Publishes decision statement.

STAGE 7
- Appointment of independent examiner
  - Responsible for appointing an independent examiner.
  - Sends plan documents, HRA (if required) and copies of all the comments received at Stage 5 to the independent examiner.
  - Checks plan meets basic conditions.
  - Considers the examiner’s views and decides whether to make any changes.
  - Publishes decision statement.

STAGE 8
- Submission of neighbourhood development plan to examination
  - No action required.
  - No action required.
  - Referendum
  - Adoption
  - Publicise the neighbourhood development plan

STAGE 9
- Consideration of examiner’s views (if changes are recommended)
  - No action required.
  - No action required.
  - No action required.
  - No action required.
  - The City Council is required to adopt any plan where the majority of people who voted were in support of it. The plan will be taken to Full Council for adoption.

STAGE 10
- Referendum
  - No action required.
  - Organises a referendum (covering the relevant geographical area) for any plan that is still proceeding.

STAGE 11
- Adoption
  - No action required.
  - The City Council is required to adopt any plan where the majority of people who voted were in support of it. The plan will be taken to Full Council for adoption.

STAGE 12
- Publicise the neighbourhood development plan
  - No action required.
  - Publicises the adopted neighbourhood development plan and makes it available for viewing.

Overview of Involvement and Communication Methods

This help sheet provides an overview of the main methods of community involvement/communication and how they will be used by the City Council as part of the planning process. Applicants considering undertaking major or other significant development should consider some of these methods for engaging with the community. This information may also be useful to Neighbourhood Forums as they consider engaging with local people and businesses as part of the Neighbourhood Development Plan process.

| Website (www.oxford.gov.uk) | Able to share a wide range of detailed information with a large audience. Is often more accessible to some hard-to-reach groups (e.g. younger people). Information is available at any time. Resource efficient. | Excludes those without access to the internet. Technical problems could hinder access to information. Information can be hard to access if there is too much or it is not well structured/displayed. | The website is the main way that we share information. We currently:
  - Make sure that the relevant webpages are kept up to date on the progress of planning policy document production (including providing copies of evidence and consultation reports); and
  - Ensure that information on current planning applications is made available through the electronic publication of the weekly list and via ‘Public Access’ (see below). |
| Public Access (Online system for viewing and commenting on planning applications. Accessed via our website.) | Enables people to access a wide range of information relating to planning applications and appeals. Comments are instantly received. Resource efficient. | Excludes those without access to the internet. Technical problems could hinder access to information/ submission of comments. | Public Access is currently the main way that we share information about planning applications. People who do not have access to the internet at home are able to use the computers at our offices in St. Aldate’s Chambers or city libraries during opening hours. |
| QR Codes (Barcode like symbols that can be scanned by a compatible smartphone or tablet that then takes users through to a specific webpage.) | Enables quick and easy access to detailed information on the move. Is often more accessible to some hard-to-reach groups (e.g. younger people). | Excludes those without compatible smartphones or tablets with the necessary app. Smartphone and tablet screens may be too small to view detailed plans and documents properly. | QR codes are currently used on site notices. When scanned, they take users through to the Public Access page on our website where they can view planning application information and submit comments. |
| Consultee Access (System for notifying local interest groups and other organisations of planning applications within a specified area. Comments can also be submitted via this system.) | Allows groups to more easily manage their consultation responses. Resource efficient. | Excludes those without access to the internet. Technical problems could hinder access to information or the submission of comments. Operated by third party provider - limited control of service/ technical issues. | Consultee Access is a service that we currently offer to local interest groups and other organisations in addition to Public Access. |
| Planning Finder (Planning application notification system. Registration via our website. Users post code data to notify users of planning applications they may be interested in.) | People can specify multiple areas that they are interested in. If they 'flag' an application they will also be notified when the application has been determined. Resource efficient. | Excludes those without access to the internet. Technical problems could hinder access to information/ submission of comments. Operated by third party provider - limited control over quality of service/ technical issues. | Planning Finder is not the Council’s main consultation method for planning applications. However, it provides a useful tool for members of the community to keep up to date on planning applications in specific areas. |
| Email | Direct contact with specific individuals. Minimal delay between email being sent and being received. Resource efficient. | Can only contact those people who have provided their email addresses specifically for this purpose. Email addresses/ contacts may change over time meaning that the database can easily become out of date. | We normally use emails in the following situations:
  - To inform statutory consultees of relevant planning policy and planning application consultations
  - To inform councillors of planning applications and appeals (by emailing weekly lists).
  - To provide updates to people who have specifically registered their interest in the progress of planning policy document production. |
| Facebook (Online social network) | Able to share information with a large audience. Is often more accessible to some hard-to-reach groups. Resource efficient. | Excludes those without access to the internet. Could generate online comments and debates rather than formal consultation responses which may be hard to manage, monitor and assess. | The Council’s Facebook account may be used as an additional means of notifying people when consultation periods start and close for planning policy documents and major/significant planning applications and appeals. |

Could generate online comments and debates rather than formal consultation responses which may be hard to manage, monitor and assess. | The Council’s Twitter account may be used as an additional means of notifying people when consultation periods start and close for planning policy documents and major/significant planning applications and appeals. |
| Online Consultation Portal (Online system available via our website where people can register to receive alerts when consultations are undertaken and/or complete a questionnaire/survey.) | Sends automatic email alerts to registered users to let them know about new consultations. People can manage their own profiles/settings. Consultations responses are automatically input into a database. Resource efficient. | Excludes those without access to the internet. Only notifies people who have registered with the system and who have said that they are interested in planning and regeneration. | The online consultation portal is currently used for the majority of planning policy consultations to allow people to view consultation documents and to make comments via an online questionnaire. |
| Printed | | | |
| Site Notices | Provides notice of development proposals in the area most likely to be affected. Resource efficient. | May be damaged or removed. May not be seen or be ignored. May be less accessible to some hard-to-reach groups (e.g. people who are housebound due to illness or disabilities). | Site notices displayed on or near the site will be the main way that we notify people of planning applications. Site notices will be printed on yellow card to increase their visibility and laminated to protect them from rain. Notices for amended schemes will be printed on pink card so that they can be differentiated from the original notice. Notices will be displayed at least 21 days before the consultation closes in line with statutory requirements. |
| Paper copies of documents | Accessible to those without access to the internet or who are unable to use computers. Enables large plans to be viewed more easily. Locations may be inaccessible to some (e.g. people who are housebound due to illness or disabilities). Opportunities to view documents is limited by opening hours. | | |
| Letters (Printed letters sent via the post.) | Easy to target people in a specific area. Letters can be sent directly to all properties. Is often more accessible to some hard-to-reach groups (e.g. housebound, disabled and frail elderly people). Delay between letters being produced and being received. Where properties are rented, the letters may not be seen by the property owner. Not environmentally friendly. Postage and printing costs. | We currently:
- Make sure that paper copies of planning policy consultation documents are available to view at our offices in St. Aldate’s Chambers and city libraries during their opening hours;
- Make paper copies of major planning applications available to view at our offices in St Aldate’s Chambers during opening hours;
- Make paper copies of other types of planning application available at our offices during opening hours upon request. | We will not normally use letters to notify people of planning policy or planning application consultations. Letters will only be used in the following situations:
- To notify statutory consultees of planning policy and planning application consultations where we do not have email addresses.
- To notify people of planning appeals. (Letters will be sent to adjoining properties and all those who commented on the original planning application.) |
| Leaflets | Easy to target people in a specific area. Leaflets can be delivered directly to all properties. Is often more accessible to some hard-to-reach groups (e.g. housebound and frail elderly people). Delivery can be highly resource intensive. Limited information can be given (summary only). Where properties are rented, the information may not be seen by the property owner. | Leaflets may be used for planning policy consultations where we need to target a specific geographical area of the City. | |
| Paper response forms / questionnaires | Accessible to those without access to the internet or who are unable to use computers. Locations may be inaccessible to some (e.g. people who are housebound due to illness or disabilities). Access limited by opening hours. | | For planning policy consultations, we will make sure that paper copies of response forms/questionnaires are available at our offices in St Aldate’s Chambers and city libraries during opening hours. A printable version of the response form/questionnaire will also be made available on our website. |
| Posters | Can be used to highlight key information and events. Poster locations can be chosen to target a wide range of people. Publicity ‘in the community’ (local libraries, shopping centres, sports centres/community centres and community noticeboards). | Can be easily dismissed or overlooked. Information provided is limited. | Posters may be used for planning policy consultations where we need to target a specific geographical area of the City. |

Newspaper advertisements
- Newspaper advertisements may take two forms:
  - i) Statutory notices
  - ii) Press releases

- Statutory Notices
  - Newspaper advertisements may take two forms:
    - i) Statutory notices
    - ii) Press releases

- Press Releases
  - We will usually issue a press release to share key information about planning policy document production (such as consultations, examinations and adoption). We may also issue press releases to advertise consultations and progress on significant development and regeneration projects.
  - We also notify the local press (Oxford Times and Oxford Mail) of all planning appeals.

Public exhibitions (unstaffed)
- Able to present information in interesting and easily-accessible manner. Focused attention on specific project(s). Resource efficient. Locations can be targeted to reach people most likely to be affected by development proposals (e.g. those in specific areas of the city).
- No opportunity to clarify issues or receive feedback directly. Can be missed if not well publicised in advance.

- Statutory notices
  - We may hold unstaffed public exhibitions relating to planning policy consultations to raise people's awareness of key issues and to encourage people to look at the consultation documents online/at deposit points. We may also do this for major / significant planning applications.

Public exhibitions (staffed)
- Able to present a lot of information. Focused attention on specific project(s). Opportunities to clarify and discuss issues and to receive feedback. Locations can be targeted to reach people most likely to be affected by development proposals (e.g. those in specific areas of the city).
- Resource intensive (staff time, cost of producing exhibition materials, venue hire, etc.). Time limited. Can be missed if not well publicised in advance.

- Statutory notices
  - We may hold staffed public exhibitions as part of our consultations on planning policy documents to raise people's awareness of key issues and provide an opportunity to discuss those issues with City Council officers. We may also do this for major / significant planning applications.

Public meetings
- Means of sharing information with a wide audience. More efficient if part of a pre-arranged meeting (for example visits to Parish Council or Neighbourhood Forum meetings).
- Potential to be dominated by an unrepresentative minority. Others may be intimidated so not all views may get heard or put across. Resource intensive. Relies on people being available at the specified date/time.

- Statutory notices
  - We may try to reach community groups through existing forums dealing with local issues when undertaking consultations on planning policies. This option may be considered for exceptional, significant schemes but is not normally used as a preferred method of consultation.

Verbal / Face-to-Face
- Provides an opportunity to explain/clarify issues and answer queries. Is often more accessible to some hard-to-reach groups (e.g. disabled, frail older people and those with literacy difficulties).

- Statutory notices
  - Comments on planning applications and planning policy documents must be formally made in writing and therefore telephone conversations are not one of the main ways that we would usually consult members of the public. However, the City Council’s telephone number is widely available and officers will discuss cases with members of the public if they call as part of our commitment to provide excellent customer service.

Structured Public Workshops
- Public workshops can generate ideas, improve understanding and develop 'ownership' of proposals. Participants get to hear each other’s perspectives during the discussion.
- Resource intensive (requires significant preparation, staff time, venue hire, etc.). Relies on people being available at the specified date/time.

- Statutory notices
  - We may use workshops in consultations on policy documents to facilitate discussion and gather different perspectives on emerging policies.

Public workshops
- Public workshops can generate ideas, improve understanding and develop ‘ownership’ of proposals. Participants get to hear each other’s perspectives during the discussion.
- Resource intensive (requires significant preparation, staff time, venue hire, etc.). Relies on people being available at the specified date/time.

- Statutory notices
  - We may use workshops in consultations on policy documents to facilitate discussion and gather different perspectives on emerging policies.

One-to-one meetings with selected stakeholders
- Useful means of identifying key issues and involving specialist organisations.
- Resource intensive.

- Statutory notices
  - Planning policy documents often require on-going informal dialogue, such as with statutory consultees, key delivery partners and neighbouring local authorities under the ‘duty to cooperate’. This may take the form of one-to-one meetings.

Steering/advisory group

A way to get key organisations involved in overseeing or acting as a sounding board for the production of planning policy documents. Particularly appropriate for area action plans or topic-based policies. The role of the group needs to be clear (via terms of reference) and there should be a transparent approach to selecting members.

Resource intensive.

Steering groups may be used in overseeing the preparation of technical studies and emerging policies, for example to test key assumptions or methodology, in planning policy.

Radio

Can reach a wide representation of the community and raise the profile of plans and proposals.

Expensive. Time consuming to produce. May only reach some social groups.

Not normally used as a method of informing people about consultations, however this option may be considered for exceptional, significant schemes.
Appendix F

Summary of Oxford City Council’s procedure for displaying site notices for planning applications

This note summarises the procedures that officers follow when dealing with planning applications, so that members of the public can be clear about what site notices they can expect to see, where, and when.

Statutory Requirements

To fulfil its obligations under Article 13 of the Town & Country Planning (Development Management Procedure) (England) Order 2010, the City Council must display at least one site notice on or near each application site for no less than 21 days.

When will we put up site notices?

We aim to display site notices usually within one week of a planning application being received and validated. We will always allow at least 21 days to submit comments from the date a site notice is first displayed.

Where will site notices be displayed?

Site notices must be displayed ‘in at least one place on or near the land to which the application relates’¹.

The most obvious location to display a site notice is on any gatepost, fencing, or railings to the front of the application site. If this is not possible, then the site notice will normally be attached to the nearest lamp post, street sign, or telegraph pole. Where it is not possible to display a site notice in any of these locations, the notice will be displayed on the front window(s) or door of the application site.

If the development proposed would be located to the rear or side of a site or is a corner plot and could have an impact on properties located on a different road, another site notice will be displayed on the other road(s) in question.

How many notices will be displayed?

The number of site notices displayed will depend on the scale and location of the proposed development. Whilst the Regulations require at least one site notice to be displayed, additional notices may be required for corner plots and developments to the side or rear of a site (as described above). Additional site notices will also be displayed for large scale development proposals.

What information will be on the notice?

¹in accordance with paragraph (5)(a) of Article 13 of The Town & Country Planning (Development Management Procedure) (England) Order 2010
The following information will be included on site notices:

- a description of the proposed development and site address
- where you can view the application
- how you can submit comments and the deadline for doing this.

What do different colour site notices mean?

Site notices for new planning applications will normally be printed on YELLOW card. This is to ensure that they stand out and are noticeable.

If we receive amended plans or additional significant information during the application process, we may display further site notices to advertise these changes if they are significant and provide an additional 14 day consultation period. To alert people to the fact that the notice is advertising new information we will use a PINK site notice.

What if the site notice is removed or damaged?

Sometimes a site notice may be removed before the 21 day consultation period ends, without the knowledge of the City Council. Article 13 of the Town & Country Planning (Development Management Procedure) (England) Order 2010 states:

Where the notice is, without any fault or intention of the local planning authority, removed, obscured or defaced before the period of 21 days has elapsed, the authority shall be treated as having complied with the requirements if they have taken reasonable steps for protection of the notice and, if need be, its replacement.

Site notices are laminated to provide protection against rain and are secured by strong, waterproof cable ties, to reduce risk of them being removed unintentionally. When a site notice is displayed, photographs are taken and are kept on file to show that the City Council has met these requirements.

How and when will the site notice be taken down?

When we register a planning application, we ask the applicant to remove the site notice at the end of the 21 day consultation period. However, this will not be possible in all cases. Planning officers are supplied with tape cutters so that they can remove expired site notices if they come across them whilst undertaking site visits.

Encouraging Developer-led Community Engagement in planning applications: Comparison of approaches taken by other authorities

Statutory requirements and national guidance

There is no statutory requirement for developers to undertake pre-application consultation. However, there is clear support for early community engagement in the National Planning Policy Framework, as Paragraph 66 states: “Applicants will be expected to work closely with those directly affected by their proposals to evolve designs that take account of the views of the community. Proposals that can demonstrate this in developing the design of the new development should be looked on more favourably”. This is support is then echoed in the National Planning Practice Guidance.

It should be noted that the Planning Portal, which provides guidance on preparing and submitting planning applications, has no current guidance or information on community involvement.

Reason for research

This document summarises a review undertaken to look at the approaches of other local planning authorities in terms of their requirements or guidance provided for developers to engage with communities at either the pre-application or application stages. The research was undertaken in order to help us understand the different approaches available and to enable us to benchmark our approach against other authorities to help ensure that we are delivering high standards of engagement.

It should be noted that the research was based on publically-available information obtained from the authorities’ websites only, on the basis that the website would be the most likely initial source of information that developers would look to prior to any pre-application meeting.

In undertaking this research, we looked at broadly comparable planning authorities (small-medium city-based authorities). The table below summarises our findings and identifies where there may be lessons we could learn. Bristol provides some particularly interesting ideas for developer-led engagement, although it should be noted that some of the proposals are only in draft form and further monitoring would need to be undertaken to establish how the requirements stand up to challenge at appeal or legal cases.

Conclusions and lessons learnt

In general, it was found that many authorities do not seem to have any published information on their websites that mentions community involvement at the pre-application stage. Oxford’s strong encouragement of pre-application engagement by developers, and the provision of detailed guidance, means that we are already ahead of many other authorities in this respect.

Some authorities do have a general reference to pre-application consultations in their Design & Access Statement guidance, but this tends to be fairly vague, leaving it entirely up to the developer if they wish to engage with the community or not. For example, one authority’s guidance states: “state what, if any, consultation has been undertaken on issues relating to access to the development and what account has been taken of the outcome of any such consultation” [emphasis added].

From the examples of good practice that were identified, the following lessons can be learnt:

Pre-application guidance

- Our approach of strongly encouraging developers to undertake community engagement at the pre-application stage needs to be embedded in our pre-application guidance, including the text on our website. Our pre-application webpage already highlights the importance of community engagement (second paragraph), and links to guidance on how to help the community understand development proposals, and this already goes further than many other authorities. However, we could improve this by adding a link to the Statement of Community of Involvement on this page to emphasise this responsibility and to clarify our policy.

- We could also prepare a more general note about ‘community involvement in the pre-application process’ to spell out the benefits of early community engagement and the need for a developer to explain not only what consultation they have undertaken, but also how this has influenced their proposals. Bristol note is good example http://www.bristol.gov.uk/sites/default/files/documents/planning_and_building_regulations/planning_applications_and_process/Community%20involvement%20in%20the%20pre%20application%20process.pdf

- We could also add a paragraph targeted at the community ‘what to do if you want to get involved at pre-app stage’

A greater role for community groups

Bristol council set up Neighbourhood Partnerships as a channel for views. We already have (online) Neighbourhood Discussion Forums – need to look into whether these could do a similar role, and whether we should be promoting them more to developers. Also note that currently they don’t cover the whole city, only Central south/west, Headington/marston, or Cowley. http://www.oxford.gov.uk/PageRender/decN/Neighbourhood_Discussion_Forums_occw.htm. We also have Area Forums http://www.oxford.gov.uk/PageRender/decCD/Area_Committees_occw.htm but unclear how these relate to NDFs and what the different roles are, or which would be most useful for applicants to engage with.

On similar lines Camden facilitates forums for developers to bring pre-app schemes to local community for discussion, but this seems to be more authority-led (with implied resource implications).
Combatting inequality

Is Oxford City Council doing all it can to make Oxford a fairer, more equal place?

Report of the Inequality Panel
Commissioned by Oxford City Council’s Scrutiny Committee

June 2015
Foreword by the Chair of the Inequality Panel

These are difficult times. Reduced funding and increased poverty and social deprivation make it more and more difficult for councils to provide basic services needed by a growing number of vulnerable people in our communities.

Funding pressures are continuing. A seismic shift needs to happen. This requires ambition matched by innovation, led with political commitment to improve well-being, mental health and life-chances – directed at addressing the causes of poverty.

We know that there are large differences in life expectancy between the most privileged and the most disadvantaged social groups living in Oxford.

People with a good home, a good education, a good income and a strong network of family and friends have greater chances of being well and of leading fulfilling lives.

As a councillor for a ward in which one in four adults holds at least one degree, yet two out of every five adults are without any or hold very few qualifications, it is evident that educational outcomes impact upon life chances. A rise in the number of households without adequate or secure accommodation is placing further risk upon the educational opportunities of children from poorer families.

The better the social and economic standing of people, the better are the opportunities for children to flourish and overcome poverty.

Consequently, within our recommendations the Inequality Panel calls for:

- Increased provision of decent, truly affordable housing
- Improved provision of key worker housing
- Improved accreditation to improve standards within the private rented sector
- Greater promotion and take-up of the Living Wage
- Extended use of social clauses within procurement contracts to assist people into good, sustainable jobs
- Improved partnerships for overcoming silos, through a multi-agency approach for addressing the causes of inequality
- Improved monitoring, measurement and reporting of the impacts of inequality

On behalf of the Inequality Panel, I express our sincere thanks for the input and evidence provided by individuals, community groups, single interest groups, academics, officers of Oxford City Council and Oxfordshire County Council, Oxfordshire Clinical Commissioning Group. And, the panel is most grateful for the support of our Scrutiny Officer, Andrew Brown.

Van Coulter
Chair for the Inequality Panel
Summary of recommendations

Recommendation 1 - We recommend that the City Council leads on the development of a long-term multi-agency inequality strategy for Oxford. This should be informed in part by the evidence gathered in this Inequality Review and enhanced when Oxfordshire Clinical Commissioning Group produces its report on health inequalities. The Strategy should be supported by an Action Plan that includes any accepted Inequality Review recommendations.

Recommendation 2 – We recommend that the City Council ensures that it has sufficient staffing resources in partnership posts to play a leading role in working with other agencies to combat inequality in Oxford.

Recommendation 3 - We recommend that the City Council commissions Professor Danny Dorling and the City Council’s Social Research Officer to develop an Oxford City Inequality Index based on aspects of inequality that the City Council can influence either directly, or indirectly to a significant extent. Council Performance should be assessed against the movement of this index.

Recommendation 4 - We recommend that all strategy papers and major decisions should include an assessment of their short, medium and long term impacts on inequality. This assessment could be based on an Inequality Index (see recommendation 3), and guidance should be available to assessing officers.

Recommendation 5 - We recommend that the City Council progresses all options for boosting the supply of affordable housing, including by:
   a) Continuing to push for a review of the Green Belt around Oxford,
   b) Enforcing the City Council’s 50% affordable housing policy,
   c) Considering greater use of Compulsory Purchase Orders to buy derelict land and properties that aren’t coming forward for development,
   d) Evaluating the potential local impacts of the new Governments housing policies, such as extending Right to Buy to housing association properties,
   e) Encouraging ethical or institutional investors to rent good standard accommodation to people in housing need at affordable rates,
   f) Aiming to make Oxford a centre of excellence in innovation for new social and affordable housing solutions, ensuring that its own policies (such as the Balance of Dwellings Policy) are compatible with this aim. Affordable Oxford could be asked to provide advice on what options would be viable in Oxford,
   g) Considering whether there is scope for the City Council or the Universities to promote ‘inter-generational shared living’.
   h) Considering whether there is a way that the City Council can assist groups of older people to downsize collectively while staying together as a community, perhaps by creating a group or register that people can join or sign up to.
Recommendation 6 - We note the significant difficulties that schools, hospitals and universities (as well as businesses) face in attracting workers to settle in Oxford, and recommend that the City Council:

a) Pushes for more new build keyworker housing within the 20% of affordable housing that is provided as intermediate housing,

b) Seeks to extend its keyworker housing intervention to more teachers (this is currently offered to senior teaching staff),

c) Considers whether there is scope to assist key workers (particularly teachers in priority schools) in accessing housing in the private rented sector, for example by encouraging registered landlords to offer 3 year tenancies and agreeing to raise rents by no more than the CPI measure of inflation,

Recommendation 7 - We note that the City Council is developing a Private Rented Sector Strategy and recommend that this aims to extend the City Council's interventions in the private rented sector to address abuses in the student housing market and poor standards across the wider private rented sector. This should include the extension of HMO licensing to cover more properties where possible and the introduction of mandatory landlord accreditation.

Recommendation 8 - We recommend that the City Council:

a) Calls on the new Vice-Chancellor of the University of Oxford to provide reinvigorated engagement in Oxford’s housing sector by learning from the Cambridge model and providing new accommodation to house academics.

b) Tasks the new Assistant Chief Executive with working closely with the University sector and encouraging a greater degree of input into city matters, including financial contributions where appropriate.

Recommendation 9 – We recommend that the City Council builds on its commendable work on addressing fuel poverty by:

a) Making a fuel poverty calculator available online that directs people in fuel poverty to contact the City Council for advice on what support they may be entitled to,

b) Asking Trading Standards whether they would like the City Council to refer cases to them and whether they would be prepared to give the City Council any enforcement powers where an Energy Performance Certificate is required.

Recommendation 10 - We recommend that the City Council builds on its work with Oxford Clinical Commissioning Group and other health partners by:

a) Supporting the delivery of more proactive health interventions in areas of multiple deprivations, such as contacting people who miss appointments,

b) Working towards the concept of pooled budgeting in areas where evidence suggests that this approach can improve health outcomes.
c) Utilising the City Council's assets (such as leisure centres) and the agencies we support to facilitate social prescribing, and encouraging more GPs to take up social prescribing,
d) Working with partners to develop a single online point of access for multiple services in Oxford, including health, housing and social care.

Recommendation 11 - We recommend that the City Council explores how factors around inequality and public health could be designed into the planning and development of sites. These factors should include cycling and walking provision, the accessibility of parks, and the provision of a variety of housing within the street scene. Consideration should also be given to shaping new communities. For example, new communities should include a centre and a shared open space.

Recommendation 12 - We recommend that the City Council:
   a) Assists in bringing about negotiations with local health, housing and social care commissioners and providers so that a county wide discharge policy for people experiencing homelessness can be adopted as per best practice guidelines,
   b) Extends interventions aimed at supporting homeless people with complex needs (e.g. substance abuse and mental health issues), who are often excluded from accessing the services they need.

Recommendation 13 - Oxford City Council is leading the way in defining, measuring and tackling fuel poverty and we recommend that the same priority should be given to the issue of food poverty. A part-time role should be created to tackle food poverty, which should involve facilitating the work of the not-for-profit and voluntary sector to maximise their impact, and developing a food poverty strategy for Oxford. This strategy should aim to replicate best practice established by Bristol to reduce food bank demand and increase access to good and affordable food across the city.

Recommendation 14 – We recommend that the City Council:
   a) Identifies how it can provide a greater degree of funding security to Asylum Welcome. Consideration should be given to including their work within the remit of the Community Grants commissioning programme, which awards funding for 3 years rather than annually. This will reduce Asylum Welcome's administrative workload and help to ensure that they remain viable over the medium term.
   b) Explores whether it could provide low cost accommodation to third sector organisations by utilising unused capacity in Council-owned assets such as Community Centres.

Recommendation 15 - We strongly endorse the City Council’s approach to combatting financial exclusion and recommend that the City Council:
   a) Ensures that the Welfare Reform Team are fully and best deployed in order to provide greater assistance and proactively reach more people, particularly those moving on to Universal Credit,
b) Moves towards implementing a ‘single view of debt’ in order to identify multiple debts owed to the Council, and where possible, consolidate these,

c) Gives a high priority to continuing to protect the current level of funding for the advice sector over the medium term,

d) Identifies funding to maintain debt advice provision provided by the Citizens Advice Bureau, which is currently at risk,

e) Continues to work closely with CAB and other agencies to encourage the take up of unclaimed benefits.

Recommendation 16 – We recommend that the City Council establishes a reliable directory of charities for Oxford, setting out the aims, principle client groups and types of relief provided. This will help to ensure that local charities have a greater awareness of what other charities do.

Recommendation 17 - We recommend that the City Council continues to prioritise improving educational attainment in the city by:

   a) Offering a new educational grant programme to which Head Teachers from schools in deprived areas can apply. This programme would provide tangible output-based funding to reduce educational inequalities in city schools. The criteria for awards should be non-prescriptive but grants could be used to fund specific line items in School Improvement Plans focused on pupil premium and Special Educational Needs students, for example.

   b) Engaging with partners and considers whether it has a role in ensuring that eligible pupils are registered for the pupil premium so that city schools receive the funding they are entitled to.

Recommendation 18 - We recommend that the City Council utilises skills within communities and works with partners to maximise every opportunity to provide employment and career paths for more residents living in areas of multiple deprivation, including by:

   a) Seeking to influence and improve the provision of targeted careers advice in schools, extending this to younger pupils (years 7-8), as well as offering mentoring into adulthood,

   b) Extending the use of social clauses to create more and better opportunities for young people. Clarity is required as to how the City Council will ensure that developers deliver social clauses,

   c) Extending the offer of reduced fees for tutors to all Community Centres situated in areas of multiple deprivations. The City Council should also continue to make better use of Community Centres and promote them as vibrant local hubs.

   d) Maximising links with universities, private schools, the student hub and businesses to get more volunteer help for appropriate programmes. These opportunities could include coaching and mentoring to help vulnerable people into work, assisting young people to whom English is not a first language, and broadening access to resources such as arts provision.
Recommendation 19 - We recommend that the City Council calls on local employers to put an end to exploitative employment practices in the city. These include employers charging restaurant staff to wait tables, paying less than the minimum wage, and employing workers on zero hours contracts against their will.

Recommendation 20 – We recommend that the City Council continues to look to raise wages by:
   a) Creating a Living Wage Hub in Oxford based around the Oxford Living Wage. This should involve a programme of activities to promote the Oxford Living Wage, and a distinct logo that Oxford Living Wage employers are encouraged to display. Ideally these activities should be led by engaged citizens but they may initially require some officer resource.
   b) Identifying a public face of the Oxford Living Wage which could be a member champion.
   c) Working constructively with the Living Wage Foundation in promoting Living Wage Week and seeking to raise wages and improve working conditions in Oxford, particularly in low paid sectors such as hospitality, health and social care.

Recommendation 21 - We recognise that Oxford City Council is a major employer in the city, and recommend that the City Council continues to develop its own employment practices through:
   a) More flexible recruitment practices such as accepting CVs and more widespread use of assessment centres,
   b) An annual managed calendar of interventions targeting BME and other underrepresented groups,
   c) Better targeting of constructive feedback to unsuccessful applicants,
   d) Interactive and accessible recruitment webpages with guidance for applicants,
   e) Uplifting the salaries of lower paid staff at a higher rate than those of higher paid staff to ensure that the pay gap between them doesn’t increase over time.

Introduction
1. The Inequality Panel is a cross-party working group that was established by the City Council’s Scrutiny Committee during the 2014/15 municipal year. Its membership comprises four City Councillors:

Councillor Van Coulter (Chair)
Councillor Andrew Gant
Councillor Ben Lloyd-Shogbesan
Councillor David Thomas

Background

2. Inequality is found in almost every community and most obviously refers to the disparity between rich and poor caused by unequal distributions of pay, income and wealth. Inequality also has a social dimension whereby opportunities, rewards and social resources are distributed unequally within society. A person’s ‘social capital’, which is their access to valuable support networks, is an important element of this. A number of personal characteristics are strongly related to inequality, including gender, ethnicity and disability. These are among the 9 protected characteristics set out in the Equality Act 2010.

3. Oxford is a successful and vibrant city in many ways that benefits from having a resilient local economy and low levels of unemployment. Like any city, Oxford’s dynamic urban environment presents challenges as well as opportunities. However, a number of factors are more specific to Oxford and contribute to inequality in the city. Foremost amongst these is the very high cost of housing. Oxford is the least affordable city in the UK in which to buy a house\(^1\), and the second least affordable city in the UK in which to rent a home\(^2\), partly due to Oxford’s attractiveness to commuters working in London. This exacerbates the disparity between rich and poor and is having damaging effects on educational attainment and social mobility. As a result, many harder pressed residents are struggling to pay for essentials such as food and energy, and some are leaving the city altogether, or if asked cannot see how they will be able to afford to settle in Oxford in the long term.

4. Oxford City Council is a district council operating in a two tier local authority area. It is responsible for services such as housing, planning, leisure, environmental services, and council tax and benefits. A number of services that impact inequality, such as early years and childcare provision, education, social care and public health, are run by Oxfordshire County Council.

5. Oxford City Council’s strapline is ‘building a world class city for everyone’. The Council’s Corporate Plan states that ‘Oxford City Council does all it can to make Oxford a fairer, more equal place’. It also makes a policy commitment to ‘narrow the gap between rich and poor’. A key ambition of Oxford City Council is to move beyond being a service delivery organisation to becoming a ‘leader of place’ through partnership working and collaboration. This means that the City Council wants to be recognised as being the leading authority and voice for the city of Oxford.

6. We believe that widening inequality presents problems for everyone, including top and middle earners, and that a continuous reduction in inequality should be one of the characteristics of a world class city for everyone.

Review scope

7. The Inequality Panel was commissioned to undertake a time-limited review, drawing together a number of related topics that City Councillors wanted to explore, such as; food poverty, child poverty and health inequalities. The Inequality Panel met on 13 October 2014 to agree a draft scope, before reporting back to the Scrutiny Committee for approval on 10 November 2014.

8. We agreed to review how the City Council contributes to combating harmful social and economic inequality in Oxford, and whether there is more that could reasonably be done. By maintaining a focus on how the Council could improve outcomes for local residents, we felt that we could tackle this broad and wide-ranging scope in a manageable way. Our main aims were to:

1. Understand the scale, reasons and impact of inequality in Oxford.
2. Identify specific areas where the City Council can make the most difference in combating inequality.
3. Make deliverable, evidence-based recommendations that are co-produced with local citizens or stakeholders where possible.

9. The Panel recognised that the City Council was already doing a lot of good work to combat inequality. However, we wanted to test and challenge the claims in the City Council's Corporate Plan on behalf of all Councillors. We felt that a cross-cutting review of inequality would enable us to identify any gaps in provision or partnership working, and highlight areas of emerging need.

10. We were also mindful that, following a recent peer review exercise, the City Council received feedback as to how it could provide strong, effective and visible leadership in the city. We wanted to see whether and how this theme could be applied to the City Council's aim of making Oxford a fairer, more equal place.

11. Finally, our review was designed to complement, rather than duplicate, the work of local partners such as Oxfordshire County Council and Oxfordshire Clinical Commissioning Group.

12. The full terms of reference for this review that were agreed by the Scrutiny Committee on 10 November are included as Appendix 1.

Methods of investigation
13. Having agreed the scope of the review, the Panel issued a call for evidence. This was accompanied by a press release which received local media attention. A brief online survey was made available on the City Council’s website for 2 months. It was also emailed directly to groups and individuals registered on the City Council’s consultation system that had expressed an interest in consultations to do with equalities, housing, council tax and benefits, or community issues. 30 responses were received and these have all been considered by the Panel. Several groups that responded were also invited to attend a meeting in person. The responses to our call for evidence are set out in full in Appendix 4.

14. The Inequality Panel held 5 public meetings between November 2014 and April 2015. These meetings were attended by representatives of Age UK, Asylum Welcome, Community Action Groups Oxfordshire, Cultivate Oxford, Healthwatch Oxfordshire, Oxford Citizens Advice Bureau, Oxfordshire Clinical Commissioning Group, and Oxford and District Child Poverty Action Group. We also spoke to social geographer and author Professor Danny Dorling and a local social enterprise focused on overcoming issues of low self-esteem in vulnerable young women.

15. The Panel held discussions with a number of City Council officers, including the Chief Executive and senior officers responsible for Housing Needs, Policy and Partnerships, Welfare Reform, and Communities and Neighbourhoods Services. We are very grateful to all those who provided evidence and informed the outcomes of this review. A list of acknowledgements is provided as Appendix 2.

16. We also reviewed a wide range of research literature and policy documentation, and a list of background documents is included as Appendix 3.

Inequality in Oxford

Context

17. Many cities think they have particular sets of issues and needs but Oxford is genuinely exceptional in terms of housing and education. Oxford-born Professor Danny Dorling advised us that if he was arranging a field trip to look at inequality in Western Europe, he would choose Oxford. Harmful inequality is evident at the lower end of the income spectrum, with more people experiencing homelessness, struggling to afford food and heating, seeing poorer educational outcomes for their children, and seeking advice for personal debt. However, the problems that inequality presents for top and middle earners – such as long term participation in the private rented sector - also need to be recognised and better understood.

18. Oxford benefits from a strong economy and low unemployment but the severe cost and limited supply of housing acts as a big social distorer and makes it extremely difficult for most people to make homes in the city. Nearly everyone we spoke to said that the lack of affordable housing is the major cause for concern in Oxford. High demand is exacerbated by limited land availability within the city and barriers to accessing this land. Last year the cost of an average house in Oxford rose by £30,000, yet a third of Oxford’s working age households... were £1,594 worse off per year on average due to welfare reforms\(^3\). The cost of housing in Oxford is comparable to London but local employers do not pay London wages. Buying a home is now beyond the means of some 80 per cent of the local population.

19. More Oxford households now rent than own their own home, and of these, the majority live in the private rented sector\(^4\). The increase in the private rented sector has been the biggest change in Oxford’s housing market in the last 10 years and puts a lot of newly forming households, young and vulnerable people outside of the home ownership market. Private rented housing is not only expensive due to undersupply driving up rental values, but much of it is of a poor standard and tenancies are insecure. There are strong links between poor housing and poor physical and mental health. For many residents as well as students, sharing accommodation is the only affordable option. In more extreme cases, migrant workers and vulnerable young families have been found living in ‘beds in sheds’. The welfare of people occupying these unsuitable and hazardous structures is a major concern.

20. The housing crisis in Oxford affects everybody. Many schools, hospitals and universities in the city are struggling to recruit a range of professionals and there is concern that if Oxford continues to become more unaffordable for the majority of people to live in, public bodies will only be able to employ people who are well off. In the meantime, many NHS staff and care workers are themselves living in poverty or struggling to get by. We also note that many businesses are also reporting similar issues in recruiting and retaining staff. These are acute problems in Oxford.

A life course of inequality

21. Inequality can be understood as a life course from early years through to old age. Some geographical areas experience multiple levels of deprivation including low skills, low incomes, poor housing and poor health. Child poverty rates in Oxford are close to the UK average. However, poverty is dispersed very unequally across the city, with 72% of the 6,600 children living below the poverty line residing in 9 of the city’s 24 wards, all of which are in the East and South East of the city. Health outcomes across the city differ widely too and there is a wide variance in average life expectancy across the city, particularly for men. This cycle of deprivation is very difficult to break.

22. Education could play a major role in improving social mobility and providing a route out of poverty. However, for some of the 75% of Oxford’s young people who are not educated privately, their experience of education reinforces low aspirations and perpetuates inequality. The high cost of housing means that Oxford schools struggle to recruit and retain experienced higher and middle ranking teachers. Newly qualified teachers are easier to recruit but tend to rent for a while before leaving the city because they can’t afford to settle here. The high turnover of teaching staff disrupts efforts to improve poor levels of educational attainment in a number of city schools. The result is that access to higher education amongst local students is higher in Blackpool than it is in Oxford.

Areas where Oxford City Council can make the most difference

23. We have identified the City Council services and interventions that have the most impact on reducing inequality in Oxford and also sought to identify specific areas where there is scope for the City Council to reasonably do more, either within additional resources or with modest additional spend. Our overview of the City Council’s contribution to combatting inequality is included as Appendix 6. This includes gaps and opportunities identified during this review by people who responded to our call for evidence, those who spoke to us in person, Council officers and scrutiny Councillors.

24. We were unable to look in detail at all aspects of the City Council’s contribution and have highlighted some specific Council functions and services for further consideration at the end of this report. Having deliberated on all the evidence gathered we reached a number of specific recommendations. These are grouped into the following four themes:

   I. Taking a strategic approach to inequality
   II. Health & Housing
   III. Tackling social and financial exclusion
   IV. Helping residents to fulfil their potential

Taking a strategic approach to inequality

25. The City Council aspires to put inequality alleviation at the heart of everything it does. We endorse the laudable policy statement in the City Council’s Corporate Plan and found that there is a lot of good work taking place across the authority to support this:

   Oxford City Council does all that it can to make Oxford a fairer, more equal place” – Oxford City Council Corporate Plan

26. The causes and drivers of inequality are complex and obscure, and there remains a risk that the long-term strategic direction of the council may inadvertently exacerbate rather than alleviate inequalities within the city. The recommendations of this report are in part an effort to mitigate this risk.

A strategy for inequality

27. We suggest that a multi-agency strategy for inequality should be developed to guide the priorities and work on this agenda. We think the City Council is well placed to lead on the development of this strategy, which should build on the findings of this Inequality Review and be further informed by OCCG’s study of health inequalities, as well as the input of all relevant agencies.

Recommendation 1 - We recommend that the City Council leads on the development of a long-term multi-agency inequality strategy for Oxford. This should be informed in part by the evidence gathered in this Inequality Review and enhanced when Oxfordshire Clinical Commissioning Group produces its report on health inequalities. The Strategy should be supported by an Action Plan that includes any accepted Inequality Review recommendations.

Partnership working
28. The Council has strong links with a number of key partners, including the health sector and a range of voluntary and community groups. Given the extent of the problem of inequality in Oxford, there is a need for all agencies to work together and intervene effectively at all ages in order to make a lasting difference. The organisations we spoke to all recognise this need. We note that a management restructure is taking place and suggest that the City Council considers whether it has the resources it needs to play a leading role in working with partners to combat inequality.

Recommendation 2 – We recommend that the City Council ensures that it has sufficient staffing resources in partnership posts to play a leading role in working with other agencies to combat inequality in Oxford.

Measuring and monitoring inequality
29. The City Council’s Social Research Officer produces a range of statistical information and analysis about Oxford and its population which provides some really valuable insights. We were also fortunate to speak with Professor Danny Dorling, a leading social geographer with extensive knowledge of issues of inequality in the city. We suggest that the City Council seeks to utilise this expertise by commissioning an inequality index for Oxford.

30. Council performance should be based in part on an assessment of how successfully it impacts the aspects of inequality over which it has direct influence, or significant indirect influence. We believe that a continuous reduction in Oxford’s harmfully high levels of inequality should be one of the characteristics of a world class city for everyone.

Recommendation 3 - We recommend that the City Council commissions Professor Danny Dorling and the City Council’s Social Research Officer to develop an Oxford City Inequality Index based on aspects of inequality that the City Council can influence either directly, or indirectly to a significant extent. Council Performance should be assessed against the movement of this index.

Decision making
31. Inequality alleviation could be more embedded within the City Council and its decision making. We would like all major Council decisions and development projects to be assessed on their expected aggregate impacts on inequality. This could include factors such as the quality of any employment contracts created and, if the project is intended to generate economic growth, how equitably this growth is likely to be shared. This assessment could be based on an inequality index and guidance should be provided to assessing officers.

Recommendation 4 - We recommend that all strategy papers and major decisions should include an assessment of their short, medium and long term impacts on inequality. This assessment could be based on an Inequality Index (see recommendation 3), and guidance should be available to assessing officers.

Health & Housing

32. The City Council is the housing authority for Oxford and provides a wide range of services aimed at tackling housing needs in the city, from presenting options in cases of statutory homelessness to building new social housing. Housing can directly contribute to health outcomes and the City Council also has a wider role in public health.

Affordable Housing

33. The lack of affordable housing is a major factor behind inequality in Oxford and the City Council is already aiming to increase the supply of affordable housing in the city in a number of ways. We have suggested a number of additional options that could warrant further exploration.

Green belt review

34. Restrictions on developing the green belt surrounding Oxford are a major barrier to the provision of new affordable housing that could meet the city’s housing needs. An assessment of the housing market in Oxfordshire found that the city requires 24,000 to 32,000 new homes between 2011 and 2031 in order to meet its housing needs\(^6\). However, an assessment of land availability found that the total capacity for new homes within the city over this time period is only 10,212 dwellings\(^7\).

35. Oxford’s current and future housing needs could be met if a very small proportion of the green belt was developed. We believe that this would be preferable to, and more sustainable than focusing solely on expanding county towns. Approximately half of Oxford’s workforce already commutes into the city and this would result in higher CO2 emissions and place additional strain on the local transport network\(^8\). We urge the City Council to continue to press for a comprehensive review of the green belt around Oxford as part of a strategy for increasing the supply of affordable housing.

36. The City Council has a policy whereby planning permission will only be granted for residential developments of 10 or more units if a minimum of 50% of the new homes are provided as affordable housing, unless viability evidence demonstrates a need to reduce this. Developers of smaller sites are required to make a financial contribution to the provision of new off-site affordable housing. We heard anecdotal evidence that some developers may be holding back sites for development in the expectation that the 50% policy will eventually be reduced or removed. If developers are holding on to derelict land or buildings then the City has the option of using Compulsory Purchase Orders, which it could pursue more actively.

Right to Buy
37. The Council’s spending plans assume that approximately 40 social housing units will be sold each year through the Right to Buy scheme and variations on this number represent a financial risk to the Council. It is difficult for the City Council to replace social housing stock lost to Right to Buy within the city limits. Housing need is high but just maintaining the current level of social housing provision is a significant challenge for the City Council. People with housing needs in Oxford are now as likely to be placed in the private rented sector as in the social rented sector but Right to Buy only benefits the latter group.

38. The new government is committed to extending the Right to Buy scheme to housing association properties and local authorities are being advised not to put their energies in seeking to avoid Right to Buy. The impact of the extension of Right to Buy is not yet known but is likely to represent a further challenge to the City Council. We suggest that the City Council evaluates the expected local impacts of government housing policy, including the extension of Right to Buy.

Institutional investors
39. Given the scale of the housing problem, the Porch charity which provides support to homeless and vulnerably house adults suggest that the City Council should look at ways of encouraging institutional investors and ethical funds to invest in providing new good standard affordable accommodation in the city.

Innovative solutions
40. We suggest that the City Council should look at innovative ways of boosting the supply of affordable housing, through innovative funding, land access, delivery and ownership models. Based on the axiom ‘necessity is the mother of invention’, we would like to see the Council aim to make Oxford a centre of excellence in innovation for new affordable housing solutions. The City Council is already looking at investing in ‘real asset lettings’ and has invested a small sum in church groups to help them to make houses available on a small scale. We considered proposing a number of other specific options that may warrant further exploration, such as ‘pod homes’ and community land trusts.

Pod homes
41. Pod homes could provide high density accommodation to potential first time buyers at affordable rates. We recognise that Pod homes would not solve the issue of land availability, and that significant developments of small units are not compatible with the City Council’s balance of dwellings policy.

Balance of dwellings policy
42. The City Council’s balance of dwellings policy dates from 2008 and requires that, in developments of more than 4 homes, a proportion of new units are larger units.
It aims to shape the housing mix in the city in 2020 and deliver a balanced mix of housing to meet the projected future household need.

43. We received representations that the policy is unnecessary because Oxford already has a relatively high proportion of larger homes compared with other UK cities, and that people tend to make do with less space when prices are high. We heard that this policy is likely to be having some impact on house price inflation, which is having a corrosive effect on social inclusion and inequality.

44. New larger properties completed since the policy was adopted represent 1.2% of the city’s total housing stock, so the impact on house prices is likely to be marginal. However, we came to the view that an evidence based review of this policy would be timely.

Community Land Trusts

45. Community Land Trusts are independent, not-for-profit corporations that develop and run housing and other local assets on behalf of a community. This model has the benefits of providing genuinely affordable housing that will remain affordable in the long run and not be affected by rising land and rental values. Community Land Trusts may well provide one of the few robust ways the Council could protect new-build social housing from Right to Buy. We heard that the City Council hasn’t explored this option but it is likely that the Council could provide the most units at the cheapest price itself.

46. We suggest that the City Council seeks independent advice on what types of affordable housing models would be viable in Oxford. A group such as Affordable Oxford could be asked to establish which innovative options could potentially form part of a wider, multi-faceted approach to increasing the supply of affordable housing.

Intergenerational shared living

47. Paul Cann of Age UK advised us that a number of older people are under-occupying big properties in Oxford and that intergenerational shared living arrangements have been under-exploited in the UK. Oxford has a large student population and 11% of all households in the city comprise people aged 65+ living alone, some of whom are under-occupying and may be experiencing isolation and loneliness. There is an opportunity for the City Council and the Universities to encourage a scheme that matches students with under-occupying single over 65 households, in a way that has worked successfully in Lyon, France.

Downsizing

48. Age UK advised us that there is a very narrow range of good and affordable housing options for older people in Oxford, and we note that the City Council is currently undertaking a review of older people’s housing in the city. We have also been made aware of cases where groups of older people want to downsize and stay together as a community. We suggest that the City Council explores whether there is scope to provide a mechanism for enabling groups of older people to downsize while staying together and retaining their close social networks.

Housing out of area
49. Due to the scale of the housing crisis it seems likely that the City Council will be unable to meet Oxford’s housing needs in the coming years, even with an extensive range of interventions. While it’s not desirable, we recognise that it may be necessary for the City Council to look at options for delivering affordable housing to outside of Oxford. Westminster Council is also looking at this.

Recommendation 5 - We recommend that the City Council progresses all options for boosting the supply of affordable housing, including by:

  i) Continuing to push for a review of the Green Belt around Oxford,
  j) Enforcing the City Council’s 50% affordable housing policy,
  k) Considering greater use of Compulsory Purchase Orders to buy derelict land and properties that aren’t coming forward for development,
  l) Evaluating the potential local impacts of the new Governments housing policies, such as extending Right to Buy to housing association properties,
  m) Encouraging ethical or institutional investors to rent good standard accommodation to people in housing need at affordable rates,
  n) Aiming to make Oxford a centre of excellence in innovation for new social and affordable housing solutions, ensuring that its own policies (such as the Balance of Dwellings Policy) are compatible with this aim. Affordable Oxford could be asked to provide advice on what options would be viable in Oxford,
  o) Considering whether there is scope for the City Council or the Universities to promote ‘inter-generational shared living’.
  p) Considering whether there is a way that the City Council can assist groups of older people to downsize collectively while staying together as a community, perhaps by creating a group or register that people can join or sign up to.

Key worker housing
50. Key working housing is housing allocated specifically for people in key public sector jobs, such as clinical health workers and senior teaching staff. Additional key worker housing could help to alleviate the problems that schools and hospitals experience in recruiting and retaining staff.

Intermediate housing
51. Oxford City Council’s 50% affordable housing policy also stipulates that 20% of affordable housing should be provided as intermediate housing (affordable home ownership options). We suggest that this should include more new accommodation made available exclusively to key workers.

Shared equity loan scheme
52. As part of its educational attainment programme, the City Council has made a significant investment in keyworker housing by offering a shared equity loan scheme to support recruitment to senior leadership posts in city schools. Given the very high turnover of teaching staff at all levels in certain schools, we suggest that the City Council looks at the case for extending this offer to more teachers.

Access to the private rented sector

53. The City Council should also explore the possible scope for working with accredited landlords to assist teachers and other key workers in accessing the private rental market, for example by offering longer, more secure tenures and capping rent increases.

Recommendation 6 - We note the significant difficulties that schools, hospitals and universities (as well as businesses) face in attracting workers to settle in Oxford, and recommend that the City Council:

  e) Pushes for more new build keyworker housing within the 20% of affordable housing that is provided as intermediate housing,
  f) Seeks to extend its keyworker housing intervention to more teachers (this is currently offered to senior teaching staff),
  g) Considers whether there is scope to assist key workers (particularly teachers in priority schools) in accessing housing in the private rented sector, for example by encouraging registered landlords to offer 3 year tenancies and agreeing to raise rents by no more than the CPI measure of inflation,

Private rented sector housing

54. The private rented sector is of particular concern in Oxford due to high costs, poor standards and some rogue landlords. There is a marked difference in the level of wrap-around services a tenant receives as a social housing tenant than as a private sector tenant – the latter being at a significant disadvantage. The Citizens Advice Bureau advised us that tenants have better regulatory protection from their toaster than from retaliatory evictions by unscrupulous landlords. Oxford Child Poverty Action Group said that expensive and insecure housing has an impact on educational attainment and is causing some families to move away from the city, losing their ‘soft networks’. Oxfordshire Clinical Commissioning Group advised us that many health issues are largely dependent on housing issues, including; over-crowding, damp, lack of effective heating and insulation, and psychological problems from moving. The City Council is actively raising standards in this sector through licensing Houses in Multiple Occupation, operating a Landlord Accreditation Scheme and tackling unlawful dwellings, of which approximately 270 are estimated to be occupied in Oxford\textsuperscript{11}.

Houses in Multiple Occupation (HMOs)

55. One in five residents now live in a house in multiple occupation (HMO), including an increasing number of families with young children. Standards in this sector are a major concern because poor housing can contribute to poor health outcomes, and this sector includes much of the city’s worst housing stock. 90% of the 3,440 licensed HMOs in Oxford did not initially meet the City Council’s minimum standards and it is estimated that there is a similar number of unlicensed HMOs across the city\textsuperscript{12}. We would welcome efforts to extend this licensing regime to as many HMOs as possible and strengthening compliance.

\textsuperscript{11}Unlawful Developments Progress Report, Oxford City Council, February 2015

\textbf{Landlord Accreditation Scheme}

56. Letting agents and private residential landlords are encouraged to join this voluntary scheme which aims to improve the condition and management of the private rented sector. However, fewer than 100 landlords and agents have taken up accreditation, which is low compared to the total number operating in the city. We suggest that this scheme be extended to all privately let residential properties on a mandatory basis, as already happens in Wales and Newham Borough\textsuperscript{13}. This would help to address the unfairness of some landlords benefiting from high rents while doing very little to improve the substandard and insecure living conditions of their tenants. We are also concerned about some particularly poor practices and conditions in the student housing market.

\textit{Recommendation 7 - We note that the City Council is developing a Private Rented Sector Strategy and recommend that this aims to extend the City Council’s interventions in the private rented sector to address abuses in the student housing market and poor standards across the wider private rented sector. This should include the extension of HMO licensing to cover more properties where possible and the introduction of mandatory landlord accreditation.}

\textbf{University engagement}

57. The presence of two universities has a significant impact on housing in Oxford. They bring with them some 32,000 undergraduate and postgraduate students, a significant proportion of whom live in the private rented sector\textsuperscript{14}. The University of Oxford in particular is a major presence in the city in terms of its spending power, employment and the assets and property portfolio it holds. It is in the interests of the University that the city is successful and functioning well.

58. We note that the University of Oxford is looking to expand the post doctorate research sector and attract 1,100 senior academics to the city, which would put additional pressure on housing. We would like to see the universities actively housing more academics and students. We note that some of the colleges hold low-grade agricultural land around Barton which is in the green belt but could potentially be developed as housing. The University of Cambridge recently built 3,000 homes, half of which have been allocated as key worker housing for University and College staff\textsuperscript{15}. The new Vice Chancellor of the University of Oxford should be encouraged to look at this example and provide a greater degree of input in housing matters in the city.

59. We understand that the City Council’s new Assistant Chief Executive will be responsible for external affairs and hope that they will play a key role in speaking to organisations such as the University of Oxford, and where appropriate, urging them to make a greater contribution to the city. Oxford Brookes University already provides funding towards bus services and the University of Oxford should be urged to make similar contributions towards new schemes or services that are in its interests and have wider benefits to the city as a whole.

Recommendation 8 - We recommend that the City Council:
   c) Calls on the new Vice-Chancellor of the University of Oxford to provide reinvigorated engagement in Oxford’s housing sector by learning from the Cambridge model and providing new accommodation to house academics.
   d) Tasks the new Assistant Chief Executive with working closely with the University sector and encouraging a greater degree of input into city matters, including financial contributions where appropriate.

Fuel Poverty
60. Fuel poverty in England is measured by a Low Income High Costs definition, which is driven by three components; poor energy efficiency, high energy costs, and low household income. We fully endorse the City Council’s Fuel Poverty Strategy, which focuses on energy efficiency improvement work and complements the income maximisation activities detailed in the Council’s Financial Inclusion Strategy.

61. In the majority of cases fuel poverty affects people in private tenures living in properties built prior to 1974. It disproportionately impacts on vulnerable groups that tend to spend more time at home, such as the elderly, disabled, long-term sick and the very young. It can be difficult for people who may be in fuel poverty to know whether they are entitled to various forms of support. We suggest that the City Council should use a fuel poverty calculator, which should be made available online for staff and the public to use, to determine who is eligible for support and to direct people in fuel poverty to contact the Council for advice.

Oxford City Council’s Housing Stock
62. Lots of work has been undertaken within the Council’s housing stock to improve energy efficiency and most of the quick wins, such as installing double glazing, gas condenser boilers and cavity wall insulation, have been completed. Further strategic investments in the Council’s housing stock are on-going and the City Council is offering free energy audits to Council tenants.

Fuel Poverty in the private rented sector
63. The City Council has been working with landlords to prepare for national changes aimed at improving energy efficiency. From 2016, landlords can’t refuse a tenant’s reasonable request for energy efficiency improvements, and from 2018, only properties with an Energy Performance Certificate (EPC) rating of ‘E’ or higher can be rented out. The City Council enforces where there is underperformance in the private rented sector and has been checking the EPC rating of ‘F’ & ‘G’ rated properties as well as those that have no EPC rating for excess cold. The County Council’s Trading Standards service is responsible for enforcing where an EPC is required. Information sharing between the two authorities could potentially lead to better outcomes and we suggest that the City Council could also ask for powers to enforce where EPCs are required if this would reduce duplication or help to improve overall efficiency.

Recommendation 9– We recommend that the City Council builds on its commendable work on addressing fuel poverty by:

- c) Making a fuel poverty calculator available online that directs people in fuel poverty to contact the City Council for advice on what support they may be entitled to,
- d) Asking Trading Standards whether they would like the City Council to refer cases to them and whether they would be prepared to give the City Council any enforcement powers where an Energy Performance Certificate is required.

Health

64. Oxfordshire Clinical Commissioning Group (OCCG) advised us that they are commissioning a report into health inequalities. This will build up an evidence base and identify suitable measures and actions to address health inequalities because entrenched health inequalities aren’t improving. Life expectancy is lower in the most deprived areas of the city and life expectancy gap is 8.8 years for men and 3.7 years for women. Some families experience intergenerational poor health despite lots of effort from lots of people. Learning Disability and severe Mental Health are big issues in Oxford as outcomes are relatively poor. The worst health outcomes occur in the areas of deprivation, where take up of free health checks is low. OCCG work with the City Council to ensure that local health plans and community plans are joined up and to identify opportunities for potential joint project work, for example on self-harm.

Proactive health interventions

65. The high population turnover in the city means that many people slip through the net, so there is a need to set up more proactive health structures that can spot issues early on, such as people not taking their medication. At the moment the focus is on patients who do attend appointments but missed appointments cost the NHS some £9.5m a year in Oxfordshire.

Pooled budgeting

66. A number of organisations impact on health outcomes and there is a need to ensure there is the same drive to reduce inequalities across all organisations, and to move towards pooling resources in areas such as planning, housing and transport. However, the culture of annual budget setting is a barrier to this aim.

Social prescribing

67. OCCG advised us that the concept of social prescribing is been trialled in Gloucestershire and that OCCG is keeping a close watch on progress. Social prescribing is where GPs prescribe activities that people might benefit from to address various health issues, including mental health disorders. We support this concept where evidence suggests that it can make a difference and hope

17. The real cost of missed appointments, Oxford University Hospitals NHT Trust, 11 June 2015 that GPs will be encouraged to engage in this agenda. We suggest that the City Council should be prepared to utilise its own assets, such as by allowing prescribed access to leisure centres and swimming pools, together with the agencies it supports, to facilitate social prescribing in Oxford.

Online access to services

68. In discussion with OCCG, we identified that a single online point of access for multiple services in Oxford would be a welcome development. This could take the form of an ‘assessment of needs’ website that provides a way in to various services provided by a range of agencies, including; health, mental health, housing, social care etc.

Recommendation 10 - We recommend that the City Council builds on its work with Oxford Clinical Commissioning Group and other health partners by:

   e) Supporting the delivery of more proactive health interventions in areas of multiple deprivations, such as contacting people who miss appointments, f) Working towards the concept of pooled budgeting in areas where evidence suggests that this approach can improve health outcomes.
   g) Utilising the City Council’s assets (such as leisure centres) and the agencies we support to facilitate social prescribing, and encouraging more GPs to take up social prescribing,
   h) Working with partners to develop a single online point of access for multiple services in Oxford, including health, housing and social care.

Planning new developments

69. As the planning authority, the City Council can consider how factors of inequality and public health are factored in to the planning system. Oxfordshire Clinical Commissioning Group advised us that open access, exercise, and cycling and walking should be built in to the planning and development of new sites. Consideration should also be given to the physical shape of these communities, to ensure that they are attractive places to live and have a sense of community, which can help to combat forms of social isolation.

70. Age UK advised us that there should be a greater variety of housing within the street scene in new developments so that older people may have the option of downsizing without having to leave their local area. The outside environment needs to be well lit, with good quality pavements and access to public toilets.

Recommendation 11 - We recommend that the City Council explores how factors around inequality and public health could be designed in to the planning and development of sites. These factors should include cycling and walking provision, the accessibility of parks, and the provision of a variety of housing within the street scene. Consideration should also be given to shaping new communities. For example, new communities should include a centre and a shared open space.
Tackling social and financial exclusion

71. Services and interventions that focus specifically on excluded groups can play a vital role in reducing inequalities. During our evidence gathering, we focused on a number of groups that are often 'below the radar', and identified some gaps in provision or areas where the City Council could play a greater role. The City Council also provides a range of services that focus on strengthen communities and promoting social inclusion, including community centres and community grants. We suggest that the City Council’s approach to community engagement and how it meets the needs of Oxford’s diverse range of communities should be subject to a separate detailed review.

Homelessness

72. Oxford has one of the highest rates of people experiencing homelessness per capita outside of London and homelessness is a big issue in the city. A number of homelessness services are located in Oxford including 3 large hostels; so many homeless people gravitate towards Oxford from the neighbouring districts. We are concerned that instances of rough sleeping seem to be on the increase. A street count conducted in November 2014 identified 26 rough sleepers, compared to 19 a year earlier. A more recent estimate, drawing on intelligence from local stakeholders, was 43. The City Council spends £1.4m per year on a range of homelessness services, and has committed to protecting the element of this funding that isn’t government grant money over the medium term. At the same time, the County Council funding is reducing from £3.8m to £2.3m. The number of bed spaces is being maintained but the quality of support available is likely to drop.

No Second Night Out

73. Healthwatch Oxfordshire raised a number of concerns with us about the Council’s No Second Night Out (NSNO) policy, which targets interventions at new rough sleepers, and proposed 5 recommendations for the Panel to consider (see appendix 5). A representative of Healthwatch advised us that much of the NSNO work on the ground was very good but there were issues with the forceful evictions of rough sleepers despite a lack of available hostel beds, hospital discharge processes, a high turnover of staff, as well as a need to address multiple complex needs.

74. The City Council’s Head of Housing Needs reassured us that the first 4 Healthwatch recommendations were adequately covered within current provision and that the County Council has recently consulted on the re-commissioning of homelessness services. However, he agreed with the need for a county wide discharge policy for people experiencing homelessness, as per best practice guidelines. The cost of an additional night in a specialist Mental Health unit can regularly cost as much as £500. There are separate programmes aimed at entrenched rough sleepers, who are not the focus of the NSNO policy.

Complex needs

18. Non-statutory single homelessness, Oxford City Council, March 2015
75. We heard that new rough sleepers are likely to engage in substance abuse if they haven’t already, and many rough sleepers also have mental health problems. Having multiple complex needs means that many are denied access to the services they need. For example, people with mental health issues are unable to access alcohol treatment services and vice versa. The City Council now funds a complex needs service in conjunction with the local CCG and Public Health. We strongly endorse this programme which focuses on those whose needs are not met by the Adult homeless pathway or the supported independent living pathway.

Recommendation 12- We recommend that the City Council:

c) Assists in bringing about negotiations with local health, housing and social care commissioners and providers so that a county wide discharge policy for people experiencing homelessness can be adopted as per best practice guidelines,

d) Extends interventions aimed at supporting homeless people with complex needs (e.g. substance abuse and mental health issues), who are often excluded from accessing the services they need.

Food poverty

Food poverty can be defined as the inability to obtain healthy, affordable food: “worse diet, worse access, worse health, higher percentage of income on food and less choice from a restricted range of foods. Above all food poverty is about less or almost no consumption of fruit and vegetables” – Feeding the Gaps

76. Unequal access to nutritious food has a direct bearing on a person’s health and general wellbeing. We reviewed a report called Feeding the Gaps, which sets out the findings of a project researching food poverty in Oxford, and spoke to local experts on emergency food aid and surplus food redistribution. We heard that demand for emergency food aid was rising, although this local and national trend is difficult to quantify. The causes of food poverty in Oxford reflect the national picture, and include benefit sanctions and payment delays, low wages and the bedroom tax.

77. The Feeding the Gaps project identified and interviewed a diverse range of providers of food aid in the city, some of which cater for specific groups and others are open to all. The Oxford Food Bank employs an innovative and pioneering model of redistributing surplus food to 45 local food aid providers, 41 of which are based within Oxford. The use of surplus food is saving providers a lot of money and enabling them to provide genuinely healthy and nutritious meals. Currently, only a fraction of local surplus food is being used.

78. Most of these organisations have discarded the idea that providing emergency food aid fosters a dependency culture, instead many have reported that that seeking food aid generates embarrassment and stigma which can prevent people in need from accessing help. Some providers have overcome this problem by creating a strong cultural or community context in which meals are provided. There are lots of co-benefits to providing food aid. Some providers have found it possible to use meals as a way of hooking people into other services such as legal advice. It is also an effective way of providing people with skills and personal development, and for building communities.

79. Feeding the Gaps identifies a number of possible next steps aimed at building capacity in this sector and changing attitudes to surplus food. We were pleased to learn that funding has been secured to progress some of this follow up work and address the five specific gaps in provision identified in the report:
- People in areas of deprivation, including Blackbird Leys and Rose Hill
- Families with Children over 5, who are not eligible for support from Children’s Centres
- People in low-paying jobs
- People transitioning out of services
- Asylum seekers and refugees

80. Emergency food aid is not an area that the City Council is directly involved in. However, having heard evidence from those with local knowledge and expertise in this area, we believe there is strong evidence that this should be an emerging area of policy in the City Council’s efforts to address inequalities. We want to ensure that the local network is sustainable and can continue to address areas of unmet need. Since the restructuring of the Primary Care Trusts, there has been no network bringing together the local providers of emergency food aid. Prior to this, the City Council was the lead agency. The City Council could again take the lead role in bringing together local food aid providers to better enable them to operate more efficiently as a network, share resources and best practice, and work towards filling the gaps in provision outlined above. The City Council has experience of capacity building in other sectors which it may be able to apply here. There may also be an opportunity to raise providers’ awareness of services and support provided by the City Council. We note that Bristol has been cited as an example of best practice in terms of food policy.

Recommendation13- Oxford City Council is leading the way in defining, measuring and tackling fuel poverty and we recommend that the same priority should be given to the issue of food poverty. A part-time role should be created to tackle food poverty, which should involve facilitating the work of the not-for-profit and voluntary sector to maximise their impact, and developing a food poverty strategy for Oxford. This strategy should aim to replicate best practice established by Bristol to reduce food bank demand and increase access to good and affordable food across the city.

Support for asylum seekers
81. Asylum seekers are a specific group that are likely to be affected by issues of inequality. We spoke to Asylum Welcome, a group that supports refugees, asylum seekers and immigration detainees by providing advice, practical services, human-contact and food. Asylum Welcome receives annual grant funding from the City Council, as well as funding from donations, trusts and foundations. Oxford is not a designated dispersal city and has a relatively small number of asylum seekers. However, the Campsfield House immigration detention centre is nearby and some local people are very active, which means that Oxford is able to punch above its weight and influence the national debate.
Asylum seekers are unable to work while their claims are being processed. They are therefore more likely to be dependent on food aid and some are living destitute in Oxford. Of these, 3 or 4 have the status of having No Recourse to Public Funds which means that they have been through the asylum process as far as they can and are liable for detention and removal, even if they have children. This is a particularly vulnerable and hidden group that falls outside of the remit of Asylum Welcome. We heard that other asylum seekers often find they are turned away from services even when they do have certain entitlements. Many asylum seekers who do have accommodation have reported having tenancy issues.

Asylum seekers often need access to legal advice, for example when additional evidence becomes available to support their asylum claim, or when human rights claims are made, which are no longer covered by Legal Aid. Asylum Welcome advised us that there are now fewer lawyers operating in this field and that they have on occasion paid for lawyers.

The City Council has made a commitment to Oxford’s mission to be a ‘City of Sanctuary’, and we asked what the Council could do to ensure that Asylum Welcome can remain viable and continue to support asylum seekers in Oxford. We heard that funding from the City Council is currently provided annually and that a longer-term funding settlement would provide more security and cut their administrative workload. We also heard that Asylum Welcome are paying a commercial rent on their currently premises which is going to increase by over 10%.

Recommendation 14 – We recommend that the City Council:

c) Identifies how it can provide a greater degree of funding security to Asylum Welcome. Consideration should be given to including their work within the remit of the Community Grants commissioning programme, which awards funding for 3 years rather than annually. This will reduce Asylum Welcome’s administrative workload and help to ensure that they remain viable over the medium term.

d) Explores whether it could provide low cost accommodation to third sector organisations by utilising unused capacity in Council-owned assets such as Community Centres.

Financial exclusion

People who are financially excluded are often in poverty or experiencing disadvantage and as a result they may be unable to access affordable credit or bank accounts, struggle to manage money or pay bills, or are financially at risk. 11% of Oxford’s population are indebted20. We strongly endorse the City Council’s Financial Inclusion Strategy and Action Plan which aims to address issues of debt, income, housing and skills over the short and longer term. The City Council also offers a Council Tax Reduction scheme which people on low incomes may be entitled to and Discretionary Housing Payments.

Welfare reform

20 Financial Inclusion Strategy, Oxford City Council, 2014
86. Research commissioned by the City Council found that the majority of people affected by welfare reforms in Oxford were in work on low pay. Some 14,950 households were £31 per week worse off on average due to welfare reform and 60% of these households have at least one person in work\textsuperscript{21}. Two particular groups of concern were identified; disabled people and lone parents. We endorse the work of the Welfare Reform Team which has been involved in a national pilot project in partnership with Jobcentre Plus, actively helping people affected by welfare reform by providing personal budgeting support.

87. We note that Universal Credit is now being gradually phased in. A claimant’s situation on the day of their assessment is what counts in calculating their entitlement, which will present difficulties for those in insecure employment or on zero hours contracts. We heard that this is hugely challenging but that the City Council is one of the best placed local authorities in the UK to support this transition. We urge the City Council to ensure that as many people as possible experiencing financial exclusion have the opportunity to benefit from the Welfare Reform Team’s transformative interventions.

Single view of debt

88. We heard that a number of people in debt owe money to the City Council and often these are multiple debts (e.g. Council Tax, rent, charges). We support moves towards implementing a ‘single view of debt’ so that these multiple debts can be identified, and where possible consolidated into more manageable single payments.

Independent advice

89. The Citizens Advice Bureau advised us that the four most common issues they deal with nationally relate to debt, benefits, housing and employment. The order and mix of these issues varies in different parts of the country and in Oxford the three main issues of particular concern are:

I. Housing supply and the quality of the private rented sector,
II. The benefits system letting down chronically disabled people causing stress and strain,
III. Poor employment practices causing insecure employment. In particular, the employment rights of new arrivals are not respected and people do not know what they are entitled to.

90. We welcome the City Council’s commitment to maintaining the level of funding the advice sector provides in recent budget rounds. To support this vital open-access provision, we would like to see the City Council making a commitment to protect funding for the advice sector over the medium term.

Debt advice

91. We heard from the Citizens Advice Bureau that some debt advice is available but it’s not enough. The provision of money management and debt advice needs additional resourcing because funding for the Citizens Advice Bureau to provide this one day a week in the Town Hall is being lost.

\textsuperscript{21} The impacts of welfare reform in Oxford, Centre for Economic and Social Inclusion, April 2014, p. 4
Unclaimed entitlements

92. We note that the City Council has provided funding to the Citizens Advice Bureau to help over 60s who don’t meet the threshold for social care to claim benefits they were entitled to. This project brought an extra £1m into the local economy, with the average pensioner who benefited being £2-4k better off. We heard that CAB plan to continue this work.

Recommendation 15 - We strongly endorse the City Council's approach to combating financial exclusion and recommend that the City Council:

f) Ensures that the Welfare Reform Team are fully and best deployed in order to provide greater assistance and proactively reach more people, particularly those moving on to Universal Credit,

g) Moves towards implementing a 'single view of debt' in order to identify multiple debts owed to the Council, and where possible, consolidate these,

h) Gives a high priority to continuing to protect the current level of funding for the advice sector over the medium term,

i) Identifies funding to maintain debt advice provision provided by the Citizens Advice Bureau, which is currently at risk,

j) Continues to work closely with CAB and other agencies to encourage the take up of unclaimed benefits.

Support for charities

93. We found that there is a wide range of charities operating in Oxford providing a various types of services and support. In many cases, they are unaware of what other charities and groups are doing and we heard from Community Action Groups Oxfordshire that there is no reliable local directory of charities. The Charity Commission website provides one option but is not always easy to use.

Recommendation 16– We recommend that the City Council establishes a reliable directory of charities for Oxford, setting out the aims, principle client groups and types of relief provided. This will help to ensure that local charities have a greater awareness of what other charities do.

Helping residents to fulfil their potential

94. City Council interventions can place a key role in helping residents to fulfil their potential and participate fully in society. For example, the Council’s Youth Ambition programme aims to help young people to broaden their perception of their own capabilities and stimulate ambition. The City Council has also invested significantly in improving educational attainment in struggling schools and is participating in the Business in the Community scheme where City Council employees provide mentoring to pupils at a city school. We would like the City Council to build on its role as a positive agent for change that can successfully transform residents’ lives, particularly for those in areas of deprivation.

Education

95. A number of people we spoke to including the Child Poverty Action Group, highlighted poor educational outcomes in some city schools as being a major cause for concern as it can perpetuate inequality and entrench intergenerational low aspirations. Education is a County Council function but the City Council has directed substantial resources at improving educational attainment in the city’s poorest performing schools over recent years. These investments have been scrutinised elsewhere but we strongly encourage the City Council to remain involved in addressing poor attainment because well targeted intervention can have a real impact in reducing educational inequalities, particularly at Key Stage 1 and key Stage 2. Past difficulties in achieving effective interventions in educations outcomes should not be used as an excuse to disengage. The absolute crucial role educational outcomes play in determining the life course of our children and their exposure to inequality are too great for this area to be overlooked.

Educational grants

96. We suggest that the City Council prioritises offering a new non-prescriptive educational improvement grant programme which is accessible to schools in deprived areas. Head Teachers could for example apply for grant money to fund a specific line item in their School Improvement Plan focused on Pupil Premium or Special Educational Needs pupils. The funding should be output-based so that uses that demonstrate positive impacts are prioritised for further funding.

Promoting take up of the pupil premium

97. We understand that since the introduction of universal free school meals, fewer parents of eligible pupils are registering their children and schools are missing out on pupil premium funding they are entitled to. The County Council is unable to access benefits data to determine which pupils qualify for pupil premium funding and we suggest that the City Council considers whether it has a role in solving this issue.

Recommendation 17- We recommend that the City Council continues to prioritise improving educational attainment in the city by:

  c) Offering a new educational grant programme to which Head Teachers from schools in deprived areas can apply. This programme would provide tangible output-based funding to reduce educational inequalities in city schools. The criteria for awards should be non-prescriptive but grants could be used to fund specific line items in School Improvement Plans focused on pupil premium and Special Educational Needs students, for example.

  d) Engaging with partners and considers whether it has a role in ensuring that eligible pupils are registered for the pupil premium so that city schools receive the funding they are entitled to.

Promoting opportunities

98. The City Council can play an important role in promoting and maximising the opportunities available to residents in areas of deprivation.

Careers Advice in Schools

99. We identified that careers advice in city schools is poor or lacking, particularly at years 7 and 8. While the City Council has no powers in this area, it could seek to exert some influence.
Social clauses

100. The City Council has been using social clauses to ensure that major development projects provide apprenticeship opportunities for young adults living in the more deprived parts of the city. We would like to see further use of social clauses to ensure that the benefits of development and growth are extended to all parts of the city. Assurance is also needed that developers contracted by the City Council deliver these commitments.

Discounts for tutors at community centres

101. We spoke to a social enterprise that was looking to provide an accredited course at Barton aimed at overcoming issues of low self-esteem in 12-15 year old girls and enabling them to build healthy relationships. We recognise that these types of issues require ground up solutions but feel there is a role for the City Council in providing facilitation that helps to make these types of solutions more viable. We note that Blackbird Leys Community Centre now offers substantial discounts to tutors hiring computers and providing educational opportunities. We note that there are plans to offer these discounts at Rose Hill and Barton and would like to see this offer extended to all Community Centres located in areas of deprivation.

Utilising partnerships

102. We suggest that the City Council should encourage more input from university students and sixth formers, including from private schools, in areas such as assisting younger children for whom English is not a first language, and in broadening access to resources such as arts provision.

Recommendation 18 - We recommend that the City Council utilises skills within communities and works with partners to maximise every opportunity to provide employment and career paths for more residents living in areas of multiple deprivation, including by:

h) Seeking to influence and improve the provision of targeted careers advice in schools, extending this to younger pupils (years 7-8), as well as offering mentoring into adulthood,

i) Extending the use of social clauses to create more and better opportunities for young people. Clarity is required as to how the City Council will ensure that developers deliver social clauses,

j) Extending the offer of reduced fees for tutors to all Community Centres situated in areas of multiple deprivations. The City Council should also continue to make better use of Community Centres and promote them as vibrant local hubs.

k) Maximising links with universities, private schools, the student hub and businesses to get more volunteer help for appropriate programmes. These opportunities could include coaching and mentoring to help vulnerable people into work, assisting young people to whom English is not a first language, and broadening access to resources such as arts provision.

Employment
103. Oxford benefits from a buoyant economy and high employment but it also has a strong low wage economy, with a lot of low paying and insecure jobs. Poor employment practices in the city were highlighted by a number of people we spoke to including the Citizens Advice Bureau. These include employers paying less than the minimum wage, employing staff on zero hours contracts against their will, and some restaurants charging staff to wait tables. We were also appalled at reports that a number of people in Oxford were arrested on slavery charges in March 2015. We suggest that the City Council seeks to utilise any influence it has in calling for an end to exploitative employment practices in Oxford.

Recommendation 19 - We recommend that the City Council calls on local employers to put an end to exploitative employment practices in the city. These include employers charging restaurant staff to wait tables, paying less than the minimum wage, and employing workers on zero hours contracts against their will.

Oxford Living Wage

104. The City Council is committed to promoting the Oxford Living Wage which is set at 95% of the London Living Wage and takes into account the high costs of housing and transport in the city. One of the biggest impacts that could be made on reducing inequality within Oxford is to lift the wages of as many people as possible to the Oxford Living Wage.

105. We spoke with the Living Wage Foundation about how they are developing the Living Wage. There are now 1,500 accredited Living Wage employers nationally. Future developments include an emerging consumer campaign, similar to the Fairtrade campaign, the introduction of Living Wage hubs in university cities, and an interactive app.

106. The Living Wage Foundation has genuine appreciation for the work of the City Council in this area and wants to work constructively with us. However, there is a tension due to Oxford having its own Living Wage rate which is different from the national rate. For them, this introduces complexity and can be confusing for employers, which runs contrary to what they are trying to do nationally. However, we believe that the very high cost of housing in Oxford necessitates a higher living wage rate than other areas of the country apart from London.

Recommendation 20 – We recommend that the City Council continues to look to raise wages by:

  d) Creating a Living Wage Hub in Oxford based around the Oxford Living Wage. This should involve a programme of activities to promote the Oxford Living Wage, and a distinct logo that Oxford Living Wage employers are encouraged to display. Ideally these activities should be led by engaged citizens but they may initially require some officer resource.

  e) Identifying a public face of the Oxford Living Wage which could be a member champion.

22 Seven arrested after warrants carried out - Vale of White Horse and Oxford, Thames Valley Police, March 2015
f) Working constructively with the Living Wage Foundation in promoting Living Wage Week and seeking to raise wages and improve working conditions in Oxford, particularly in low paid sectors such as hospitality, health and social care.

The City Council as an employer

107. The City Council is itself a major employer in the city and can have some limited impact on reducing inequalities through its own employment practices. In discussion with officers we identified measures that could extend employment opportunities at the City Council to the more excluded groups and communities, enabling the Council to build a workforce that is more representative of the diverse communities it serves.

108. We also considered whether there is scope for looking at salaries and the way salary increases are applied. If all employees receive the same percentage pay increase each year then the pay gap between higher paid and lower paid staff increases in cash terms. We suggest that there is a case for looking at increasing salaries of lower paid staff at a higher rate, in order to maintain rather than widen this gap over time.

Recommendation 21- We recognise that Oxford City Council is a major employer in the city, and recommend that the City Council continues to develop its own employment practices through:

f) More flexible recruitment practices such as accepting CVs and more widespread use of assessment centres,

g) An annual managed calendar of interventions targeting BME and other underrepresented groups,

h) Better targeting of constructive feedback to unsuccessful applicants,

i) Interactive and accessible recruitment webpages with guidance for applicants,

j) Uplifting the salaries of lower paid staff at a higher rate than those of higher paid staff to ensure that the pay gap between them doesn’t increase over time.

Conclusion

109. This cross-cutting review of inequality found that the City Council is doing a lot of very good work to combat persistent patterns of inequality in Oxford. These issues are complex and difficult to solve even with a strong partnership approach. Doing so is particularly challenging, but arguably as important as ever, at a time when public finances are constrained. We have recommended a wide range actions that we think and feasible and affordable. Taken together, these would enable the City Council to maximise its impact and make a significant additional contribution to combatting inequality in Oxford.

Further consideration

110. We recommend that the Scrutiny Committee should consider adding the following items to its work programme:
a) The Youth Ambition Programme
b) How well the Community and Neighbourhoods Team is meeting the needs of marginalised groups and communities
c) Fuel Poverty – uptake and results of thermal ratings surveys
d) Housing delivery models
e) Public transport costs

Scrutiny Review of Combatting Inequality – terms of reference

Background
At its meeting on 6 October, the Scrutiny Committee agreed to a proposal to establish a panel to review issues around inequality in Oxford. This panel would draw together and prioritise a number of different but related suggestions put forward by Councillors. The review panel was asked to meet to refine its terms of reference and report back to the Scrutiny Committee for approval. The following terms of reference were drafted by the panel before being agreed by the Scrutiny Committee on 10 November 2014.

Context
Oxford is a dynamic and successful city with relatively low long term employment. However, the cost of living is higher than almost anywhere else in the UK and this presents a number of challenges. Some areas of the City suffer multiple levels of deprivation, with low skills, low incomes and poor housing. The City also has significant numbers of homeless and other vulnerable groups. These challenges have been exacerbated by the effects of the economic downturn and by constrained public spending, and are expected to intensify in the years ahead.

Purpose of the Scrutiny Review
To review how the City Council contributes to combatting harmful social and economic inequality in Oxford, and whether there is more that could reasonably be done.

The central aims of the review are
- To understand the scale, reasons and impact of inequality in Oxford.
- To identify specific areas where the City Council can make the most difference in combatting inequality.
- To make deliverable, evidence-based recommendations that are co-produced with local citizens or stakeholders where possible.

Other aims include
- Identifying other studies that are currently taking place.
- Understanding the public sector equality role, how this is applied in practice and whether more could be done.
- Drawing on the views and experience of local professionals and non-statutory organisations.
- Seeking external expert perspectives that may challenge conventional thinking.
- Identifying gaps in provision or in partnership working where there are opportunities for the City Council to take a leadership role.
- Testing the claim that Oxford City Council does all it can to make Oxford a fairer, more equal place.

Out of scope
- Commissioning new academic or statistical research.
- Duplicating the work of other agencies such as Oxfordshire Clinical Commissioning Group and Oxfordshire County Council.
- Focusing on areas where the City Council currently has little influence e.g. Children’s Centres.

Methodology

Evidence gathering methods include:
- Review of literature, policy documents and research data.
- Call for evidence.
- Evidence provided at public hearings and workshops.
- Undertaking site visits e.g. to a food bank, health centre etc.
- Considering what could be learnt from other local authorities.

<td>We focus here on local evidence on child poverty. We see local factors as including housing, transport, planning, employment and education. The price of housing - recently reported to exceed London - is a significant contributor to local inequalities and divisions. It is also difficult for residents in the outer estates of the city to integrate with the rest of the community and have equal access to central facilities, given the price of transport. Planning policies are clearly critically important in the creation and maintenance of mixed communities, which in turn influence the quality of local facilities. In Oxford, 1 in 4 children live in poverty. There is a stark contrast between the north and the SE parts of the city, reflecting the socio-spatial distribution of housing: in 4 areas of SE Oxford, more than 30% do so, compared with 7% in North Oxford. More disadvantaged areas of the city also have poorer health and learning outcomes. Barton and Blackbird Leys have high rates of low birth-weight babies - significantly above the national average, with parts of North Oxford significantly below. Barton and Northfield Brook are in the 5% most deprived areas nationally on the Child Wellbeing Index.</td>
<td>We realise that the city council only has direct powers over only certain services and provision. However, these are important areas where it can act, and it can also be a leader in the local area in its efforts to combat poverty and inequality in partnership with other strategic organisations. It is already doing so in a range of ways we commend. Its pay policy aims to ensure that low-paid workers employed by the council itself and by grant-funded organisations receive a decent wage. The council's continuing support for advice centres also contributes greatly to addressing inequality. In the last full year these centres saw 13,913 clients and helped clients to gain an additional £2.7m. Advice workers helped at least 217 client households to avoid threatened homelessness. The council's policies as a landlord and as a creditor are key in terms of the impact of the authority on some of its poorest residents, and these should all</td>
<td>The withdrawal of legal aid, in particular for family law and welfare benefits, has resulted in the reduction of assistance for many in the most hard-pressed groups. We would urge the city council to provide increased support for advice centres. In addition, certain areas of the city have no local provision: for example, Cutteslowe, Wood Farm, parts of East Oxford. People living in poverty in these areas have to travel to the CAB or elsewhere for help and many find the bus fares prohibitive. There is virtually no advice help available to those in full-time employment. Oxford CAB runs a Saturday morning session but evening and weekend advice sessions elsewhere do not exist. Many people living in poverty cannot read or write English. There is a need for much more provision of interpretation/translation facilities in advice centres and other organisations serving the public.</td>
<td>The city council can tackle child poverty and inequality directly and also tackle their consequences. It should strive to increase the supply of social housing. It should continue to protect families from the impact of national housing policies restricting access and/or income (e.g. the 'bedroom tax'). The council should continue to pay the 'living wage' and protect full council tax support. It should encourage schools to ensure families eligible for free school meals register their children, and support holiday meals initiatives. Council funds for education/educational groups/activities should continue and be targeted at schools in the most disadvantaged areas. It should encourage schools to use the pupil premium to benefit the most disadvantaged pupils. The council should have a local food policy to address the needs of the poorest households, particularly with children - including helping sustain local food retailing capacity near where they live, so food good for health can be bought at affordable prices without having to pay for transport to the centre or outlying supermarkets. The council could encourage employers to advertise all local job opportunities as open to part-time and flexible working in the absence of convincing reasons against. Parents (especially mothers) would more</td>
In 2011, 17% of Oxford's households with children had no adult in employment - compared with 11% in the SE region and 14% nationally. Blackbird Leys, Churchill, Northfield Brook and Barton and Sandhills all had rates of over 25%. Barton, Greater Leys and parts of Cowley have high rates of children with below average levels of learning development at age 5. Young people aged 16-24 not in education/employment/training (NEETs) tend to be concentrated in Blackbird Leys, Rose Hill and Greater Leys. Oxford is the lowest performing part of the county for all the main end of key stage attainment measures at primary and secondary schools. 12 primary schools in the city (out of 30) have overall absence rates amongst the highest 20% nationally.

In common with CABs across the country Oxford CAB has seen a big increase in the number of clients with Council Tax arrears. In 5 clients owing money on Council Tax easily find employment meeting their needs, which would reduce child poverty. The council must also support child care for working parents.

Local employers could be encouraged to take on local workers where possible, and create the maximum number of apprenticeships, particularly for young people from disadvantaged areas.

The council could use the principle throughout its strategy to combat inequality of conducting itself as though the socio-economic duty on public bodies had been included in the Equality Act 2010 as originally planned.

Oxford CAB 1.1 Housing Pressure on housing stock keeps rents at unaffordable levels for many, especially when combined with local housing allowance levels based on a broader market reference area. Private landlords have little incentive to maintain properties well or manage tenancies properly. If tenants fall behind on rent it can be more beneficial to a landlord to evict the existing tenant, retain their deposit and then bring in a new tenant than to agree a long repayment plan. The City Council is working hard to increase the stock of social housing. Council tax banding could be re-visited. Retaliatory evictions in private rented accommodation is an issue. We recently advised a tenant who used her rent to pay for the elimination of vermin in her privately rented flat when 1.2 Welfare reform Council has put a lot of effort into supporting residents through benefit cap and under occupancy charges. In many cases however it is the cumulative effect of further charges that are driving the benefit claim process. Small delays in current welfare to work programmes have been linked to poor health because of delays in assessment of claims and delays in the receipt of payments.

1.3 Health inequality The number of claimants has remained stubbornly consistent in recent years. The benefit regime contributes to widening the gap in health inequality, linked to poor economic conditions and delays in the receipt of payments.

Gaps in service provision: Advice areas previously covered by legal aid so: benefits, debt, housing and employment plus large areas of family law also owes money on a credit, store or charge card. Gaps in service provision: Advice areas previously covered by legal aid so: benefits, debt, housing and employment plus large areas of family law. Bailiffs arrive at their door. In most of these cases this is because they have moved and mail has not been forwarded onto them. We were not surprised to hear that where possible cases do not need to be passed onto bailiffs. Avoiding bailiff action can help prevent debt being incorrectly escalated and ensure action is not disproportionate to the level of liability.

4.6 Could the City Council consider introducing a health impact assessment process to ensure that all relevant council policies, decisions and resource allocation contribute to health improvements? We were pleased to hear that the City Council had encouraged development of the health impact assessment framework. The framework includes identification of specific health outcomes, and assessment of the cumulative impact of policies, decisions and resource allocation on health. The analysis of the potential health impact of council policies and decisions should be undertaken in line with the health impact assessment framework. The framework provides a systematic and comprehensive approach to assessing the potential health impact of policies, decisions and resource allocation. It is an important tool for ensuring that the health needs of local residents are taken into account when making decisions and allocating resources. The framework is supported by evidence from a range of sources, including evidence from previous assessments and research. The framework provides a comprehensive approach to assessing the potential health impact of policies, decisions and resource allocation. It is an important tool for ensuring that the health needs of local residents are taken into account when making decisions and allocating resources.
| Oxford City council (Board Member) | poverty, low educational aspirations, low educational attainment in some of the city schools, hard to attract good staff in public sector as house prices very high, too many employers paying minimum wage, possibly discrimination in employment. NHS surgeries should do more outreach work to spot health problems early. | Difficult as a district council but more work needed to combat health and educational inequalities. More needed to help NEETS in the city as many need mentors job clubs and support of another adult to access opportunities. Job club needed at Bullingdon /peat Moors as there are 160 NEETS in Lye Valley according to Oxon CC | The football field at Peat Moors will not be marked out by the City Council as there is a pitch at Cowley Marsh. This centralisation of facilities is a severe discouragement to the socially disadvantaged in Wood Farm Churchill ward and Lye Valley. The community centre at Peat moors is small although the population is increasing. The other part of my ward Horspath lacks a community centre and the opportunity for exercise and social interaction that go with that. | Fund the marking out of the football pitch at Bullingdon /peat moors to encourage exercise and reduce health inequalities. Work with bus companies to improve access to new BBL pool from Hollow way area. Continue work to improve educational attainment as well as the youth ambition scheme. Try to work more closely with Pakistani origin community to encourage them into sport and community participation. Introduce language classes for those who wish to improve language skills |
| The Porch | a severe lack of affordable housing, an extremely expensive private rented sector and further cuts on the way. The Private rented sector being dominated by wealthy tenants therefore excluding the less well off. | Our experience of working with the city council has always been a very positive one. At The Porch we seek to support those who are homeless into accommodation and The council has always supported us in our efforts. | HOUSING I think that the council should turn to its colleagues and partners to help lift the burden. There is only so much a council can do, if there is still a need then others should share the responsibility. | Offer incentives to big institutions who choose to let property at the Market rate. Maybe a tax, a tax concession something like that. There is only so much that the council can provide and so in times like this they should be looking to distribute the burden. |

People do not know many of their neighbours.</td>
<td>Service provision does not seem an adequate response - inequality in Oxford is growing deeper than ever. A range of fundamental issues are unlikely to be handled in the short term, but drastic increases in the number of houses would be a start, as would policies that would cut the costs of that housing, whether it is rent or mortgages. plainly reduces teaching vastly, compared to whole class teaching. In private schools they maintain the hours to make sets work. The state system has never done that.

PARAMETERS, VARIABLES AND COMPARATORS: THE PARAMETERS. (THE VARIABLES ARE MISSING, AND CAN BE SUPPLIED BY INFANT SCHOOLS).

1. Teaching week hours = around 21.
2. Weekly time allotted for literacy = ?
3. Sets per LITERACY class = ? (my son had 5 in 1994, thus losing 80 percent minimum teaching time compared to me in 1958).
4. Pupil literacy teaching hours received = literacy time divided by sets. ? Obtaining the above from schools will give the following info –
5. Time wasted per pupil due to number of sets = THIS IS THE PROBLEM.

The point is that from 80 to 95 percent of infant literacy teaching has been lost to pupils since so called 'Ability Sets' or small group teaching was introduced in the 1960's.

The 'time wasted' was once learning time until classes were divided into small sets.

THREE COMPARATORS.

1. My infant school in 1958-59 gave 20 hours weekly for literacy. Giving approx 1,500 between ages 5 and 7, in whole class teaching.
2. Statutory Law for Infant Literacy Hours. The bare minimum used to be 5 hours weekly, which obviously would be for the top achievers. Lower achievers would get more and lowest 20 hours, what I got. Statutory Law was removed by New Labour in 2009.

3. The 'Oxford Experiment' which shows how efficiently I and millions were taught in the 1950's - the 'Oxford experiment' method does not waste time teaching sets independently of each other if they can benefit by being included. Being 'included' can increase teaching time by 500 to 600 percent without increasing the school day.

DO THE EXERCISE.

Whatever variables are supplied from infant schools, it will be very easy to see that 'time received for literacy' by pupils aged 5 to 7 will fall far far short of the time indicated in the 'comparators'.

Note - Statutory Law 5 hours weekly and 'Oxford Experiment' 45 minutes daily are both inadequate amounts of time for most pupils.

Oxford City Council Inequality Scrutiny Panel
Oxford City Council
St Aldate’s
Oxford
OX1 1BX

30th January 2015

Dear Oxford City Council Inequality Scrutiny Panel,

This submission to your current consultation is from the board of Healthwatch Oxfordshire, one of over 140 local Healthwatch organisations across the country. Whether it’s improving them today or helping to shape them for tomorrow, Healthwatch Oxfordshire is all about local voices being able to influence the delivery and design of local health and social care services. One of our board directors, Richard Lohman, has brought this matter to our attention and on behalf of the board I am pleased to forward his recommendations to you. I would be most grateful if the Inequality Scrutiny Panel would review this submission and assist local health, housing and social care commissioners and providers with considering the implementation of its five recommendations. This submission feels particularly timely due to the recent county council budget cuts agreed for homeless services.

I note from the record of your December meeting that the current commissioning model and consequent delivery of the ‘No Second Night Out’ (NSNO) service prioritises the visibility of homeless people over their needs and we are concerned that this might be having a negative impact on the appropriate discharge of people experiencing homelessness from hospital. The board is aware of the excellent work carried out by the NSNO staff on the ground in the city however there is concern that they could be constrained in their efforts by the priority dictated by the current policy, as could many dedicated local hospital NHS staff. There is concern that maintaining this priority of visibility over need together with the current model of ‘strict verification’ is causing both inappropriate discharge and delays in discharge as well as unnecessary re-admission to hospital of people experiencing homelessness. We understand that the ‘best practice’ that No Second Night Out is quoted as stemming from is not compatible with Oxford or the rest of the county. This is because it stems from a pilot in London which has significant differences between its health, housing and social care systems and those of Oxford and Oxfordshire.

Recommendation one: That the Inequality Scrutiny Panel assist in bringing about negotiations with local health, housing and social care commissioners and providers so that the current NSNO policy priority is changed to one of need over visibility and the verification process is amended to enable speedier hospital discharge and ease of hostel access for the most needy homeless cases.

Recommendation two: That the Inequality Scrutiny Panel assist in bringing about negotiations with local health, housing and social care commissioners and providers so that a number of bed spaces within each of the city’s hostels is allocated for the specific discharge from hospital of the most needy people experiencing homelessness.

Both these recommendations will require further co-operative work with the Oxford University Hospitals Trust as they will need to update their electronic admissions process so that more information is gathered than at present. We understand that the electronic admissions system currently only registers homeless people as being NFA, rather than as recommended within current good practice guidelines i.e. if sofa surfing then at which address and if rough sleeping then in which location. These guidelines are attached and have previously been provided to each of the OUHT, OCCG, the County Council Health and Wellbeing Board and to Stuart Bell, the chief executive of Oxford Health NHS Foundation Trust.

The board is also concerned that the current commissioning model and delivery of the ‘No Second Night Out’ service appears to create inequality of access to Local Authority assessment of people presenting as homeless. The consequence of this appears to be that people experiencing homelessness are being hindered in their right to a written decision from the local authority on their application as a person experiencing homelessness.

Recommendation three: That the Inequality Scrutiny Panel bring this matter to the attention of the local authority so that they may undertake a review and seek the views of homelessness stakeholders to enable a more rights based approach to be adopted.

It has also come to the board’s attention that despite the severe lack of hostel bed space availability people sleeping rough are being forcefully evicted from their camps.

Recommendation four: That the Inequality Scrutiny Panel consider strongly suggesting that this practice is stopped until bed spaces are available within the current hostel stock.

Recommendation five: That the Inequality Scrutiny Panel assist in bringing about negotiations with local health, housing and social care commissioners and providers so that a county wide discharge policy for people experiencing homelessness can be adopted as per best practice guidelines.

Healthwatch Oxfordshire looks forward to the Inequality Scrutiny Panel’s review of this submission and if the Panel requires any further information or clarification please do not hesitate to contact its office at the address above.

Yours faithfully

Jean Nunn-Price

Meeting Housing Needs

Increasing the supply of affordable housing

Housing and Property (Dave Scholes)

- Delivery of new social housing at Barton and elsewhere.
- Policy of 50% affordable housing in new developments.

- Attracting ethical or institutional investors into the city to rent quality accommodation at affordable rates.
- Explore different models of housing that are more versatile and affordable.
- Further consideration of factors around inequality and public health in the planning and development of sites.
- Increasing the variety of housing within new street scenes.
- Review balance of dwellings policy.
- Explore how the City Council can become a more agile operator in the housing market to ensure it secures best value for new property acquisitions (agreed in part).
- Pursue ‘real asset lettings’ at a pace.
- Enforce 50% affordable housing from developers.
- Offer incentives to big institutions that choose to let property at affordable prices.
- House students in student accommodation.
- Moratorium on new student accommodation.

Housing and Property (Bill Graves)

- Incentives offered to tenants to ‘downsize’ (Removal and Expenses Scheme).
- Mutual exchange scheme.

- Better exploit the benefits of Homeshare schemes.
- Research to understand the future requirements of people at the younger end of the ‘Older Persons’ category, so that the City Council can plan to best meet their future needs.
- Prioritising the creation of new social housing for single older people if the review provides evidence that this could reduce under-occupancy or meet the current or future requirements of older tenants.
- Promote the National Home Swap scheme.
- Penalise those who buy properties and can afford to leave them empty.

| Youth Ambition Strategy | The strategy focuses on 15-21 year olds, and our approach is to engage young people in positive activities and by doing so help them to broaden their perception of their own capabilities and to stimulate ambition and positive insertion into the community. These activities include:
- Targeted free swimming.
- Youth Ambition Grants programme to proactively seek applications from organisations aiming to reduce Child Sexual Exploitation and Extremism as well as applications supporting increased educational attainment and increasing the power and influence young people have over services that affect their transition into adulthood.
- Positive Futures Holiday Activities Fund - applications were invited from suitably qualified and experienced | - Investigate the feasibility of recruiting a women and girls participation officer to increase female representation / engagement across the programme and to also support vulnerable young people to stay safe, reduce risky behaviours and as a result reduce the risk of young people being either victims or perpetrators of crime.
- Increased training for all delivery staff enabling them to identify risk indicators and increased links to Thames Valley Police and Public Health to refer young people to specialist services when required.
- Increased training for young people supporting them to effectively engage with democratic processes and be the change they want to see in their communities.
- Continue to develop the partnership agreement with the county Council to ensure effective high quality |

Apprenticeships

Human resources (Jarlath Brine)

- Targeted recruitment of apprentice cohorts to OX1-OX4 postcodes and underrepresented groups.
- Equalities/ Apprentices Officer member of Oxfordshire Apprenticeship Group.
- 25 Apprentices employed directly by the City Council.

Job clubs

Neighbourhood Services (Angela Cristofoli)

- Grants provided to job clubs.

City Council Employment practices

Human resources (Jarlath Brine)

- Two Ticks accreditation & annual audits; facilitate reasonable adjustments for job applicants declaring a disability.
- Stonewall Diversity Champion.
- Diversity awareness workshops &EqIAs for CEB reports.
- Contribution of equalities analysis for annual and small grants application process analysis recommendations.
- Lead on Youth Careers Fest for the Council and other support

Identified gaps / opportunities

- Ensure that the creation of sustainable OX1-OX4 apprenticeships is built into all major procurement contracts (e.g. Barton/ Westgate/ Northern Gateway)
- Apprentice webpage.
- Reinstate £50k from 2015/16 or a sufficient amount to fund no fewer than 25 apprentices in future cohorts (not agreed).
- We recommend that the City Council seeks to increase apprentice pay in the next budget round (not agreed).

Identified gaps / opportunities

- There is a need to identify a sustainable funding stream. Currently proposals are being developed for an ESF bid but the future is uncertain.
- More interventions to help NEETS as many need mentors and job clubs (esp. in Lye Valley where there are 160 NEETS).

Identified gaps / opportunities

- Constructive feedback to unsuccessful applicants could be better targeted.
- Genuinely interactive and easy to access recruitment webpages with simple but impactful guidance, e.g. this is what a great application looks like.
- Flexible/ progressive recruitment, e.g. accepting CVs, more widespread use of assessment centres/ stakeholder | Welfare team response to government welfare changes | • Support to people affected by the impacts of welfare reforms, people in receipt of Discretionary Housing Payments and those in rent arrears. Many of these interventions are transformative and focused on changing lives rather than just income streams. In some instances interventions last for over 12 months. The team has successfully moved around one third of the people they work with into sustainable jobs. These include people with multiple complex needs, those who face tough barriers such as the long term unemployed, and people wouldn’t be expected to find a job in a government scheme such as parents with over four children who are affected by the bedroom tax. Restore have trained staff to recognise mental health issues. | • Continue to develop a strong partnership approach so that interventions can be deeper and wider.

| Advice services for residents facing social and financial problems | Customer Services (Helen Bishop, Paul Wilding) | - Grants provided to advice agencies for 3 years.
- One-off isolation funding to the Citizens Advice Bureau in 2014/15 generated over £1m of additional income for clients. |
| Social inclusion / support to vulnerable groups | | - Ensure Financial Inclusion work is prioritised and funded over the medium term.
- Support Credit Unions to have a wider and more effective reach.
- Ensure that address checks are carried out to ensure that wherever possible, cases do not need to be passed to bailiffs.
- Lobby for more progressive Council Tax. |
| Social Inclusion | Communities and Neighbourhoods Service (Luke Nipen) | - The Social Inclusion Fund (£60k) supports community projects that help people of all ages feel more included in their community, builds their skills and increases their sense of achievement. |
| Grants to voluntary bodies | Community and Neighbourhood Services (Angela Cristofoli/ Julia Tomkins) | - Community Grants are aimed at projects that do one or more of the following (£95k awarded in 2013-14):
  o Promote community activities and cohesion o Get more people involved with the arts
  o Tackle anti-social behaviour and improves community safety o Promote and protects the natural environment and biodiversity
  o Tackle social inequality |

| The work of neighbourhoods team | • Community development. Engaging with diverse groups including BME and older people to help them to develop their priorities and engage in their geographical community. This involves trying to overcome negative perceptions of the City Council, which are poor in some cases. 18 month project funding provided to CAB to provide capacity for home visits to reduce unclaimed benefits.
• Activities for older people aimed at reducing isolation e.g. Go Active programme.
• Working with health partners in regeneration areas. | • Increased presence of City Council services at Community Group meetings.
• Promote the City Council as an employer by advertising in community papers.
• A high level review to flag up any issues of non-compliance with the Equalities Act.
• Much more public engagement.
• Restore area parliaments. |
| Communities and Neighbourhoods Service (Angela Cristofoli) | | |
| Community centres in priority neighbourhoods | • There are 19 operational community centres in Oxford, many of which are owned by Oxford City Council. The centres are managed by Community Associations made up of local workers and volunteers.
• Delivery of new Rose Hill Community Centre
• Reduced fees for tutors using Blackbird Leys Community Centre | • Consider better utilisation of Community Centres to support the City Council’s objectives.
• Extend discounts for tutors to more community centres. |
| Communities and Neighbourhoods Service (Mark Spriggs) | | |
| Leisure | • Active women campaign
• Free swimming for under 17s | • Fund marking of football pitch at Peat Moors.
• Work with bus companies to improve access to the new BBL pool from Hollow Way.
• Keep Temple Cowley Pools open.
• Try to work more closely with the Pakistani community to encourage them into sport and community participation.

New suggestions

These are new suggestions that have been made by Councillors. When selecting and prioritising items for the scrutiny work programme, members are asked to apply the following criteria:

- Is the issue controversial / of significant public interest?
- Is it an area of high expenditure?
- Is it an essential service / corporate priority?
- Can Scrutiny influence and add value?

The Scrutiny Officer has provided some suggested scores against these items but members may wish to review and re-prioritise these.

2 = Yes / High
1 = Moderate / Some constraints
0 = None / Little

* = High spend by other authorities.

MINUTES OF THE SCRUTINY COMMITTEE

Tuesday 2 June 2015

COUNCILLORS PRESENT: Councillors Simmons (Chair), Hayes (Vice-Chair), Coulter, Fry, Hollick, Henwood, Lloyd-Shogbesan, Smith, Taylor, Upton and Fooks.

BOARD MEMBERS PRESENT: Councillor Dee Sinclair

INVITEES AND OTHER MEMBERS PRESENT: Councillor Elise Benjamin, Councillor Ruthi Brandt and Councillor David Thomas

OFFICERS PRESENT: Richard J Adams (Community Services), Jeremy Franklin (Law and Governance), Elaine Philip (Markets Manager), Andrew Brown (Scrutiny Officer) and Catherine Phythian (Committee Services Officer)

1. ELECTION OF CHAIR FOR THE COUNCIL YEAR 2015/16

The Scrutiny Committee elected Councillor Simmons to be the Chair for the Council Year 2015/16.

2. ELECTION OF VICE-CHAIR FOR THE COUNCIL YEAR 2015/16

The Scrutiny Committee elected Councillor Hayes to be the Vice-Chair for the Council Year 2015/16.

3. APOLOGIES FOR ABSENCE

Apologies for absence were received from Cllr Altaf-Khan (substitute Cllr Fooks) and Cllr Darke.

4. DECLARATIONS OF INTEREST

There were no declarations of interest.

5. UPDATES SINCE THE LAST MEETING

The Chair welcomed Cllr Taylor as a member of the Scrutiny Committee and thanked Cllr Anwar for her contribution to the work of scrutiny.
The Committee paid tribute to the valuable contribution that the late Cllr Val Smith had made to the work of the Scrutiny Committee and the Scrutiny Housing Panel.

Cllr Van Coulter reported that the Inequalities Scrutiny Panel had concluded its work and would present its report to the Scrutiny Committee meeting on 30 June 2015, for onward submission to the City Executive Board on 9 July 2015.

The Committee noted the dates for the next Standing Panel meetings.

6. SCRUTINY OPERATING PRINCIPLES AND PREPARATION FOR THE 2015/16 WORK PROGRAMME

The Scrutiny Officer presented the report.

Scrutiny Operating Principles 2015/16
In discussion the Committee agreed the following points:
- The Finance and Housing Standing Panels should continue in 2015/16;
- Membership of the Housing Panel should be increased to 6 councillors;
- Chairs of the Standing Panels would be elected at the first meeting of that Standing Panel;
- The timing of the Finance Panel meetings should be flexible so that if possible it could report back to the Scrutiny Committee on the budget proposals.

The Committee resolved to APPROVE the scrutiny operating principles for 2015/16 as listed in the report.

The Committee resolved to APPROVE that the following councillors should serve as members of the Finance and Housing Standing Panels in 2015/16:
- Finance Standing Panel: Cllrs Simmons, Hayes, Fry and Fooks.

2015/16 Work Programme
The Chair said that the 2015/16 Work Programme would be discussed and determined at the meeting on 30 June 2015. Members were asked to submit any further topics to the Scrutiny Officer by 12 June 2015. The Scrutiny Officer reminded the Committee that, if appropriate, some items on the work programme could be the subject of a member briefing session rather than a scrutiny review.

7. REPORT OF THE LOCAL ECONOMY SCRUTINY PANEL

Cllr Fry presented the report and recommendations of the Local Economy Panel which had been formed to examine the situation of small and medium enterprises in and near the city centre during a time of major developments which will affect the trading environment while construction occurs. The Panel considered how the City Council could make the city centre even more attractive to the public and to local businesses.

In discussion the following points were made:

• That there was a case for the Local Economy Panel to continue looking at this, and related issues, in other parts of the city in 2015/16;
• That consideration of the business case for a BID in Oxford City Centre should be added to the work programme and that this should include looking at the scope for public involvement in that initiative;
• That there was a strong argument for returning to previous practice in having a dedicated point of contact / lead officer for businesses within the Council.

The Scrutiny Committee resolved to APPROVE that the Local Economy Panel Report on Support for Businesses in the City Centre should be submitted to the City Executive Board subject to the following amendment to Recommendation 7 (text in italics):

7. We recommend that the City Council takes a lead in establishing and facilitating a city centre commercial property landlord forum. This would be intended to bring together the owners of commercial properties, including the City Council, to ensure that there is a coordinated approach towards issues affecting the city centre, such as the minimisation of the time during which premises are empty. The forum could be chaired by the Leader of the Council and linked to the work of the Town Team and constituted based on the model of the previous Pensions and Language School forums. We also suggest that its membership should include a representative of each political group and that City Councillors should be able to observe meetings of the forum.

8. CITY CENTRE PUBLIC SPACES PROTECTION ORDER (PSPO)

Cllr Sinclair, Executive Board Member for Crime, Community Safety and Licensing and the Service Manager, Environmental Protection presented the report. She said that this was the second Public Spaces Protection Order (PSPO) in Oxford and that it was aimed at tackling long-standing problems of anti-social behaviour within the city centre. She said that it was the Council’s intention to be fair and balanced in its enforcement of the PSPO.

The Committee heard the following addresses:

Cllr Thomas: urged the Council to reconsider its position on busking as he believed that the consultation responses suggested there was no enthusiasm for such a measure. He suggested that the problems associated with busking would be better managed through use of a Community Protection Notice. He said that the Code of Conduct for Busking and Street Entertaining needed revision and referred the Committee to examples of documents produced in York. Copies of the personal material circulated by Cllr Thomas at the meeting, but which do not form part of the Council report, are appended to these minutes.
Cllr Brandt: urged the Council to take a sensitive and collaborative approach with local organisations and communities to deal with anti-social behaviour issues rather than to introduce the PSPO.

Giles Payne of Crisis Skylight, Oxford - welcomed the Council’s decision to revise its position on rough sleeping and asked that they reconsider their position on begging. He said that it would be difficult to differentiate between instances of rough sleeping and begging and questioned the practicality of imposing Fixed Penalty Notices.

The Committee asked a number of questions around: what powers PSPOs replace, alternative powers available to the City Council, the wording and interpretation of the PSPO, how evidence is gathered, the enforcement process, and how representative the results of the consultation were.

In discussion the following points were made:

Control of dogs and street drinking: The Committee noted that there was a legal requirement on the Council to replace the existing city wide public space restrictions on dog control and street drinking. The inclusion of these issues in the PSPO was a replacement of existing provisions.

Begging: The Committee considered a proposal that ‘persistent begging’ should be removed from the PSPO. A majority of members did not support this proposed change. The Committee also discussed whether ‘persistent begging’ should be changed to ‘persistent and aggressive begging’. A majority of members did not support this proposed change.

Enforcement: The Committee expressed concerns that enforcement was potentially quite a subjective matter and asked what guidance or rules were given to officers. The Service Manager, Environmental Protection explained that the Council followed a 3 stage approach to enforcement:

1. Early intervention & discussion
2. Issue of a Fixed Penalty Notice
3. Prosecution

He said that the preferred approach was always to take early action and speak to the individuals about the problem. This was found to be the most effective approach when dealing with anti-social behaviour. He offered to provide the Committee with a report detailing the breakdown between early intervention and enforcement actions. He informed the Committee that a corporate enforcement policy was being developed and would go to the City Executive Board later in the year. This would in effect be a code of conduct for enforcing officers. The Committee suggested that guidance should be available to officers and be in the public domain before any enforcement action is taken.

Busking / Code of Conduct: The Committee considered a proposal to remove ‘breaches of the Code of Conduct for Busking and Street Entertaining in Oxford’ from the behaviours included in the PSPO. A majority of members did not support this proposed change. The Committee supported having a code of conduct for buskers and the principle that buskers should busk for a maximum of 60 minutes in any one place, as this enables more people to have the opportunity to busk in prime locations. The Committee felt that the City Council’s Code of Conduct for Busking and Street Entertaining in Oxford could be strengthened and should be reviewed in light of examples of policies in other cities such as Liverpool and York, as well as input from groups such as the Musicians Union.

Sleeping in toilets: The Committee noted concerns about ‘Sleeping in toilets’ as this is primarily a safeguarding issue. The Committee suggested that officers should look at whether including this behaviour in the city centre PSPO would have a differential impact on equalities, for example by affecting women more than men.

The Scrutiny Committee AGREED to make the following recommendations to the City Executive Board:

1. that an Enforcement Code of Conduct for Officers should be produced and that this code should be in place and in the public domain before any enforcement actions are taken under the City Centre Public Spaces Protection Order;

2. that the existing ‘Code of Conduct for Busking and Street Entertaining in Oxford’ should be reviewed and revised to provide a more comprehensive “Guide to Busking and Street Entertaining in Oxford”. This guide should be accessible to buskers, street entertainers, businesses and the public, and draw on examples of good practice from other cities such as Liverpool and York, as well as input from stakeholders such as the Musicians Union;

3. that officers are instructed to look at the differential equalities impact of the proposal to include the behaviour of sleeping in public toilets within the City Centre Public Spaces Protection Order, having regard to safeguarding concerns for vulnerable adults.

9. COVERED MARKET LEASING STRATEGY

The Markets Manager presented the report which provided details of the updated leasing strategy for the covered market. She explained that the updated Leasing Strategy builds on the 2007 leasing strategy, by incorporating the conclusions and recommendations of the 2013 review of the covered market management and operations. The draft revised leasing strategy was shared in a meeting with covered market traders in February 2015 and circulated to all traders for consultation. No substantive responses or concerns were received by officers.

The review identified a range of improvements which were needed to raise the market’s trading performance. This included the need for a change in the retail mix and improvements in the quality and range of traders.
In discussion the Scrutiny Committee made the following points:
• It was essential that the distinctive character of the market was maintained;
• Were there sufficient incentives to attract the right mix of traders;
• the wording at paragraph 3.13 should be reviewed for clarity.

The Scrutiny Committee AGREED to make the following recommendations to the City Executive Board:

1. That paragraph 4.4. should be amended to read “Uses which detract from the Market’s special character will be discouraged avoided, for example, electrical / white goods, mobile phones, travel agents, estate agents, nailbars and other ‘high street’ type operators.”

2. That paragraph 4.9, bullet point 6 should be amended to read: “Independent with limited (typically usually less than 10) other shops.”

10. REPORT BACK ON RECOMMENDATIONS

The Scrutiny Officer presented the report back on recommendations. He said that he was chasing for updates and for the outstanding written responses from by the Executive. The Chair said that it was pleasing to note that the majority of scrutiny recommendations were accepted by the Executive.

The Committee NOTED the report.

11. MINUTES

The Committee resolved to APPROVE the minutes of the meeting held on 27 April 2015 as a true and accurate record subject to the following amendment:
• that Cllr Coulter be included in the list of those present.

12. DATES OF FUTURE MEETINGS

The Committee NOTED that next meeting was scheduled for 30 June 2015, and that further meetings were scheduled on the following dates:

7 September 2015
6 October 2015
2 November 2015
8 December 2015
12 January 2016
